Thomas Stevens, who has just been around the globe on a wheel says that the best roads in the world are found in British India. The Grand Trunk road is 1,600 miles, an unbroken highway of marvelous perfection, from Pershawar on the Afghan frentier to natural concrete, beds of which lie along the line.

How such roads would be appreciated by the enthusiastic 'cyclers of this

WHEN TO CUT TIMBER. - Experiments have shown that the best time to cut timber for use either in building, manufactures, or as fuel is when the trees are in leaf. Indeed some claim that it cut during this period its durability is twice that of winter felled wood. If there is no time to spare for working it up when cut, it should be peeled and raised from the ground to help drying.

THE English Government is seriously considering the cultivation of forests in Ireland. Mr. Howitz of Copenhagen, one of the highest authorities on this subject, has visited Ireland, and studied its adaptability to forest cultivation, and pronounces it one of the most favorable countries in the world for the growth of timber.

PROFESSOR E. M. SHELTON, Farm Manager of the Kansas Agricultural College, has handled three or four distinct breeds of swine, and studied them carefully during many years. When asked which is best he admits that he would be "sorely puzzled to tell." Each has sterling points and counterbalancing weakness.

A POULTRY fancier, who believes in the value of ensitage for fowls during the winter, thinks it does not pay to construct silos to preserve it in. He uses old but tight casks, liquor barrels, or molasses hogsheads. To keep their contents at the proper temperature he sinks them under ground. He finds that short clover, rye, and tender grass, like that cut from a lawn, make the best ensilage for fowls.

Many papers have recommended testing garden and field seeds by placing them between layers of damp cotton, and putting them in a sunny place in a room. This is not a very severe test. Seeds not entirely lacking in vitality would germinate under such favorable circumstances. They might not sprout, the able consulting physician to the rich however, if they were placed in the patient, and praised by all for its magnifisoil where they are ordinarily planted, and it is possible that they would not produce plants that would stand ordinary exposure if they did.

FARM NOTES

How To FEED Horses -Some one says that more horses are annually killed or injured by over-feeding and by injudicious feeding than by starvation or most other causes. In horses we can detect as many different temperaments and dispositions as in men, though but few horse owners take this fact into mature consideration in the management of their horses, particularly in that part of it relating to food and feeding. Some horses are natural gluttons, and they must be seen to carefully, or they will, at times, be apt Calcutta. It is made of smooth, hard, to seriously injure themselves by feeding too fast, while much of the food they consume will pass through them undigested, for the simple reason that it is swallowed before it had been properly masticated. We like to see what is termed a "good feeder," (one which does not mince or pick carefully over his feed,) but then we are not at all partial to the ravenous ones. Such a world, however, is Richard Howell, of horse as the latter named. will dive Leicester, England. KILLING RATS .- One of the best articles known for killing rats is plaster of Paris (calcined gypsum). It should be thoroughly mixed dry with an equal part of flour and Indian meal, and placed where they can get at it. The rats will gorge themselves with the mixture without distrust; it will set and harden in their stomachs and death will soon follow.
