Last Sunday evening about ten o'clock one of the worst storms that ever passed through Penns valley, passed over here at James Spangler's, some trees were blown down, and about one-half his barn roof was blown off; a little farther east it it was similar to a western cyclone, and was the worst that ever passed through here. The rain that accompanied it was very heavy, and had an easterly course. There was nothing killed but a few chickens for Geo. Meissand John Lee. Hope that we may never experience and other such a storm.

-Several freight cars were hustled around lively at the station the other night. One had the trucks knocked out from under it and another came near going over the end of the switch loaded with coal stoves.

-A steadily increasing list of subscribers is an indication that the PEPOR-TER's labors are appreciated, all of which is gratifying. We are cutting off the heads of those who seem willing to take the paper and defraud us out of the pay.

Sunday evening there came the heaviest shower we had this summer, the rain pooring down in torrents. The corn crop has all it needs now to make it a large one. At $.20 Sunday evening it began to rain again and continued to pour down in torrents until about 10we do not remember of it ever raining heavier here, and it must have caused floods and damage in some localities and along the streams. A high wind accompanied the rain and uprooted several trees in this section.

---Mr. Royer, of Millheim, who is on the search for his wife, was here on Saturday. Mrs. Royer disappeared some three weeks ago ,at night. She had relatives at Tyrone, and the husband had gone out there to see whether she had been there. The friends at Tyrone, however, knew nothing of her. Mr. Royer says that his wife was traced as far as Ceatre Hall, but could get no fur-ther traces. He save he received a let-ter from Martha Furnace, this side of Tyrone, saying that a woman answering the description, had been seen there, but he could get nothing definite.

There is a story out, among the many out, that Royer alleges to have come across his wife at Wiers, near Warriors Mark, and claimed her as his wife but she denied it, and refused to go with him, and that the woman acted like an insane person. This was before Royer's return from Tyrone, and will not correspond with what he said at the Centre Hall mill, on his return from his trip to Tyrone namely telling Messrs Kurtz and Harter that he found no traces of his wife in that section.

ing mill of the Barcroft estate recently, and has some extensive improvements in view. He expects to remodel the interior, put in new machinery with the roller system, and have a full and complete mill of the latest inventions for manufacturing flour and feed. Mr. Allison never does anything by halves, and his enterprise and push have been felt since he became a resident of the place.

A FAMILIAR SIGN.

In perambulating about the place we noticed a familiar sign; it was that of the Centre County Times. We called on T. Benton, and found him "not at home." The "devil" bobbed around, and with a twink in his eye ventured the information, "Bent is away again to see his girl. Don't know when he will be back." He evidently has other forms in view, and tope he will make a good impression

Across the way we found the postmaster, Wm. Pealer, busy behind the counter waiting on his customers, but always finds time for a shake of his hand and a pleasant chat. Mr. Pealer is one of those genuine Jeffersonian Democrats, who takes an interesting part in politics and is well versed on issues of the day. We soon found that his ideas and ours are identically the same on such topics as politics, tariff reform and free whiskey,

-the latter should not be misconstrued.

BASE BALL INTERVIEW.

From an interview with Gates Kennelly, the base ballist, we learned that Spring Mills had a dandy team; had defeated Miliheim and Rebersburg this season, and thought it was their turn to | ward. come up and give the Centre Hall team a cleaning out, to try which he received a hearty invitation.

A CLEVELAND CLUB MEETING.

A Cleveland and Thurman club was organized at this place several weeks ago by the enthusiastic Democracy of the vicinity. Prof. W. A. Krise was elected president and W. J. Hanna secretary, with a considerable number of members, which we are glad to note are increasing at every meeting. The regular time for meeting is Friday evening of each week, and that evening an interesting program was prepared. A discussion on Tariff Reform by Messrs. Warren Krise and Cyrus Grove, and speakers from Bellefonte, who were expected to be present, but failed to put in their appearance. The young gentlemen who took part in the discussion handled their subjects with much ability and brought forth some convincing argu-ments, on the side of Tariff Reform, which were listened to with marked interest and attention. The Chair then called upon your most humble servant for a speech, and like the girl who didn't like her beau, said she had to marry him to get rid of him, had to make a speech to get out of it.
