

Laid in a Soldier's Tomb

Last Chapter in the History of Gallant Little Phil.

ELABORATE FUNERAL RITES.

The President and Many Distinguished Friends of the Brave Soldier Gather in St. Matthew's Church, Washington—The Ceremonies at the Grave.

ONQUITT, Aug. 17.—The Sheridan cottage is closed. This little town has been besieged by sightseers ever since the general's death.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The mortal remains of Gen. Philip Henry Sheridan were laid away in the grave on the hillside in Arlington cemetery this afternoon, in the presence of his widow and relatives, the president of the United States, cabinet officers, senators, congressmen, army and navy officers and a vast concourse of citizens.

The final act was a triple salute, consisting of, first, seventeen guns from the light batteries; second, three salvos of musketry from the battalion, followed by "taps" from a cavalry trumpet.

THE SHERIDAN FUNERAL.

For the services three chairs were placed on either side of the main aisle in front of the pews. A prie dieu was before each chair. The chairs on the right were occupied by Mrs. Sheridan, Col. Sheridan and another brother. Those on the left by the president, Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Folsom.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S WILL.

He Leaves One-third of His Estate to His Wife—Other Bequests.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Gen. Sheridan's will was filed and admitted to probate in the probate court here yesterday. The will is dated May 25, 1888. It leaves to his wife one-third of his real estate, except the Ohio homestead, and one-third of all the personal property in lieu of dower.

INDIANA REPUBLICANS.

Wasted Enthusiasm for Porter—State Ticket Nominated.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 10.—The first session of the Indiana Republican convention was devoted to organization, adoption of the platform and shouting for Porter. The enthusiasm was unbounded and he would undoubtedly have been nominated by acclamation but for the nominative announcement that he would decline it. This put a wet blanket on the convention and there was a marked revolution of sentiment. Hatred of Porter was as vehemently expressed as was the enthusiasm for him shortly before. A recess was taken, during which the matter was finally settled and his friends reluctantly forced to abandon all hope of inducing him to accept. The first ballot resulted in the selection of Gen. Alvin P. Hovey, member of congress from the First district.

Gen. Hovey was one of the most brilliant soldiers furnished to the war by Indiana. He conceived and fought the battle of Champion Hills, the turning point in the Vicksburg campaign. He received his education at West Point, but had retired from the regular army long before the war of the rebellion and began the practice of the law at Mount Vernon, this state. He served a short time on the supreme bench. Though a Democrat all his life, when the war broke out he offered his services to Governor Morton, and was given command of a regiment. He soon rose to the rank of major general. He served to the end of the war, and retired with a most brilliant record. Two years ago he was nominated for congress in a district that had been giving a Democratic majority of from 1,700 to 2,500. His popularity among the soldiers was such that he was elected by a majority of 1,900.

Gen. Hovey was a private soldier. Two years ago he was nominated for congress against Mr. Matson, but was defeated. He is a preacher of the Christian or Campbellite persuasion, and is very popular. He has been department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

IN CONGRESS.

Supervisors of Elections and the Department of Justice.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The debate on the fishery treaty was continued in the senate yesterday.

Mr. Edmunds called up his resolution asking for information from the department of justice as to a letter said to have been written by the acting attorney general to the supervisor of elections in the city of New York stating that the supervisors of elections would be paid for five days' service only during the November election.

Mr. Call, of Florida, spoke in favor of its ratification.

Mr. Call was followed by Mr. Gray, of Delaware, who urged the advisability of further consideration of the treaty until a more quiet season, when there was no political excitement.

Mr. Gray then turned his remarks to politics.

Mr. George read from The Boston Herald the report of a meeting of the Deep Sea assembly, Knights of Labor, held at Gloucester, at which resolutions were passed protesting against the fish treaty and favoring competition as the only remedy. He asked Mr. Hoar if The Herald's report of the meeting might be relied on.

Mr. Hoar said that there were a great many things in that paper that would very much mislead anybody, but it would not publish a narrative of facts which it did not believe to be entirely true.

Continuing, he said that the picture which the assembly of Gloucester Knights of Labor had drawn of the fisheries and the factory interests and of the laboring men and capitalists of Massachusetts was a slander. There was not a basis of truth in it. As to the lecture read to the senate by Mr. George, he thought it exceeded the limits of comedy and burlesque, for that senator, whose ideas of capital and labor, until within the last twenty-five years, were that capital should own and have a right to whip the laborer, and separate him from his wife and sell his children, to get up in the senate and undertake to taunt the people of Massachusetts about shackles and unrequited toil. That senator's later notions would be found on the records of the senate in the Copiah and Jackson reports; and his style of mathematics (applied to the counting of votes) would be made known before the close of this session.

THE PLATFORM.

