

TO PRESERVE CRAB APPLES.—Sort four apples and the perfect ones put by themselves, trim the stem (leaving about an inch on the apple) and scrape out the blossom end, wash them, put in a porcelain or other preserve kettle, cover with water, cook until you can run a straw through, skim out and weigh, to each pound take a pound of sugar and a cupful of water, boil and skim, put in the apples and boil until clear, skim out, boil the syrup a few minutes, then pour over the apples. The water the apples were boiled in first measure, and to each pint put a pound of white sugar, boil an hour, and it makes a beautiful jelly. Cut the worm holes and other bad places from the poor apples, toll and jam through a colander, adding sugar same weight, and cooking until thick.

A HUNDRED YEARS A HERO!

How Seth Warner Won a Wife and Became Famous,

Colonel Seth Warner, of Vermont, the famous hero of the Revolutionary war, was a leading fighter for the Hampshire grants.

These titles were disputed by the State of New York, and its authorities obtained an edict of the King of England in their favor. The settlers were stung by the supposed injustice. This state of things brought Colonel Seth Warner to the front. With Ethan Allen and others he actively opposed every effort of the New York state authorities to enforce possession, and finally he, with Allen and others, were outlawed and a price put on their heads!

To circumvent New York, it was necessary that some one should go into that state and gain required information. Col. Warner, assuming for safety the name of "Dr. Howard," undertook this perilous and romantic journey.

While on his way home he stopped at a country inn, where an old gentleman and daughter were storm-bounded. The father fell ill and the daughter called upon Col. Warner, who, with his wide knowledge of simple remedies, successfully treated the "old man," and he finally won this devoted woman for a wife.

Such incidents were not uncommon in those years. When the doctor was not easily reached, months of sickness, and even life were often saved by some unprofessional friend versed in the use of simple herbs and roots. The health of early settlers and the power of endurance convince us that such medicines did only good and left no poison in the blood to work as much injury to the system as would the disease itself.

In time of peace the colonel was in constant demand for his knowledge of simple remedies and their power over disease. But it was left to another of his name of the present age to give to the public what was then used with such positive success.

Warner for over a hundred years has shared with Ethan Allen the admiration of the American people.

Colonel Seth Warner belongs to a family of wide distinction; no less than eight members thereof won fame in the regular practice of medicine.

Looking to the adoption by the people of this generation of the old time simple remedies, his direct descendant, H. H. Warner, the well-known proprietor of Warner's safe cure, for many years has been experimenting with old time roots and herbs formulae and, his search having been finally rewarded with success, he gives the world the result. These recipes and formulae in other days accomplished great things because they were purely vegetable and combined simply so as to cure the disease indicated, without injury to the system. In harmony with their old time character, we learn that he proposes to call them Warner's Log Cabin remedies, using as a trade-mark an old-fashioned American log cabin. We understand that he intends to put forth a "sarsaparilla," for the blood, the sarsaparilla itself being but one of a number of simple and effective elements; "Log Cabin hops and buchu," a general stomach tonic and invigorator; "Log Cabin cough and consumption remedy," "Warner's Log Cabin hair tonic," a preparation for that universal disease catarrh, called "Log Cabin rose cream," "Warner's Log Cabin liver pills," which are to be used in connection with the other remedies, or independently as required.

Warner's safe remedies are already standards of the most pronounced scientific value in all parts of the world, and we have no doubt the Log Cabin remedies, for the diseases they are intended to cure, will be of equal merit, for Mr. Warner has the reputation of connecting his name with no preparation that is not meritorious.

MINCED BEEF AU GRATIN.—Two cups of cold beef minced fine, one cup of mashed potato whipped light with a half cup of milk, a teaspoonful of butter and an egg. Put the minced beef into a greased pudding dish, first seasoning it well. A little made mustard or a teaspoonful of some good sauce is an improvement. Moisten it thoroughly with gravy and cover with mashed potato, which must be entirely free from lumps. Sprinkle with fine crumbs and brown in a quick oven. This is an agreeable variety on the reappearance of the cold meat, and is very appetizing made from corn beef.

