THE PRESS COMPANY, Limited, Philadelphia 8nov4t

Crush the Press Was Thwarted - Mm O'Connor's Conception of "Hamlet" Analyzed-A Few Cursory Remarks on Histrionic Art Generally-An Audience Ought Not to Talk Back. HE past week has witnessed the closing debut of that great Shakespearian humorist and emotional ass, Mr. James Owen O'Connor, at the Star Theater. During his extraordinary en-gagement he has given us Hamlet, Phidias and Shylock, Othello and Richelieu. I think I like his Hamlet best, and yet it is a pleasure to see him in any thing wherein he kills himself. Encouraged by the success of beautiful but self-made actresses, and hoping to win a place for himself and his portrait in the great soap galaxy, Mr. O'Connor had placed himseif in the hands of some misguided elocutionist, and then sought to educate the people of New York and elocute them out of their thraldom, up into the glorious light of the O'Connor school of acting. The first week he was in the hands of the critics, and they spoke quite serenely of his methods. Later, it was deemed best to place his merits in the hands of a man who would be on an equal footing with him. What O'Connor wanted was one of his peers, who would therefore judge him fairly. I was selected because I know nothing whatever about acting, and would therefore be on an equal footing with Mr. O'Connor. After seeing his Hamlet I am of the opinion that he did wisely in choosing New York for debutting purposes, for had he chosen Denver, Col. at the end of the third act kind hands would have removed him from the stage by means of benzine and a rag I understand that Mr. O'Connor charges Messrs. Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett with using their influence here among the masses in order to prejudice said masses against Mr. O'Connor, thus making it unpleasant for him to act, and inciting in the audience a feeling of gentle hostility and rutabagas, which Mr. O'Connor deprecates very much whenever he can get a chance to do so. I have been looking into this matter a little and I do not think it is true. Up to last Thursday Messrs. Booth and Barrett were not aware of Mr. O'Connor's great metropolitan success, and it is generally believed among the friends of the two former gentlemen that they do not feel it so keenly as Mr. O'Connor has been led to suppose

But James Owen O'Connor has done one thing which I take the liberty of publicly alluding to. He has taken that suddest

(57) 1 m and most melancholy bit of bloody history, N/C trimmed with assassinations down the back and looped up with remorse, insanity, duplicity and unrequited love, and he has filled it with silvery laughter and cauliflower, and mirth, and various other groceries which

I went to see Hamlet, thinking that I would be welcome, for my sympathies were with James when I heard that Mr. Booth was picking on him and seeking to injure him. I went to the box-office and explained who I was, and stated that I had been detailed to come and see Mr. O'Connor act, also that in what I might say afterwards my its lyre. "Walk in," said he, taking in two dollars and giving back fifty cents in change to a man with a dead cat in his overcoat pocket.

I went back, and springing lightly over the iron railing while the gate-keeper was thinking over his glorious past, I went all around over the theater looking for Mr. Fox. I found him haggling over the price of some vegetables which he was selling at the stage door and which had been contributed by admirers and old subscribers to Mr. O'Connor at a previous performance.

When Mr. Fox got through with that I presented to him my card, which is as good a piece of job work in colors as was ever done west of the Missouri river and to which I frequently point with pride. Mr. Fox said that he was sorry, but that

Mr. O'Connor had instructed him to extend no courtesies to the press whatever. The press, he claimed, had said something derogatory to Mr. O'Connor as a tragedian, and while he personally would be tickled to death to give me two divans and a foldingbed near the large fiddle, he must do as Mr.
