WHOLESALE HORSE STEALING.

They Drove Off All the Fire Stock in Morton County, Kan.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 13.-There is great excitement among the farmers of Morton county over the wholesale horse stealing which has been in progress there for several days past. On Friday the notorious Bill Doty, with twelve other desperadoes, came up from No Man's Land for the purpose of driving off all the horses in the southern part of the county. They began with Capt. Melton's thirteen thoroughbreds, which were released from the stables, and started south, Every other farm and ranch in the neighborhood was also raided by this gang. When they reached James Horton's farm he and his sons showed fight, but were soon overpowered and tied to a fence, where they remained all night.

Over sixty head of horses in all were captured by the thieves. With these the thieves on Saturday morning started for the Oklahoma country. They had gone but a short distance when they were overtaken by a posse of Morton county farmers. A desperate fight ensued, during which George Hill, one of the desperadoes, was mortally wounded. The outlaws finally got away with twenty-five horses.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN HERE.

He Comes to This Country to Claim His Bride, and Absolutely Refuses to Talk Politics.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 .- Joseph Chamberlain arrived here on the Cunard steamship Aurania and registered at the Brevoort house. Mr. Chamberlain's landing on American soil was not much dissimilar in its pecu-Har method from his tactics in getting aboard the steamer unobserved on the other side. In both instances he succeeded in escaping, at least temporarily, the attention of the reporters.

When seen at the hotel Mr. Chamberlain

"My present visit to the United States is on purely personal business, and I would be greatly obliged to the newspapers if they would respect my earnest desire to remain unnoticed. Before leaving England I determined that nothing should induce me to give expression in the American newspapers to any views or opinions I might hold on public questions affecting either the United States or my own country, and that determination I shall carry out absolutely.

"No: I cannot answer any questions relating to polities in England or America. I can merely say to you that I am here to get a bride. I shall be married to Miss Endicott in Washington some day this week, but on what day I am not yet sure, as the precise time has not yet been communicated to me. I do not know exactly when I shall return to England, but in a short time anyhow."

Mr. Craig stated that every morning before work began two men were sent through the mine to examine it for gas. On Friday, the day of the calamity, they reported no gas, as usual. He was of the opinion that the explosion (if caused by gas) would certainly have occurred before 5 o'clock p. m., as 164 men were working there all day with naked lamps. But it did not take place until 5:10 p. m., when they began firing their blasts. This convinces Mr. Craig that it was a dust

If the taxpayers of continental Europe Coroner Fisher's inquest began at 9 o'clock dared to lift up their voices as vehemently from them as these of America, or even England, the reigning powers of Europe ives or secret societies, the victims were laid orest with one service.

Superintendent Robert Craig says that he receives added illustration from the debate in the French chambers on the state of the marine of that republic. Americans may allude sarcastically to their navy, indulge in remarks as to the supposed weakness of their seagoing force, and make invidious comparisons as to its strength in contrast with that of England, but in truth they have been spared an almost incredible expenditure for vessels which would have been absolutely worthless in the light of late experiences.

France and England have been actually compelled to vie with one another in the supposititious strength of their marine, and they are now awake to the consciousness that millions of money have been wasted upon ships that would be worthless in conflict. Such with those of Superintendent Craig's, but has been the impress of science that the ironclads of their present avies are ponderous rectly opposite. One miner says that there bulks in which they can place little confi-was natural gas in all the coal of this region, dence. In fact, fortunate America has the benefit of their experience without making a corresponding outlay.

Admiral Krantz is respectfully listened to when he says that the French navy must in any circumstance be able to contend with Washington, Nov. 13.-It is possible that that of any other nation; that it must put gural ball will be held in the great thip against ship and fleet against fleet, but it is a question of money in the long run, have widely different depths. His statement that England and America may descend to a warfare of corsairs, but that France must be capable of attacking the combined forces of any nation wherever it can find them, is resonant of French dignity, and had considerable effect upon French legislators, but its effect was lessened when he insisted upon the ecessity of strongly fortified ports of refuge for the said navy.

To be sure, the peaceful policy of England has obviated somewhat the necessity of fortifying her harbors, priceless as they are to ber, but it is plain that John Bull doggedly relies upon the efficiency of his navy to probect his shores, and is ready to virtually stake the existence of his independence upon the strength of his ships and the bravery of his seamen. In the Mediterranean France and Bpain appear to be drawing toward a cordial understanding, jealousy of Italy being undoubtedly the motive, but the latter power relies upon the support of Germany and Austria in case of complications, and the naval force of the latter, though not large, is well manned, and would prove no contempt lble ally in case of need.

He Gets Part of His Money at Least. INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 13 .- Gen. Herman Bturm, a man who once possessed great wealth, but lost it through his dealings with the Mexican government, has, after many years of persistent effort, procured the al-lowance of a claim which will restore his fortune, with interest. At the time of the Maximilian invasion be entered into a contract to furnish the government a large supply of arms and ammunition at a greatly advanced cost. Philadelphia capitalists were interested with him in the transaction. Through the wrecking of a steamship containing a large part of the cargo and failure of the government to pay for its purchases, Sturm was bankrupted, and others associated with him lost heavily. Sturm endeavpred to recover insurance on a part of his loss, and the case was in court many years. Two years ago there was an adverse ruling on the claim in court. Sturm pushed the matter, however, and has been rewarded by receiving an allowance of $2,125,000 on his claim. This is to be paid in Mexican bonds, and he will not realize the full amount. He owes heavy attorney fees, which will also tend to reduce the amount received.

