COMMON SENSE

Tells anyone that it is an utter impossibility for a merchant to sell goods continually AT C-O-S-T.

A legitimate business can never be conducted on such a basis, as taxes, rent, insurance, etc., must be paid and a living earned. We do not conduct our business upon such a principle, and we only ask a reasonable advance on all our goods. We believe in dealing and know that our goods and prices prove what we say. Give us a call and be convinced.

Michael Schwab was a native of Bavaria, 34 years old. He was fairly well educated, and learned the bookbinding trade in Germany. He inflicted himself on America in 1875, living a year or two at Milwaukee, and since at Chicago. He was a writer on the Arbeiter-Zeitung.

Adolph Fischer, twenty-nine years old, has lived in America fifteen years. He was a printer on the Arbeiter-Zeitung. He is married and has two children.

Oscar Neobe is also a German. He is now serving a fifteen years' sentence in the penitentiary for his connection with the Haymarket riot.

Louis Lingg, the dynamiter, paramount of all, who fittingly ended his life with a fulminating dynamite cap, was the youngest member of the fraternity. He was only 23 years of age. He was born in Baden, Germany, where he received a common school education. He came to America three years ago, and has been identified with the Anarchists ever since. He is thought to have been insane.

THE NORTH CORRIDOR.

(A) Cells where the anarchists have been confined. Upon entering the jail for the purpose of consulting with any of the prisoners, the visitor is ushered into the wire cage shown at the right of our cut. If he is not a lawyer or has no special business with a prisoner, he must remain on the outside and talk with the prisoners through the small checkers. That is where Nina Van Zandt touched thumbs with Spies every day. The wires are so close together that kissing can only be indulged in at long range, and not being very satisfactory is not often done. The row of cells to the right is what is known as "murderers' row." There is where the seven condemned men were finally kept.

THE CITY UNDER GUARD.

Police Detectives and Militia Under Arms Watching Chicago Property.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—One law almost have thought that martial law had been declared in Chicago from the appearance of this city during the night. The unusual excitement that has characterized this town for the week past was, if possible, intensified when darkness set in. The police were not the only ones who patrolled the streets of the city on the alert to protect the lives and property of the city from the destructive anarchist. All the detective agencies were taxed to the utmost to supply the great demand for watchmen and private police made by those who, fearing trouble, desired to be fully prepared for anything that might turn up. A large squad of men from Mooney & Boland's agency was on duty and Pinkerton also had all the men he could get out, either patrolling the streets or watching the big buildings. On all sides could be seen men in uniform, armed with long night sticks and carrying dark lanterns, which they kept continually flashing, both at the suspicious passer by and into the dark nooks and corners of the neighboring buildings.

GUARDING THE WATER WORKS.

There was a place outside the jail that is being guarded more than another it is the water works. The authorities realize that if this were shut off the city would not only suffer thirst, but that it would give the incendiary a splendid chance to work his sweet will in the city. Men are guarding both the north side water works, at the foot of Chicago avenue, and the west side works, situated at Ashland and Blue Island avenues. The crib, through which the water flows into the city, and which is over three miles off shore in Lake Michigan, is also carefully guarded. The immense stone structure covering the square bounded by Clark, Jackson, Dearborn and Adams streets and known as the government building, is also under a special guard. In this monster building are situated not alone the post office and custom house, but also the sub-treasury with its millions of money.

CORRIDOR IN JAIL IN WHICH EXECUTION TOOK PLACE.

The city hall and county court houses—these twin structures that in their hideousness disgrace Clark street—were fully filled by police and detectives. In the city building are the police headquarters and a large force are held there in reserve. Private detectives and watchmen as well as police are guarding the postal board of trade on La Salle street.

GUARDING PUBLIC PERSONAGES.

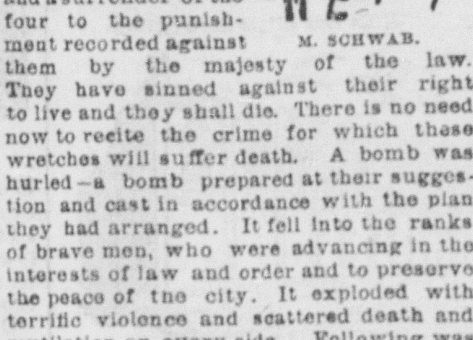

Not alone the homes but also the persons of all who had a hand in bringing the anarchists to justice are being watched by the police, so that they shall not become the victims of an assassin. Those being thus shadowed are Judge Gary, States Attorney Grinnell, Superintendent of Police Ebersold, Inspector Ebersold, Captain Shack, Sheriff Matson, and such of the twelve jurors as are in the city. At all the police stations are stationed a large reserve force.