The President's Message Indorsed by the Democratic National Convention.

The Democratic party of the United States, in national convention assembled, renews the pledge of fidelity to Democratic faith, and reaffirms the platform adopted by its representatives in the convention of 1884, and indorses the views expressed by President Cleveland in his annual message to congress, the correct interpretation of the platform upon the question of tariff reduction; and also indorses the efforts of our Democratic representatives in congress to secure a reduction of excessive taxation. Chief among its principles of party faith are the maintenance of an indissoluble union of free and independent states, now about to enter upon its second century; unimpeded progress and renown; devotion to a plan of government regulated by a written constitution strictly specifying every granted power, and expressly reserving to the states or people the entire ungranted residue of power; the encouragement of a jealous popular vigilance, directed to all who have been chosen for brief terms to enact the laws of the nation, and charged with the duty of preserving peace, ensuring equality and establishing justice. The Democratic party welcome an exacting scrutiny of the administration of the laws, and wish each year ago was committed to its trust in the election of Grover Cleveland as president of the United States, and it challenges the nation to a searching inquiry into its fidelity and devotion to the pledges which then invited the suffrages of the people. During a most critical period of our national affairs, resulting from over taxation, the anomalous condition of the currency and a public debt unmanageable, it has by the adoption of a wise and conservative course not only averted disaster but greatly promoted the prosperity of the nation.

It has reversed the impudent and unwise policy of the Republican party touching the public domain, and has reclaimed vast tracts of public lands, syndicates, alien and domestic, and restored to the people nearly one hundred millions of acres of valuable land to be sacredly held as homesteads for citizens.

While carefully guarding the interest of the taxpayers and conforming strictly to the principles of justice and equality, it has paid out more for pensions and bounties to the soldiers of our civil war than it has ever paid before during an equal period.

By intelligent management and a judicious and economical expenditure of the public money, it has saved the treasury of the American navy upon a system which forbids the recurrence of scandal and insures successful results. It has adopted and consistently pursued a bold and prudent foreign policy, preserving peace, and maintaining all the rights and interests of our government and people at home and abroad.

It has been effectually secured under the provisions of a treaty, the operation of which has been postponed, by the action of a Republican majority, the right of our citizens to the public lands.

It has reformed the civil service has inaugurated and maintained by President Cleveland, and he has brought the public service to the highest standard of efficiency, not only by rule and precept, but by the example of his own untiring and unselfish administration of public affairs.

In every branch and department of the government under Democratic control the rights and the welfare of all the people have been guarded and defended; every public interest has been protected, and the equality of our citizens before the law, with regard to race or color, has been steadfastly maintained.

Upon its record thus exhibited and upon the pledge of a standard of efficiency, the benefits of good government, the Democracy invoke a renewal of the popular trust by the re-election of a chief magistrate who has been faithful, able and prudent.

The Republican party controlling the senate and houses of congress are in favor of a reform of unjust and unequal laws, which have outlasted the necessities of war and are now undermining the abundance of a long peace, deny to the people equality before the law, and disturb the peace of our homes, industry is stifled with false promises, letters and bonds are sold to home markets, capital is disturbed with doubt, and unequal, unjust laws can never be properly amended nor repealed.

The Democratic party will continue to reform these laws in accordance with pledges of its last platform indorsed at the ballot box by the people, and to secure to the land of all the industrial resources of our land an immense majority, including every tiller of the soil, gain no advantage from excessive tax laws, but the price of nearly every article is increased to the detriment of an unequal system of tax legislation.

All unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation. It is repugnant to the creed of Democracy, and it is a burden upon the people, which should be removed. The necessities of life should be unjustly increased to all our people. Judged by Democratic principles, the interests of the people are betrayed, by unnecessary taxation, trusts and combines are permitted to flourish, which will unduly enrich the few that combine to rob our citizens by depriving them of the benefit of natural competition. Every Democratic rule of government, which is vitiated when through unnecessary taxation a vast sum of money beyond the needs of an economical administration is drawn from the pockets of our citizens, and accumulated as a demoralizing surplus in the national treasury.

She Tried and Knows.

A leading chemist of New York says: "No plasters of such merit as the Athlophoros Plasters have ever before been produced." They are a novelty because they are not made simply to sell cheap, they are the best that science, skill and money can produce, and will do what is claimed for them. For sprains, aches, weakness, lameness, etc., they are unequalled.

44 Fulton St., New York, N. Y.
The Athlophoros Plaster acted like magic. It is the best I ever tried and I used many kinds. Our druggists said "plasters are alike, credit the same, but I don't think so now. I sprained my arm and shoulder in July, and it has been painful since, but it does not pain me at all now."
Send 6 cents for the beautiful colored picture. "Moorish Maiden."
