Threats of Even the Pope. DUBLIN, May 28.-Mr. John Dillon, addressing a National League meeting at Kildare yesterday, denounced in scathing terms the bishops who support the papal rescript. The National Party, he declared, are not afraid of the threats of any bishops, or of the mandate of the Vatican, neither are they going to abandon the plan of campaign and boycotting, the weapons with which they have fought their battle until now.

Mr. William O'Brien, addressing the immense meeting at Limerick, employed the most bitter invectives in characterizing the conduct of Bishop O'Dwyer, whose threats, he said, were the most rash and unjust ever issued by a prelate.

The Bishop left Limerick Saturday evening, manifestly not caring to remain in the city during the storm he must have known his letter would create. A large number of meetings were held throughout Ireland yesterday. They were uniformly orderly and peaceful, and free from Government interference.

JERSEY OFFICIALS INDICTED. Four Members of the Jersey City Board of

Works of 1887 in Trouble. JERSEY CITY, May 25 .- Indictments have been found by the Grand Jury of Hudson County, against four of the members of the Jersey City Board of Works of 1887. They are Commissioners Reynolds, Watt, Kern and Hilliard on twelve counts for malfeasance in office and conspiracy.

The Board was politically tled, Reynolds and Kern Democrats, and Watt and Hilliard, Republicans, formed a combination known as the "Big Four" against Van Keuren, Republican, and Somers, Democrat. The spoils were shared in a way that has resulted in the indictments.

The Grand Jury's investigation continued until nearly midnight, but the news of their decision did not leak out until this afternoon.

Burned to Death by Drunken Italians. WILKESBARRE, Penn., May 28 .- A number of drunken Italians returned to their boarding house in West Pittston on Saturday night, and in their carousel upset the lamp. The house caught fire and Grace Sarageni, daughter of the proprietor, was burned to death. Leo Sarageni, thirteen years old, was so badly burned that he will die. All of the drunken Italians escaped, with the exception of one who is probably fatally burned. Two Italians, who were sober, and in bed, jumped from the second story window. One of these had his skull fractured and the other had his leg broken.

Lay in a Stuper Five Weeks, Then Died. NEWBURG, May 27 .- Gertrude, nine-yearold daughter of Rev. Thomas Dusinberry, of Livingston, Sullivan County, is dead. For five weeks she had lain in a stupor, during which time no food or stimulants had passed her lips. The only sign that life was not extinct was a slight warmth of body and a scarcely perceptible pulse. On one occasion she became conscious for a few moments, spoke to her parents and at once relapsed into unconsciousness.

Fell Into the Cistern.

TROY, May 28. - Elijah Holcomb, after attaining the age of 85 years, met his death in a peculiar manner yesterday. He went to the cistern in the rear of the house on George street, Green Island, to procure some water. The pail slipped from his hands into the water, and in jumping to recover it he fell head first into the water. The accident was witnessed from the house, and although assistance was prompt the old man was dead when taken out.

A Woman Mangled With an Axe.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 28.-In a small farmhouse in the village of Pierrepont Manor, Jefferson County, Julia A. Dewey was mangled with an axe so that she will probably die. The axe has been found in the sluiceway on the road passing the house, a short distance away. Mrs. Dewey is a widow and lives with her two young children. The woman may live two or three days. She was conscious, but did not dis close the name of her assailant.

A Generous Bequest.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Scenes in the House During the Recent Dead-Lock-Members Found in Queer Places-Anderson Rushes from a Barber's Chair to Cast His Vote.

[Special Correspondence.] The recent dead-lock was one of the longest ever known in the history of Congress. It lasted just a week and a day and two all-night sessions were held. During that time not a single item of business was transacted. The members dropped their petitions and private bills into the bill-box as usual, and they appeared in the Record next day. Committees were allowed to meet, but few did, as the situation in the House was too critical for all concerned.

The various employes of the House were worked harder than ever. The doors had to be watched, the pages had to run errands, the telegraph operators had to be at their

the telegraph operators had to be at their keys, the clerks were kept busy calling the rolls and keeping a record of motions, the stenographers had to takedown every thing that was said. The Speaker's work was hardest of all. At one time twelve motions were made, one on top of another. They went like this:

"Mr. Speaker, I move to excuse the gentleman from New York, Mr. Brown, from

"Mr. Speaker, I move to excuse the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. Jones, from voting on his motion to excuse the gentleman from New York, Mr. Brown." "Mr. Speaker, I move to excuse the gen-tleman from Massachusetts, Mr. Smith, from voting on the motion to excuse the gentleman from Virginia from voting on So the tangle went on. A school-boys' debating club could not have produced a worse muddle.

The scenes during a night session were sometimes thrilling, more often ludicrous. At one time when the Speaker pro tem, Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, had his gavel suspended in mid-air ready to fall with his decision that the House was adjourned, things waxed warm. The usual way of adjourn ing is when a motion is made to call for a viva voce vote. The Speaker's first words after such a vote are: "The yeas (or the nays of they are the least bit louder than the yeas) seem to have it," and instantly thereafter, if no call for the yeas and nays is made, he will say; "The yeas have it and the House is adjourned." If the yeas and mays are ordered the long, weary roll must be called, which takes about twenty minutes. When Mr. Mc-Millin's gavel was in mid-air the House was in perfect pandemonium. He could as easily said: "The yeas have it," as not. That ould have adjourned the House and closed the legislative day, for which the cause of all the trouble, the bill to refund to the States their respective quotas of the direct war tax of 1861, was the special order. Men sprang half-way up the steps to the Speak-er's chair. Had the gavel fallen Mr. Mc-Millin would have been mobbed by one-half the House and defended by the filibusters. Funny things occurred when a call of the House was ordered. Under the call the doors are locked, noses counted and the

Henry Cabot Lodge was just being decorated with the victors' ribbons at a fashionable fox hunt. Leopold Morse was found in his nightshirt smoking a cigar just before getting into bed. Frank Lawler was calling on a

One Congressman was found sick at home with the mumps. It took a good deal of talking to persuade the Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms to leave him with his wife.

Congressman Anderson, of Kansas, never missed a vote. He was in the barber shop just off the floor of the House when one vote was taken. Jumping out of his chair he rushed into the chamber in his shirt-sleeves, his face covered with big gobs of lather, and voted amid shouts of laugh-

Congressman Vance snores badly. About two a. m. he lay vibrating in slumber on a soft couch in the rear of the chamber. In two minutes every cuspidor was transferred to Mr. Vance's recumbent person and rising and falling with his steady and ponderous breathing. When the dead-lock was over it took an hour to read the journal. The legislative day had reached over from April 4 to April 12. The reading of the various yea and nay roll-calls was dispensed with. Had they also been read it would have taken not less than four hours. The result of the filibustering was a great victory for the filibusterers. Sixty-one members had bulldozed two hundred and sixty-four out of their clearly-defined will. It is said President Cleveland is responsible for the dead-lock, as he did not want to voto the Refunding bill before the November elections, and Attorney-General Garland had given him his official opinion that the bill was unconstitutional and would have to be vetoed. GOING WEST.

The general interest that has been taken in the opening of the Montana Indian Reservation is shown by the large number of people who have already gone to Great Falls to investigate the mineral and agricultural resources of that wonderful country. The low ex-cursion rate announced by C H Warren, Gen. Pass. Agent of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, makes the expense of exploring this country merely nominal, and will undoubtedly result in a still larger number following.