AN AWFUL CALAMITY.

Over 160 Men Buried by a Mine Explosion.

THE SHAFT CLOSED BY DEBRIS.

Ground Shaken as if by an Earthquake. Distressing Scenes in a Little Kansas Town-Rescuing the Victims-Cause of the Disaster Unknown.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Nov. 10.—The worst disaster in the history of Kansas occurred last evening, and the town of Pittsburg is in tears. One hundred and sixty men were sent into eternity at a moment's notice. It is the most horrible mining disaster that ever happened in the state. The miners working at shaft No. 2 at Frontend, a suburb of this city, had just entered the shaft for the night's work when a terrific explosion occurred. The shock was tremendous. For miles around the noise of the explosion was heard, and its force shook the earth so that it seemed as if an earthquake had taken place. There were 160 men in the mine at the time. They were 112 feet below the surface. There is no doubt that all are dead.

When the smoke and debris had somewhat passed away it was seen that the shaft was entirely closed up by the cave in. There was no chance for the imprisoned men and no hopes are entertained of their escape. Two men had just come up in a car, and these are the only ones saved.

The terrific explosion caused a panic in the city, and immediately all the citizens rushed to the mine. The scene there was heartrending in the extreme. Women and strong men shed tears. Some of the wives and children of the doomed miners broke forth in loud lamentations and uttered piercing shricks and cries. "Oh, John! John! Where is my husband? I know he is dead," frantic ally screamed one poor woman with a babe at her breast. "Says him! Save him!" she exclaimed in her agony. Then the babe dropped from her arms and she fell in a faint to the ground.

PITTSBURG, Kan. Nov. 13.-Additional particulars of the appalling mine disaster at Frontenac on Friday evening are about as follows: Out of a total of 164 who descended into the mine only fourteen have been taken out alive, the greater part of whom are terribly burned and cannot live. Thirty-six bodies were found on, the north and west sides, where the work of rescue had to be stopped until other parts of the mine could be strengthened so that it could be explored for the remaining sectims. It will probably be three or four days before the bodies can be recovered, and many being burned be-yond recognition, a full list of the names will never be learned. The following is a list of those who are supposed to be still in the mine: J. Greitzer, Joseph Krois, Louis Sozie, Frank Zelick, Peter Knell, Fred Yorkahan, James Quick, Charles Fisher, William Sheppard, William Tunleers, Thomas Jones, Human Smith, Anton Bietler, Joseph Rominala, John D. Ibbey, Ed Mole, A. Barber, M. Zulk, W. Jennings, L. Romica, J. W. Cockton, H. F. Harris, Ed Longaka and P. E. Bent.

A partial list of the dead can only be given, and is as follows: John Labeca, James Barbiera, August Barbiera, Lew Lemon, John Lemon, Harry Hansom, John and George Weisenbacher Joseph Julietta, George Crocksen, John Conners, Billy Fister, Carlos Tasco, Anton Birnicho, Buzio Barba, A. Lecalle, A. Shipley, Gus Dufrane, D. Molle, Albert Molle, Adam Duez, J. Villiamson, Thomas Lacy, John Horseby, Frank Thompson, James Lacy, Jim Wilson, Jim O'Brien, Robert Johnson, Charles Johnson, George Koner, David Tweed, In Limb, W. Petermiller, Dan Randall, Harry Burns, Harry Rings, Leon Lamote, Carles Lamote and William

The state superintendent is at the mine and says he is confident that the disaster was caused by the fame of an imperfect blast igniting the coaldust, which, on account of the extreme dryness of the mines, is a great source of danger. The miners, however, severely censure the coal company for employing incomposent miners, thus endangering the lives of all.

In a small room in Dorset street, Spitalfields, the center of the silk weaving dis-tricts, the body of his latest victim was found yesterds. Unlike the previous atrocities, this awful crime was committed within a building.

The woman is known as Lizzie Fisher among her associates. The mutilation of this victim was more frightful than in the case of any who pre-

The butcher must first have choked his victim or stunged her by a blow on the head. When she was unconscious he brought into requisition the keen knife used by him in his previous atrockies. First he severed the head from the body with all the skill and dexterity of a practiced surgeon. Holding the ghastly evidence of his appalling crime before him, he exercised his bloodthirsty mania at will. The skin of the face was cut in fantastic figures. The forehead was slashed and large patches of skin cut clean off that portion. The cheeks were then slashed and cut in the same horrid fashion. Then he slit the nose, but, not satisfied with this fearful disfigurement, he cut that organ from the face, ears were also severed. Having completed the horrible mutilation of the severed lead of his victim, he devoted his flendish attention to the other portions of his flendish attention to the other portions of the body. With a single slash of the knife he laid open the abdomen of the victim. Then, with the skill and delicacy of a surgeon, he disemboweled the unfortunate woman and laid the intestines across the chest. The flesh of the thighs was cut and hacked in fearful shape.

To complete the horrible sight he took the fearfully mutilated head of his victim and placed it under one of the arms of the woman. The other arm he drew across the body and placed her hand in the pit of her stomach.
