

Log Cabin Grandmothers.

An Indiana doctor has recently discovered in a common weed whose medicinal qualities have never before been suspected, a valuable remedy for bowel disorders.

There is nothing particularly strange about this fact.

And yet the very simplicity of the new discovery would, with some, seem to throw just doubt upon its power. To make it one has only to pour hot water over the leaves of the plant. In its preparation no vast chemical works and appliances are required.

It is to be wondered at since such plain remedies are accounted as of such great merit in these days, that such wonderful results attended our grandmothers, whose teas and infusions of roots and herbs and balsams, have exerted so great an influence in the maintenance of health and life?

Certainly not!

The greatest pieces of machinery strike us most by their exceeding simplicity.

The secret of the success of grandmother's remedies was their freshness and simplicity. Every autumn found the little Log Cabin abundantly supplied with fresh leaves, roots, herbs and balsams, which were carefully dried and prepared and laid away for use. Dreading to call a doctor because of the expensiveness of his far-made trips, they immediately gave attention to the disease and routed it before it had gained a foothold.

The old Log Cabin grandmother, in tea and high tacked gown, and perchance bespectacled in rough silver, her weary feet encased in "hum made" slippers, is the dear sweet nurse who rises to the view of many a man and woman to-day as the early years of life pass in retrospect.

The secrets of grandmother's medicines were rapidly being forgotten and the world was not growing in the grace of good health. To restore the lost art of log cabin healing has been for years the desire of a few well known philanthropists in whose ancestral line were eight "good physicians" of the old style, men who never saw a medical college save in the woods, nor a "medical diploma" except that inscribed on the faces of healthy and long lived patients. Much time and money was expended in securing the old formula, which to-day are put forth as "Log Cabin remedies"—sarsaparilla, hops and buchu, cough and consumption, and several others, by Warner, whose name is famous and a standard for medical excellence all over the globe. These oldest, newest and best preparations have been recognized as of such superlative value that to-day they can be found with all leading dealers.

When Col. Ethan Allen was making history along our northern frontier during the revolution, Col. Seth Warner, the fighting Sheridan of that army, who was a skillful natural doctor, used many such remedies, notably like the Log Cabin extract, sarsaparilla and cough and consumption remedy, among the soldiers with famous success.

They are a noble inheritance which we of to-day may enjoy to the full, as did our forefathers, and using, real, as did they, the harvest of a life full of usefulness.

FARM NOTES.

TRIM THE TREES LOW.—Nearly all old apple trees are too high headed. The idea of their planters and early trainers seems to have been that it would not do to let the branches hang so low that the largest horse could not plow or cultivate close to them without injury.

The consequence is the stems nearly run up seven or eight feet without a limb, and most of the fruit exposed to winds is blown off and spoiled for marketing. If not it is extremely difficult and dangerous to gather it by ladders. The way the business is managed now is to train low—keep the branches so that when loaded they will almost touch the ground. Keep the surface under the tree well mulched with manure and this will suppress most of the grass that would otherwise creep in. Many of the apples thus grown can be picked from the ground or by low step ladders set under trees.

AN HEROIC TASK.—"You don't mean to say, John, that you are going to have a steam heating arrangement in the basement, do you?"

"I do, Maria," said John, with iron firmness, "I'm going to keep those feet of yours warm this winter if it costs $1,000."

SAVING SEED.—Seed to be used next season should be saved early, says the Ploughman. To be of any advantage to the sower it should be saved carefully. In the first place attend on should be paid to the growth of several plants that the best may be invariably selected for perpetuation. As soon as the seeds are gathered, no matter how pressing the needs of the hour may be, they should be put into packages that shall contain the names of the seeds and any memoranda that it may be essential or desirable to know when the sowing time comes.

THE COLOR OF EGGS.—In some localities advance prices are paid for "white Leghorn eggs." The marketmen attribute this to the fact of their good size and pure white color. Many consumers entertain the idea that all fresh eggs of any breed are white and as these grow stale they take on a brownish tint. In some markets the brown eggs are preferred, being considered richer in flavor than the white ones.

THE PEANUT YIELDS FROM 40 TO 50 PER CENT OF NEARLY COLORLESS OIL OF QUALITY NOT FAR BELOW OLIVE OIL, FOR WHICH IT IS LARGELY SOLD. Last year 10,000,000 bushels of peanuts were imported into Marseilles, France, to be pressed for oil, very little of which was sold under its proper name. The residual pomace is employed in adulterating chocolate.

