

FARM NOTES.

EXPERIMENTAL MANURING.—Any work of experimenting in the growth of crops by different methods of manuring or culture should be based upon equal conditions. Thus, if a farmer were to try the results of various modes of manuring and fertilizing he should select or make a piece of soil that would not grow any crop at all, or such a crop over the whole ground that would measure precisely the same in every part. The latter is very rarely to be found, but a worn-out piece of land may easily be procured that will not grow corn—at all. The writer, in his experiments in growing corn consecutively for several years by the use of the special corn manure, and in growing mangels by another artificial fertilizer, chose a piece of land upon which the previous year the largest corn stalk was only seven inches high, and the best mangel weighed only two ounces. Such soil as this will then show precisely what the manure will do, and will give results as near certainty as may be. The present year a corn crop grown to tests varieties for ensilage on a piece of new land without manuring is so uneven and spotty that the corn plants average in height from ten inches to seven feet. Such a piece of soil is clearly unfit for experimenting on, and will be until it is worn down to an even quality.

CONCERNING SMUTTED WHEAT.—It has been demonstrated over and over again that perfectly clean ground will produce a clean crop. It is with smut as with weeds of all sorts, if we have seeds we shall have weeds growing up as a result, but if we have no seeds there will be no weeds. So with smut. Clean seed upon a clean field will result in a clean crop. Never allow a second crop to immediately follow a smutted crop of wheat. Just how great a length of time ought to intervene has not been certainly determined. It would be much safer to allow several years, however, and it would be still better to have the soil stirred frequently as by planting a cultivated crop like corn or potatoes. There are at least two diseases of wheat to which the name of smut is popularly applied, although they can be readily distinguished by a little care in making examination of the heads. In the one case the kernels only are affected, the interior of each being a black, powdery mass, the skin of the grain being, however, intact. In the other case, not only are the kernels affected and entirely destroyed, but the chaff is also attacked and all are reduced to a black powder, which drops to the ground upon the slightest touch or is borne away by the gentlest breeze.

FALL CHICKS.—Now is the time to set broody hens in order to get a supply of pullets for early spring laying. Pullets hatched now will begin laying in February and March, and the first to begin will want to sit by the last of March. In setting hens in hot weather it is best to make a nest on the ground, or if this is not practicable, line a box with sod, dirt side up. Sprinkle with water containing a solution of carbolic acid. Make the nest on top and sprinkle with sulphur, and you need have no fear of lice. If you have any newly-hatched chicks that seem droopy, and you have not taken the above precautions against lice, examine their heads at once for the so-called butcher lice. To destroy them anoint their heads with your finger dipped in lard. Repeat the third day, and treat the breast, body and wings of the mother hen to a like process.

DISEASE AMONG FRENCH PEACHES.—A new disease has broken out in the peach orchards of France, similar to the black rot that has been so destructive to the grape in America. The fruit is attacked in its earlier stages and never reaches maturity. It is, however, from a wholly different fungus that produces the grape trouble with us, and has been named Corymora Beljuncta. This black rot swept off most of the peaches in the valley of the Garonne last year.

KEEPING TOMATOES FOR WINTER.—It is not generally known that late tomatoes may be kept long after the frosts have destroyed the vines and the ripe fruit has disappeared from market. This is done by picking the green tomatoes as late as possible and packing them in dry sand, putting them away where they will not freeze. A few days before wanted take out a layer from the sand and place them in a sunny window or in a warm room when they will ripen and be just as nice as though fresh from the vines.

WHEN the grape rot has previously existed in the vineyards it will be necessary to begin in the fall with the use of lime and copperas solution in order to destroy the spores. It will require two seasons to become rid of it in the vineyards, and the solution should be used both in the fall and spring by sprinkling it freely around the vines, as well as spraying it over them. The solution is a pound of copperas to four buckets of very thin whitewash.

THERE is nothing more useful than new-process linseed meal in correcting deficient rations for cows. Being about as rich in albuminoids as in carbohydrates, it will make up the deficient albuminoids of corn meal, corn fodder, poor hay, etc. It also has a laxative tendency, thus often preventing fevers, as well as promoting the secretion of milk.