FOR GRAPE BUTTER stew the grapes and squeeze out each pulp from the skin, removing the seeds; keep the skins in a small tin bag, to each pound of pulp allow one pound of sugar, half a pint of cider vinegar, one teaspoonful of cloves, one of cinnamon and one of nutmeg; boil this very slowly, putting in the bag of skins tied securely; when it jellies by dropping into cold water it is done. Put away in jars. For an ornamental dish it can be heated over and put into molds to jelly.

TOMATO SCALLOP.—Put a layer of sifted bread crumbs in a deep baking dish, lay over sliced tomatoes, seasoned with pepper and salt, bits of butter and two tablespoonfuls of sugar; put over another layer of tomatoes and seasoning, continue till the dish is filled, cover the top with bread crumbs and bits of butter; bake half an hour.

FARM NOTES.

BARNYARD MANURE.—Although commercial fertilizers can be made to supply the elements that are wanting in the soil, the use of barnyard manure that has been thoroughly fermented and well rotted will supply all that may be required by plants; but the point in selecting fertilizers is to procure those that assist to make the barnyard manure more complete. The farmer can judge of the quality of the manure to a certain extent by comparing its quality with that of the food from which it is produced. Rich food makes rich manure, and yet if the food is rich in nitrogen and deficient in the phosphates it is only rich so far as its use is to be applied to certain kinds of crops, as some crops prefer manure rich in nitrogen, others desire potash, while others thrive best on manure abounding in the phosphates. By carefully selecting the fertilizers that will "balance" the manure the farmer will save the expense of procuring substances of which he is not in need.

FEED WARM SWILL TO YOUR PIGS IN A WARM PLACE. Feed often and but little at a time, so that the pigs always come to the trough with a good appetite, and there be no will left to sour. Feed the swill as fast as it is made, so that it doesn't get sour. Try to get your litter of pigs in March or April, so that they will be fit for sale in early winter. Breed only once a year, as this is a sufficient strain on the vitality, and breed to mature parents. If you breed from too young parents you increase the probabilities of infirmity and disease to which the pig is especially liable. Whenever you bring a new pig on the farm, shut it up by itself for at least three weeks, until you have ascertained it to be perfectly healthy, before you let it among the others.

The value of the food is not in the available material contained therein for the production of meat or milk only, but also in the amount of quality of the manure derived therefrom. It has been estimated that one-third of the food eaten goes into the manure. As the manure, then, is simply the food stored away for future use, it is important that in order to derive the greatest benefit from the food manure should be carefully managed to prevent loss. As the food is not exposed to injury by air and water the manure is equally serving of care. The manure-heap is the savings bank of the farm.

DRINKING THE WHOLE MILK makes fine fat calves, but calves raised on skim milk and oatmeal and bran, if not so sleek at 8 months old, had a better start in bone and muscle and beat the more pampered calf at 2 years of age. It is waste of cash product to feed a calf whole milk after its rennet stomach changes so as to call for solid food, and it is a mistake to so feed it after it is 10 days old. Warm skim milk and a little oatmeal are much better.

It takes about ten ears to average one pound of evaporated corn, and 100 pounds of fresh-cut corn will make a trifle over twenty-five pounds of the finished product of high grade. If the corn be hard and nearly ripe this yield would be increased, but at the expense of quality. Such corn will sell at from 8 to 10 cents per pound in car lots. Most of those engaged in evaporating corn have increased their business gradually, and pay from 25 to 40 cents per 100 ears, or about $9 per ton delivered at the factory in the husk.

THERE IS A TIME TO MARKET produce, and that must be regarded if success is hoped for. It is decidedly best to market as much produce as possible in the immediate vicinity of one's home, and to sell directly to the consumer. In this way usually better prices are maintained, as there are no middle-men to get their share, and there is also the advantage of dealing with people whose standing is familiarly known. But even if lower prices must be taken as a rule, it is better to sell near home than to take the risk of marketing at a distance.