As food is indispensable for the production of rich milk, there only remains to adjust the ration to the ability of the cow to digest it and turn it to profit. This ability varies with the cow, and must be learned by the owner. No standard ration has an iron-clad limit, it is a standard to be used as a starting point, to be lessened or increased as each case may warrant.

HOUSEHOLD.

RUSSIAN SALAD.—Boil some carrots and some turnips in salted water with a small piece of butter, but do not let them be overdone, when cold cut from them with a vegetable scoop a number of pieces the size of an olive, cut some beetroot in the same way and likewise some trifles. Take equal parts, say a cupful of each of the above, and a similar quantity of preserved fresh (and dried) haricot beans, ready cooked, and of asparagus points preserved in the same way, two tablespoonfuls respectively of capers, of French pickled gherkins cut into the shape of capers and of anchovies, washed perfectly clean, and cut into small pieces, a couple of dozen or more olives stoned, one tablespoonful of tarragon and chervil minced fine, and half that quantity of chives also minced. Mix the whole lightly into a sauce made with raw yolks of eggs, oil, vinegar, pepper, and salt well worked together. Ornament with hard-boiled eggs, caviare, lobster spawn, olives, pickles, trifles, etc. The Spanish preserved sweet capsciums (Pimientos dulces) are a great addition to the above, not only for their exquisite taste, but on account of their brilliant color.

ASPIC JELLY.—Pack into a stewpan a couple of calves' feet, chopped in small pieces, a few slices of ham, and the carcass of a fowl, with a couple of onions and a few carrots cut in slices, a head of celery, one shallot, parsley, sweet herbs, spices, pepper and salt to taste, fill up with any common stock, and set the whole to simmer gently for three or four hours. Strain off the liquor into a basin, and when cold carefully remove all the fat. Then put the jelly into a saucepan, and add to it as much suc colorant as may be required to give it the proper color. Put the saucepan on the fire, and when the jelly is melted whisk into it the whites of two eggs and a wineglassful of tarragon vinegar, let it through a jelly bag, and strain it through a jelly bag. If not quite clear, warm it again and strain it a second time.

DELICIOUS SANDWICHES.—Boil three thoroughly fresh eggs for twenty minutes, then let them cool. Take six anchovies, wash them, wipe them in a cloth, cut off the heads and fins and scrape away the skins. With the fingers and thumb split them open down the back and take the fillets or sides from the backbone. Prepare some lettuce by tearing it up into tiny bits and dressing it with mayonnaise. Then cut six thin slices of German rye bread or homemade graham bread—the ordinary baker's brown bread crumbles too much. Butter them and lay between each two, one of the eggs shelled and cut into very thin slices, a layer of the salad and the fillets of two anchovies. Press the slices together, with a sharp knife divide them into small squares, and arrange them on a dish covered with a napkin. The loaves of bread must, of course, be large to make the sandwiches of proper size.

WATERMELON PRESERVES.—Cut and prepare the rind, boil very hard thirty or forty minutes in alum water quite strong, take out and put in clear, cold water, and allow them to stand overnight, in the morning change the water and put them to boil, let them cook until they have changed color and are quite soft. Then make a syrup, allowing one and one half pounds of white sugar to a pound of fruit, then add fruit, which needs but little more cooking. Mace, ginger or lemon flavors nicely.

LOG CABINS were not hot-houses and the people who dwell in them were not hot-house growths. They were a hardy healthy generation and the remedies used were simple preparations reproduced in Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy and Warner's "Tippecanoe" the great stomach tonic.

AN HEROIC TASK.—"You don't mean to say, John, that you are going to have a steam heating arrangement in the basement, do you?"

"I do, Maria," said John, with iron firmness, "I'm going to keep those feet of yours warm this winter if it costs $1,000."

Where Log Cabins Flourish.

A party of American gentlemen, who had been camping out on an island in the great Lake Nipissing, Canada, last summer, were returning in a sail-boat and were yet seven miles from port when the sun went down, and with it the sailing breeze.

A discouraging situation, truly. "Never mind, I can row you there inside of two hours," said the guide who had charge of the party, as their murmurs arose.

"Why, man, it is seven miles, there are four of us in this heavy boat—it's a big job you undertake," said one.

"No matter, I have done the likes before and can do it again," cheerfully replied the broad shouldered Irishman, as he stowed away the sail and bent to the oars. He was a splendid oarsman and the boat was soon under headway again.

"What would I not give to enjoy your health and strength," remarked the Professor.

