A leading chemist of New York says: "No plasters of such merit as the Ath-lo-pho-ros Plasters have ever before been produced." They are a novelty because they are not made simply to sell cheap, they are the best that science, skill and money can produce, and will do what is claimed for them. For sprains, aches, weakness, lameness, etc., they are unequaled.

404 Fulton St., Sandusky, O., Nov. 21, '87.

The Athlophores Plaster acted like magic. It is the best I ever tried and I have used many kinds. Our druggdst said "plasters are all about the same" but I don't think so now. I sprained my arm and shoulder in July, and it has been painful since, but it does not pain me at all now.

MOTION TO ADJOURN.

The Resolution They Longed for Comes at Last.

SENATE TARIFF BILL CONDEMNED

Mr. Wheeler Wants the House to Resolve to Fight 1t to the Death-Mr. Oates Offers the Resolution to Adjourn Tomorrow-Powwow with Big Indians.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16,-Mr. Oates, of Alabama, offered a resolution in the house adjourning congress sine die on Wednesday, Oct. 17. The resolution went over.

Mr. Wheeler offered a resolution reciting that the senate tariff bill is more oppressive to the mass of the people and more in the interest of monopolists than any measure ever proposed in any legislative body of which we have a record. Therefore

Resolved, That the Democratic members of this house pledge themselves to continue their efforts to defend the people against this unequal, unjust and unwise legislation, which, if enacted into law, must inevitably check and limit the sale of American products in foreign countries, stimulate and strengthen the operations of combinations and trusts, and prolong, if not perpetuate, the subjection of the people to the exactions of accumulated capital; and the Democratic members of this congress will maintain the contest upon this floor until the victory is won, or the duties with which they have been charged by the people lapse by constitutional limitation;

Resolved, That the senate tariff bill should be discussed upon this floor to the end that its features may be exposed and made known to the

Referred to the committee on rules. The Sioux Indian chiefs held their conference with the secretary of the interior in a room in the interior department building. Seated with the secretary were the members of the commission, and there were a number of spectators—many ladies—in the room. The conference was opened with prayer in the Sioux language by Rev. Mr. Cleveland, a member of the commission, and when he repeated the Lord's Prayer some of the Indians repeated it with him. Secretary Vilas then asked the Indians to state freely their objections to the proposed law providing for a sale of a portion of the great Sioux reservation in southern Dakota. Sitting Bull, as soon as the secretary finished speaking, stepped forward. He said that he did not propose to make a speech; he simply wished to say that he belonged to the government of the United States, and when he addressed the secretary and members of the commission as "My friends" he did so because he was one of the people.

Indians, he said, wished to speak in regard to this law-men to men-and he hoped that everything would be done in a quiet manner. The old war chief then turned to his seat, while a chorus of approving "ughs" went up from the other Indians.

John Grasse, the leading speaker among the Indians, then took the floor. At first he spoke slowly and stopped frequently to consult with the Indians seated near him. He apologized to the secretary for taking the time for consultation by saying that he was an ignorant man and could not use notes. He therefore made use of the Indians as note books. He spoke for about an hour and covered the entire ground of opposition maintained by the Indians. He said that he had never opposed the bill as a whole, but only as to some of its parts. In speaking of the treaties of 1868 and 1876, he asked why the obligations of these trea ties had never been executed by the govern ment. Under the former treaty the money due them had never been paid, the schools promised had not been established until ten

Pointing to a map which he had taken from his pocket, he asserted the western boundary line of their reservation should be a long way west of its present location. He wanted to know who had moved this line and who had gotten the land that rightfully belonged to them. His objection to the present law was that the portion of the reservation the gov-ernment proposes to take by rights contains a great deal more than 11,000,000 acres. He said he had changed his mind about the price they ought to receive, and was now of the opinion that instead of fifty cents per acre they ought to have $1.25, just what the gov-ernment sells its lands for. Since he had been here, and also while passing through the great cities on his way, he had learned that the white people did not want their reserva tion thrown open to settlement. He asked that all the land in the reservation be classed as grazing land, and not as farming land, thus enabling those entitled to 160 acres to get 320. He maintained that it was wrong to give heads of families double the amoun given to women and children, and said that the old men would soon die and therefore would not need so much land as the young men who had their own way to make. He counseled that the disposition of the reservation should be delayed for the present at least, Speeches were made by sixteen chiefs, who repeated the points raised by Grasse. Big Mane, of Lower Brule agency, announce himself as in favor of the law, and expressed confidence in the good intentions of the gov ernment. He was the only speaker who favored the law. White Ghost and Drifting Goose, of Crow Creek agency, claimed that the members of the commission had endeavored to secure the compliance of the Indians by harsh words. They declared that the commissioners had seized the Indians and had dragged them forward to the table to sign the paper.

Commissioner Cleveland said to a United Press reporter who sat next him that the language used by these Indians was hyperbolic, and that, of course; force in no form was used or attempted to be used. Maj.

Anderson, the agent, corroborated this state When the Indians had concluded speaking Secretary Vilas told them that all they had said would be laid before the president. They would be informed of his decision on Wednesday morning at the same place. He hoped they would come prepared to either approve or disapprove this decision.

The conference then adjourned. K. of L. Executive Board in Session. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16. - The regular monthly meeting of the general executive board of the Knights of Labor began at the neadquarters of the order in this city, with Messrs. Powderly, Maguire, Bailey, Aylesworth and Hayes present. The other two members of the board, Messrs. Carlton and Barry, have placed their resignations in the hands of the board, and the action upon them will constitute one of the most important events in the history of the order. The board only transacted routine business. The resignations of Messrs. Carlton and Barry will not come up before Wednesday, and the case of Master Workman Skeffington, of the Shoemakers' national district, who is to be tried on the charge of inducing his district to leave the order, is set down for Thursday. The board will be in session about a week.