The fire telegraph system is being carefully guarded, and additional men are stationed in the receiving stations.

UNDER ARMS FOR FIFTY MILES AROUND. By order of Adjutant-General Vance all the regiments within fifty miles of Chicago are under arms to-day. The Springfield regiment, which is in the army, will not come to Chicago, but remain there to guard the state property.

half. From the tribunal in which conviction was secured the case was taken to the supreme court of Illinois, and after the supreme court of the nation. Again it was affirmed, and then, by every conceivable means and without hindrance, the vast army of their advocates, friends and sympathizers moved upon the governor, in whose clemency was vested the last hope. Here every class of society many of illustrious men, gave weight to the heartrending appeal. Not only from this city and state, but from every city in the nation poured beseechings that he would exercise the great prerogative given him to wield for the people's good.

These in favor of death offered little opposition, preferring to stand upon the law and the executive's sense of duty to the state. The law and effort had been expended, and now comes mercy for two and assurance for the four to the punishment recorded against M. SCHWAB. They have sinned against their right to live and they shall die. There is no necessity for a death offered for the execution of a man who has committed a crime. A bomb was hurled at a man prepared at his suggestion and cast in accordance with the plan they had arranged. It fell into the ranks of brave men, who were advancing in the interests of law and order and to preserve the peace of the city. It exploded with terrific violence and scattered death and mutilation on every side. Following was a storm of revolver bullets. Sixty-six of the city's defenders fell.

M. SCHWAB.

ENGEL IN HIS CELL SHORTLY BEFORE THE EXECUTION.

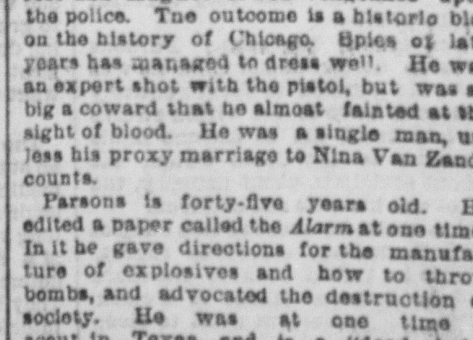

Sketch of the Anarchists.

August Spies, the leader of the anarchists, is a German. He came to this country when sixteen years of age, and is now thirty-two. He has had little schooling, but has always been a student after his own fashion. At twenty he had learned and discarded the trade of saddler and trumped for two years through the south and west. At twenty-four he returned to Chicago and assumed the role of politician, which has a large circulation and great influence with the workmen. Spies gradually moulded the paper into an anarchistic sheet after the style of Herr Most's Freiheit. Most and Spies were bosom friends and composed a mutual admiration society. The Arbeiter Zeitung printed Most's instructions as to how to make a revolution, and advised the "rolling masses" to arm themselves against their enemies, the "wage-slave drivers" and to "spare no one; nor wife nor child in the great struggle for freedom," which was about to occur. This course destroyed the influence and decimated the circulation of the paper, but brought many converts to the anarchistic idea and bore its legitimate fruit in the Haymarket tragedy. Spies' hatred of the police was intensified by the killing of his god-for-nothing younger brother, William Spies, by a policeman in 1884. William was a leader in a fight two months before his death in which a farmer near Chicago was killed, but Spies was acquitted of the crime. He was shot while resisting arrest and August owed vengeance upon the police. The outcome is a historic blot on the history of Chicago. Spies of late years has managed to dress well. He was an expert shot with the pistol, but was so big a coward that he almost fainted at the sight of blood. He was a single man, unless his proxy marriage to Nina Van Zandt counts.

Parsons is forty-five years old. He edited a paper called the Alarm at one time. In it he gave directions for the manufacture of explosives and how to throw bombs, and advocated the destruction of society. He was at one time a "dead shot" in Texas and is a "dead shot" in Chicago. He has never overburdened himself with work, but is a born agitator. His wife is quite as ardent in anarchism, and has addressed audiences in this city within a year in behalf of the condemned Anarchists of Chicago. She has negro or Indian blood in her veins. She is a good speaker, is an earnest denouncer of society and makes vague appeals to arms.

Sam Fielden was a native of Lincolnshire, England, and is forty years old. He worked in a cotton mill from his ninth year till he reached his majority. He joined the Wesleyan M. E. Church, and was a Sunday school superintendent at 18, and afterward a preacher. He came to America in 1859, lived three years in Cleveland, and since 1860 in Chicago. Fielden was the brightest of the anarchists, and had a woe-begone little wife, who suffered terribly during the strain of the past month.

George Engel was born in Cassel, Hesse, in 1859, and came to America in 1874. He has always been a socialist of the violent type and was business manager of the Arbeiter-Zeitung.