"Yes, I am pretty healthy, and though I am past sixty I feel as strong as ever," replied the guide. "But only three years ago I stood at death's door, and never thought to pull an oar again. You see, I was in the woods all winter, logging, and I got into the water one day and caught cold. It settled on my lungs and I had a bad cough which hung on till I ran down almost to a skeleton."

"Call in a physician?"

"Yes, I went twenty miles through the bush to see a doctor; he gave me some medicine, but it didn't help me much."

"How was the cure effected?"

"An old Scotch lady, who had come over from the States, gave me a preparation of balsams and herbs, which she said the early settlers in America used, and it stopped my cough and put me on my feet again."

"One has but to travel along the frontier to learn how easy it is to get along without doctors, and how effective are the natural remedies which the old grandmothers know how to prepare. They often cure where the best physicians fail."

Every mother of a family knows how coughs and colds are quickly and radically cured with syrups and teas made from balsams and herbs which "grandmother taught us how to make."

Warner's Log Cabin cough and consumption remedy was, after long investigation into the merits and comparison with other old time preparations, selected from them because proved to be the very best of them all. It has brought back the roses to many a pallid cheek—there is no known remedy its equal as a cure for coughs and colds.

CRIMINALLY CARELESS.—Miss Maude (meeting her cousin, young Mr. Sissy)—"Why, you are not looking well, Charley."

Mr. Sissy (heebly)—"No, Maude, I'm suffering from shock. I was wun down last week by a cawwidge in Central Park."

Miss Maude (indignantly)—"I think it is a perfect outrage, Charley. These nurses seem to think they own the entire walk."

A REFINED PRISONER.—"You r honor," said a vagrant to the Police Judge, "it's his shame to impose that fine; I belong to the refined classes, I do."

"Refined classes?"

"Yes, sir, wasn't I fined the last time I was up here?"

"And wasn't I reined this time?"

The court included sixty days in the work house in the sentence.

HE KEPT HIS PLACE.—Dignified dame—Pardon me, but I cannot imagine what business you can have with me.

Arkwad path (coolly)—I called to get you to prevent your husband from discharging me."

"I have nothing whatever to do with my husband's business affairs, and—"

"I'm a typewriter operator, and he thinks of sending me off because I make so many mistakes. He has nearly engaged a pretty girl for my place."

"Oh! You will retain your position. By the way, when at leisure please consider my house your home."

IDENTIFICATION.—Young man to Coroner—I see by the newspapers that there is an unclaimed body at the Morgue.

Coroner—Yes, sir.

"I think the body is that of a friend of mine."

"Why these are peculiarities about your friend by which you could identify the remains?"

"Yes, sir, he stuttered horribly."

A VIENNESE parvenue sarcastically asked how it happened that learned men were so often seen at the houses of the rich, and the rich so rarely seen in the home of the learned.

Saphir quickly retorted: "Because scholars knew the value of wealth, but the rich are rarely aware of the worth of learning."

GAINES is a pompous little chap who married a daughter of Colonel Cole—the richest man in Nashville—and has all the boys laughing at him for eternally bragging of his father-in-law. Gaines wanted to see Governor Taylor about something one day, and marched into his private office, where he was busily writing.

"Good morning, sir," said the Governor, looking up; "take a chair. I'll be through in a moment"—and went on writing.

"But, Governor, perhaps you do not know who I am. I am Mr. Gaines."

"Glad to know you, Mr. Gaines; take a chair; I will be at leisure in a moment," said the Governor, busily writing away.

"But, Governor," expostulated Gaines, "evidently you don't know that I am Col. Cole's son-in-law."

The Governor glanced up again and said in the same quiet tone: "Ah! Mr. Gaines, take two chairs," and went on writing.

CAUTIOUS CUSTOMER.—Is this a hand-made cigar?

Indignant cabbage factor—Hand-made? Is it hand-made? Looky here, cull, do you think we got time in dis shop to make seagars wid our feet? We ain't no freaks; do you take us fer a dime museum?

True Economy.

It is true economy to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, for "100 Doses One Dollar" is a signal with true only of this popular medicine. If you wish to prove this, buy a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the same as the other, but it is the measure of its contents. You will find it to be the same as the other, and you will find that the average dose for persons of different ages is less than a teaspoonful. This is certainly conclusive evidence of the peculiar strength and economy of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for loss of appetite, dyspepsia, and general languor. It did me vast amount of good, and I have no hesitancy in recommending it." J. W. WILKINS, Quincy, Ill.