A HEN may go hungry all day and if given all she can eat at night will lay better than one that has been fed three or four times a day. A hen is in her best condition only when she is seen industriously at work. It is her natural mode of securing food—working for it. If given a place to scratch in winter the exercise keeps her warm, and when night begins to come on she will have an excellent appetite.

OLD pear trees that have apparently been worthless have been revived by the application of a peck of salt and ashes scattered around the base. Now is the time to try the method.

WHY BRIDGET LEFT.—Miss—Bridget, I want you to understand that I am not going to stand any more relations between you and the policeman on this beat. Bridget—Thin, innit, I'll be after lavin' yeas. I can get a new place any day in the wake, but a perleceman that loves yer for yerself alone is not picked up so easy.

IN A RESTAURANT.—Proprietor (to recently engaged waiter)—You will have to go; I can't keep you. New waiter—What's the matter? "Whenever a customer asks you if the fish is fresh you get red in the face. You'd break up the whole business in a short time."

Two parts dry earth, one part plaster and one of poultry manure is an excellent mixture for retaining the fertilizing qualities of the poultry manure. The mixture should be kept dry.

FRENCH FUN.—A man very much excited burst into M. Pasteur's laboratory the other day. "Oh, Doctor," he cried, "I have been bitten!" "By a dog?" asked Pasteur. "No, worse than that." "By a cat?" "A kind of cat. But oh, Doctor, can you cure me?" "It was a wolf, then." "Not a wolf, but much worse. It was my mother-in-law!" "In that case," said Pasteur, returning to his work, "nothing can be done."

MA GOT.—"Amanthy," said the old lady from the head of the stairs, "what does that young feller mean by stayin' so late?" "Excuse me one moment, Mr. Herrington," said Amanthy, and she closed the parlor door softly and whispered hoarsely up the stairs: "I think he means business, ma. You get to bed."

Eyes Ears Nose

Are all more or less affected by catarrh. The eyes become inflamed, red and watery, with dull, heavy pain between them; there are tearing, burning, itching, and sometimes the eye is affected; the nose is a severe sufferer, with its constant unobtrusive discharge, but, because of the sense of smell. All these disagreeable symptoms disappear when the disease is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels from the blood the impurity from which catarrh arises, tones and restores the diseased organs to health.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by all druggists, $1.00 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar

"I have suffered with catarrh in my head for years, and paid out hundreds of dollars for medicine. I was weak, and my eyes were so sore that I could not see or read much. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and now my catarrh is nearly cured, the weakness of my body is all gone, my appetite is good—in fact, I feel like an other person. MRS. A. CURRIE, Hamilton, Vt., R. 1."

"I have been troubled with catarrh about a year, causing great soreness of the bronchial tubes and terrible headache. I used Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now my catarrh is cured, my throat is entirely well, and my headache has all disappeared." RICHARD GIBSON, Hamilton, Vt.

HOUSEHOLD.

BEEFSTEAK.—The finest beef is required for really good steak. Steaks cut from three different parts of the beef are in request for private tables and restaurants, known as tender loin, porterhouse and round steak. The last is most commonly seen, because, having no bone worth speaking of, it is the most economical cut, and having no fat, suits the many who have Jack Spratt's taste, yet it is far inferior in juice and tenderness to the two other cuts named. Tenderloin steak cut from prime beef cannot be excelled. Porterhouse cut from it is the next choice. Beefsteak should be cut in slices half an inch thick. If the beef is of the right quality, by no means beat it, as in this way much of the sweetness escapes. Having a clear bed of coals over which to place a griddle with slender bars, well warmed and greased. Lay the steak on the bars, and cook it just to the degree that pleases the palate of those for whom you are providing. Some persons who like it rare insist that five minutes is an ample time to allow for having it done perfectly, while others have a disgust for an "save well done," thoroughly cooked meat, and would prefer their steak to remain over the fire for fifteen minutes. A cook should accommodate herself strictly to the instructions of her employer, and learn how to please parties who widely differ.

Cooking beefsteak upon an ordinary stove is to fill a kitchen with the smell of burnt fat, which may be avoided by having a charcoal brazier for this purpose put in some airy place, the charcoal supplying good heat without smoke. No gravy is so good as the pure juice from the meat, joined with a little butter added to the meat as soon as it is lifted from the gridiron. Pepper the steak when first put upon the gridiron, but let salt be added to taste at table. Mustard should always be at hand, ready mixed, for those who like it as a condiment for their beefsteak.