LOG CABINS were strongholds of love, contentment, health and happiness. Coon skins were nailed to the door and they were happy homes of strong, healthy, noble men and women. The simple but effective remedies which carried them to green old age are now reproduced in Warner's "Tippecanoe," and Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla and other Log Cabin Remedies.

HAVE A PLACE in which to deposit what-ever will burn. A shallow trench of proper size should be made to hold the ashes. When a burning has been made, cover the trench with boards to prevent the ashes from being blown away. By care in gathering the rubbish, a supply may be secured without outlay of ashes, one of the most valuable of fertilizers.

A GRAPE GROWER says: I "have bagged many clusters while in blossom to prevent rosbags, and the uniform result is that they will produce no grapes unless blossoms be ready to drop or are already off when bagged. But, if well fertilized, the best quality of fruit is produced by bagging."

To be thrifty our animal must be comfortable. This is true in the summer as well as winter.

FATAL ADVICE.—Miss Dollface had been told by her physician that stenography was an unhealthy occupation, and he advised her to laugh whenever practicable.

"Never mind your surroundings," said he. "Whenever you think of it, throw back your shoulders, expand your lungs, and give a good hearty laugh. Then you will keep out of my hands and may literally laugh at consumption. Good morning."

The next day her employer was dictating a letter, and had got as far as:

"Then he paused a moment for breath. 'Ha, ha, ha!' rang out Miss Dollface's fresh young voice upon the clear morning air. It was a delicate rippling trill, of which a bird might almost have been proud; and a passing stranger paused a moment to listen, and then went on his way rejoicing that there was still so much innocent cheerfulness left in this great and wicked city.

But that stupid Mr. Broadgauge refused to listen to any explanations, merely remarking in a cold, unfeeling tone, when she confided to him her fears and her physician's advice, that he guessed he would have to get a stenographer who wasn't so much afraid of consumption.

And he did.

THE SAVAGE WAY.

How the Indian Treats an Injury—Old Time Methods.

The savage is emphatically the child of nature. He lives close to nature, his only education is gained in nature's school.

When the Indian receives an injury, he does not seek a cure in mineral poisons, but binds on the simple leaf, administers the herbal tea, and, with nature's aid, comes natural recovery.

Our rugged ancestors, who pierced the wilderness, built their uncouth but comfortable Log Cabins and started the clearings in the woods, which in time became the broad, fertile fields of the modern farmer, found in roots and herbs that lay close at hand nature's potent remedies for all their common ailments. It was only in very serious cases they sent for old "saddlebags" with his physic, which quite as often killed as cured.

Later day society has wandered too far away from nature, in every way, for its own good. Our grandfathers and grandmothers lived wholesome, purer, better, healthier, more natural lives than we do. Their minds were not filled with noxious fumes, nor their bodies saturated with poisonous drugs.

Is it not time to make a change, to return to the simple vegetable preparations of our grandmothers, which contained the power and potency of nature as remedial agents, and in all the ordinary ailments were efficacious, at least harmless? The proprietors of Warner's Log Cabin remedies have thought so, and have put on the market a number of these pure vegetable preparations, made from formulas secured after patient searching into the annals of the past, so that those who want them need not be without them.

Among these Log Cabin remedies will be found "Log Cabin sarsaparilla," for the blood; "Log Cabin hops and buchu remedy," a tonic and stomach remedy; "Log Cabin cough and consumption remedy," for all their common ailments; "Log Cabin extract," for both external and internal application; "Log Cabin liver pills," "Log Cabin rose cream," as old but effective remedy for Catarrh, and "Log Cabin plaster." All these remedies are carefully prepared from recipes which were found, after long investigation, to have been those most successfully used by our grandmothers of "ye olden time." They are the simple, vegetable, efficacious remedies of Log Cabin days.

HER ONE FAULT.—"So you're married," said one Chicago traveling man to another. "Well, I'm sure I wish you much joy."

"Don't speak of it, old fellow, don't speak of it."

"What's the trouble? Hasn't it turned out all right?"

"I've made an extremely painful discovery. I had been married a whole year before I knew anything about it."

"And what did you discover?"

"I found that she was dead set against divorce."