ENAMORED YOUTH.—Your father treats me with the most distinguished consideration. The other night he called to me as I was leaving and reminded me that I was forgetting my umbrella.

Sweet girl—Yes; papa was afraid you would be coming back after it the next evening."

Do Not Think for a Moment that catarrh will in time wear out. The theory is false. Men try to believe it because it would be pleasant if true, but it is not, as all know. Do not let an acute attack of cold in the head remain unabsorbed. It is liable to develop into catarrh. You can rid yourself of the cold and avoid all chance of catarrh by using Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. If already afflicted, rid yourself of this troublesome disease speedily by the same means. At all druggists.

VISITOR.—Want a good Chinese joke?
Editor—Let's hear it.
"Well, my laundryman's name is Hop Ping."

"Well, what of it?"

"He doesn't like the action of the Senate on Chinese immigration. He says it is an insult."

"Well, where's the joke?"

"Well, he is Hop Ping mad about it, don't you see?"

"Yes, and you'd better be hopping out of here as quick as you can, too, or the occupants of the lower floor will hear something drop."

IN CHICAGO.—Old Resident (reminiscent)—Ah, my boy, those were the good old days to make money. Why, I could have bought an acre in what is now the heart of the city for a mere song.

Young Resident—Why didn't you?
"Alas, I never could swing a note."

Very Sensitive "Japs."

In Japan the old-school physicians are permitted to wear only wooden swords. This is a gently sarcastic way of expressing the opinion that they kill enough people without using weapons. But the drug-gist who introduced Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery into the Empire, carried a fine steel blade. It was found that a fine steel blade was used for coughs, colds, consumptive tendencies, blood, skin and liver troubles, were, without exception, greatly benefited. The system by its use, and the importer was therefore permitted the exceptional honor of wearing the sword of the nobility.

Stamping and Embroidery.

"Yes, Lizzie, I like to do fancy work, but I haven't felt like trying that pattern for anything else—for a week. These awful 'dragging-down' pains are just killing me!" "I know how you feel, and I can tell you how to look for relief. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a certain cure for all these peculiar troubles and distressing ailments. Why? It even cures me of prolapsus, and many of my lady friends have been cured of various grave maladies peculiar to our sex by this wonderful medicine." It is the only medicine guaranteed from the manufacturer, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Read guarantee on bottle-wrapper.

Wet tobacco applied to a bee or wasp sting will give instant relief.

Nearly everybody uses a good medicine at this time. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most popular and successful spring medicine and blood purifier. It cures scrofula, all tumors, dyspepsia, sick headache, that tired feeling.

My Poor Back!

"That 'poor back' is held responsible for more than its share of the sufferings of mankind. If your dog bites a man who kicks it, do you blame the dog? On the same principle the kidneys utter their protest against nervousness, impure blood, and resulting constipation. These foretell the system of the poisons which are the result of effete matter ridding the blood. Then the sufferer says the blood. 'Not yet,' but they will be unless the nerves are properly removed. These are the causes Compound removes them quickly. effect, it also strengthens the weak curing all diseases of the nerves and kidneys. "I CAME TO YOU, MR. AM," said the tramp, "because they told me you was a friend of the human race."
"So I am," replied the lady of the house, with a pleasant smile, "but you will excuse me if I do not see how that fact can be of the slightest interest to you."

"WHAT'S the meaning of all those funeral coaches going along in solemn procession when there's no coffin at the head of them?"

"Oh, probably they're rehearsing."

ROBINSON.—You know Dumley, don't you, Brown?
Brown—O, yes.
"Well, as a man how does he strike you?"

"Sometimes for five dollars and sometimes for ten."

OMELET WITH MINCE.—For this a small pan must be used, as each omelet must not exceed four inches in length. Break three or four eggs, according to the number of omelets you require, allowing one egg for each, into a basin, with pepper and salt to season, beat them lightly for a few minutes, and pour just enough to make one omelet into the pan, in which one ounce of butter is at boiling point. Stir with a knife until it begins to set, and then fry until it is of a pale golden color, but not in the least burnt. Take it out with a slice, and lay in the centre a small quantity of minced meat, about one tablespoonful spread in the middle of the omelet. In the shape of the spoon, fold over each end of the omelet and lay them side by side, either on a dish-paper, or on a white napkin, garnish with sprigs of parsley. The mince should be made either of poultry, game or white meat, finely chopped, well seasoned, mixed with a little cream to moisten it, and heated through over the fire.