An Old, Reliable Firm. One of the most pleasant and satisfactory experiences in business is the evidence of confidence occasionally shown by the public to a long established firm. The John P. Lovell Arms Co., 347 Washington Street, received a few days ago, from a man in Tennessee, of whom they had no previous knowledge, a registered letter containing a Five Hundred Dollar bill, with an order for sixty dollars' worth of goods, requesting the bill to be returned. A careful examination of the bill proved its value and the order was filled as requested. The sender lived in a locality where the Postoffice was his only means of communication and the bill referred to was his most convenient and efficient. It would not be remarkable of this firm, who have been identified with historical Dock Square for forty-eight years, should thus win the confidence of those English people, but it is worthy of note that their success in business has grown out of the sound reputation that extends throughout the United States. Any one who has seen their advertisement of Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, Cutlery, Sporting Goods and Fishing Tackle in this paper can feel perfectly safe in sending them any amount of money and be sure to get the full value in return, or if unsatisfactory in any way, their money is refunded. All of our readers wanting goods in their line will do well to send us stamps for their large 100 page illustrated catalogue.

To BOIL EGGS.—Eggs are usually boiled three or four minutes. This is a mistaken method. To cook an egg properly, the white, or albumen, should be just curdled, while the yolk should be hardened. Now, the yolk hardens at a temperature when the albumen curdles. But if cooked in boiling water the albumen is hardened, since it hardens at that temperature, while very often the yolk is not hardened, because the egg is removed before the yolk is properly heated. The correct method, then, is to place the egg in a small amount of boiling water, remove the vessel from the stove and let it cool. After ten or fifteen minutes remove the egg and it will be found properly cooked; the albumen coagulated but not hardened; the yolk hardened.

OLD MEATS.—For breakfast or lunch cold meat of any kind may be used in this way: Mince the meat very fine, mix it with an equal quantity of bread crumbs that have been soaked and pressed rather dry and one finely chopped onion. Season with salt, pepper, nutmeg and allspice. Mold with beaten egg, form into balls and fry in boiling fat.

WHEN persons have fancy fruit to ship, it pays to have the name of it printed neatly, and laid in the case on the top of the fruit. The buyers are pleased with this idea, and it helps them to sell it also.

The little boy had come in with his clothes torn, his hair full of dust, and his face bearing unmistakable marks of a severe conflict. "O, Willie! Willie!" exclaimed the mother, deeply shocked and grieved, "you have disobeyed me again. How often have I told you not to play with that wicked Stapleford boy!" "Mamma," said Willie, "do I look as if I had been playing with anybody?"

POOR ARGUMENT.—Mr. Topnoody was hilarious almost to silliness and his wife was mad. "Stop that foolishness, Topnoody," she said angrily. "Why, my dear," he replied, "a little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest man."

COWBOY (on front platform of street car, smoking)—I say, mister, why don't you make your horse go faster? Driver—Western man? "Yes." "How would you give that team out West, now?" "Shoot 'em and get a new team."

ALREADY OCCUPIED.—Father—Well, Johnny, how's the new school? Are you head of your class? Johnny—Not exactly. "Why, how's that?" "I couldn't be, because—the other boys are."

ON THE CARS.—Mr. Henpeck—Steam is a wonderful thing. Clergyman—It is indeed, my friend, but we don't go to heaven by steam. "That's so, parson, my wife keeps me in hot water so much that it seems to me it's the other place I'm going to by steam."

SHY CREATURES.—Friend—Where did you get that brute over your eye? Mild sport—My horse shied, but you bet I'm going to trade him off for a bicycle. Same (next day)—And now you've got your nose smashed in; what's happened? "The bicycle shied."

THAT DEFENDS.—First foreign tourist (very homesy man)—The American women are beautiful, but their voices are harsh. Second foreigner (handsome man)—Indeed! I thought their voices very sweet.

The Excitement Not Over. The rush on the drugists still continues and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guaranteed and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free.

The peacan can be grafted on the hickory. They are grafted in February, at the collar, and then banked up with soil, no grafting wax being used.

The way to make money is to save it. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to use, as it is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Do not take any other preparation if you have decided to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla.

TRYING DUTY.—Little Lucy seemed much impressed upon being told that it was night in Australia when it was day in England, and day there when it was night at home. After considering the subject for some time, she said: "I think it's pretty hard on the Queen."

Had Been Worried "Eighteen Years." It should have been "thirteen," but the proof-reader observed that it amounted to about the same thing, and so did not draw his blue pencil through the error. Unfortunately there was considerable truth in his observation. Thousands of husbands are constantly worried almost to despair by the ill health that afflicts their wives, and often robs life of comfort and happiness. There is but one safe and sure way to change all this for the better. The ladies should use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

A Tremendous Sensation would have been created one hundred years ago by the sight of one of our modern express trains whizzing along at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Just think how our grandfathers would have stared at such a spectacle! It takes a good deal to astonish people now-a-days, but some of the marvellous cures of consumption, wrought by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have created wide-spread amazement. Consumption is at last acknowledged curable. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only known remedy for it. If taken at the right time—which, bear in mind, is not when the lungs are nearly gone—it will go right to the seat of the disease and accomplish its work as nothing else in the world can.

"Give Him 52, and Let Him Guess." We once heard a man complain of feeling badly, and wondered what ailed him. A humorous friend said, "Give a doctor 52, and let him guess." It was a cutting satire on some doctors, who don't always guess right. You need not guess what ails you when your food don't digest, when your bowels and stomach are inactive, and when your head aches every day, and you are languid and easily fatigued. You are taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pills, will bring you out all right. Small, sugar-coated, easy to take. Of druggists.

The Golden Gate Special. The Union and Central Pacific Roads and Pullman Company put on, Dec. 5, a weekly train between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The train is equipped with the latest improvements in electric light, smoking parlors, for ladies and gentlemen, barbed wire, and a telegraph and speaking room, and a telegraph attendant for ladies and children, make it "THE FINEST TRAIN IN THE WORLD."

BUILDING A HOUSE.—"How is your papa getting along?" asked Mrs. Yeast of the Crimsonbeak boy, the other day, when she was waiting for his mother to make her appearance in the parlor. "Oh, bully! He's going to build a house." "Going to build a house! How do you know that?" "Well, I heard mamma say he brings a brick home in his hat every night."

SUGGESTIVE.—She (looking over the autumn landscape)—Isn't it perfectly beautiful, George? He.—It is simply delicious! I could gaze on it for hours. Do you know that every time I look on these gloriously tinted autumn leaves they remind me of you? "In what way?" "They look as if they appeared to one to be pressed."

INQUISITIVE.—It was at a church fair in a Massachusetts town which has given a governor to the Commonwealth, and among the miscellaneous articles for sale on one of the tables was a patent hook for lifting kettles from the stove. The clergyman of the parish stood accidentally beside this table, when he was approached by a Harvard student who was lending to the occasion the light of his countenance.

"What is that thing for?" the student asked, taking hold of the utensil mentioned. "I believe that is a pot-lifter," the clergyman answered. The youth regarded it curiously a moment in silence. "Will you kindly tell me," he said at length, "how you lift a Jack-pot with it?" The clerical gentleman blushed for the want of reverence shown to his cloth, and then, recollecting himself, said that he did not understand the question.

EXPENSIVE.—Barrowly—I am not feeling very well, doctor. My head aches and I feel all broken up generally. Doctor—You don't take enough exercise. You ride out to business instead of walking, as you should. "But I can't afford to walk, it makes me so hungry; and lunches cost money."

George Augustus Sala, the well known English writer, on his last Australian trip wrote as follows to The London Daily Telegraph: "I especially have a pleasant remembrance of the ship's doctor—a very experienced maritime medico indeed, who tended me most kindly during a horrible spell of bronchitis and spasmodic asthma, provoked by the sea fog which had swooped down on us just after we left San Francisco. But the doctor's prescriptions and the increasing warmth of the temperature as we neared the Tropics, and in particular, a couple of ALCOCK'S PODOB'S PLASTERs clapped on—the one on the chest and another between the shoulder blades—soon set me right."

What Scott's Emulsion Has Done! Over 25 Pounds Gain in Ten Weeks. Experience of a Prominent Citizen.

I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into bronchitis, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered me to a more congenial climate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I commenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 155 to 180 pounds and over; the cough meantime ceased. C. R. BENNETT.
