IN THE COAL REGIONS.

Twenty Thousand Idle Miners-Austin Corbin Forces the Market.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 14 .- It is a strange fact that 20,000 hard coal miners in this anthracite basin, nearly half of whom are idle, should be studying climatic changes, instead of being at work mining coal. Reports come up from tidewater that there is enough coal there to last a year if there is no more cold weather. A feeling of gloom pervades the entire region.

A well authenticated report prevails at the coal mines that Mr. Corbin has been rushing coal to market for a special purpose and that he intends cutting prices right and left. By underbidding the Lehigh Railroad company he succeeded in getting the contract to furnish the Manhattan elevated a supply of 225,000 tons for the coming year, and it is said that other large contracts will be issued in a similar manner, thus forcing a market and keeping a few collieries running by selling coal at a bare margin, in order to keep the rolling stock of the Reading Railroad company moving.

They Want Cold Weather.

WHINESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 14. - In Plains townshie, a suburb of this city, nearly 2.000 miners and laborers have been idle since the middle of November, work having been entirely suspended in the mines of the Lehigh Valley company during that time. These include the Henry, Port Bowkley and Enter-prise collieries. There is a strong appre-hension that unless cold weather creates a firmer demand for anthracite, that a total suspension of all the mines will be ordered soon. The strikers at the Hill-man Vein colliery are still out, their de-mand for a restoration of the 6 per cent. reduction recently made not having been complied with

The Punzsutawney Evictions Begun. PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Jan. 11 .- The evictions began yesterday. Several families were ejected at Adrian and one Italian family at Waiston. The parties evicted took lodging with their friends, and their household effects were taken charge of by the miners' committees. No resistance was attempted, but it is expected that the Italians will resist and cause trouble today. The company gave the men the option of going to work at the old rates or be evicted. The men seem to prefer the latter. The miners' committee are making prepara-tions to accommodate the homeless women and children.

The Sunday Edition Is not only a complete newspaper, but a Maga zine of Popular Literature. Its sixteen large pages, clearly printed and attractively illustra-ted, contain as much good literature, by the foremost writers of the world, as any of the popular monthlies. Some of the newspapers in New York, Böston and Chicago print a greater number of pages upon Sunday, but these are for the most part occupied with advertisements. The proceedings of the house were almost wholly devoted to consideration of District of Columbia appropriation bill, which was ment after he had been indicted for wilful murder.

Only Circumstantial Evidence.

The state will retain its more important information for the grand jury, but it is doubtful if they can secure an indictment. "We have no evidence against Dr. Kniffin and Miss Purcell excepting of a circumstantial nature and I would not be surprised if they were acquitted," was the remark made by one on the inside; and as days pass it certainly grows plainer that the police have made a mistake in arresting the two persons whether they are innocent or guilty. society, the members reported that the fruit buds are pushing and in many instances are full almost to bursting. The peaches and cherries are particularly forward, and the members feared if this mild weather keeps up a week or ten days longer there would be no fruit next summer. A sudden change would kill all the buds, and even now they are in such a condition that a zero temperature would be fatal.

A Brakeman Killed.

ASHLAND, Pa., Jan. 9.-Another fatality occurred at the foot of Gordon Plane, resulting in the instant death of a brakeman named David Slanker. He was in the act of coupling cars when he was caught between the engine and cars and crushed to death. Slanker was employed as a brakeman by the Philadelphia and Reading company for the past twenty-three years, and was dered one of the most careful men on the road. He was a married man and leaves a wife and five children.

James Strauser, John Mintzer and Frank Music have leased the right to mine all minerals or metals found upon the lands. Surface quartz has been as saved and vields about $, to the ton of silver. It is expected to grow richer below the surface.

Another Strike Probable.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Jan. 10 .- At a conference between the operators of Connellsville coke region and Knights of Labor leaders the workmen demanded an increase of wages ranging from 8 to 14 per cent. This demand so startled the operators that they ad-journed the conference at once. If the men persist in their demand there will probably be another strike.

Aid for Williamsport's Flood Sufferers. WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 13 .- The Williamsport flood committee held a meeting to determine the disposition to be made of the remaining funds in their hands, amounting to about $15,-000. The conclusion reached was that the money shall be given to the sufferers who have not heretofore had appli-cations in and those whose applications were in but not acted upon.

Reading Train Crews Short.

PALO ALTO, Pa., Jan. 13 .-- Considerable difficulty, owing to the grip, is experienced in filling up the crews of the trains on the Reading railroad at this point, where most of the coal trains are made up. Dispatcher Priest reports hifty of his men ill, and he has been compelled to send to Pottsville and other points for train hands.

last night at 6:20.

A Sad Occasion.

The sadness of the occasion was not more easily read in the mourning cloth that covered the desk of the dead congressman than in the serious faces of those men who had known him so long and who feel his loss most keenly. The senators came in a few minutes before 12. Doorkeeper Bassett walked first, and then came Vice President Morton and Secretary McCook walking together, and then the senators in pairs. They were shown to seats well down in front. Mr. Morton was conducted to a seat be side Speaker Reed. At the sharp sound of the speaker's gavel the audience arose and remained standing while the casket, carried by members of the Capitol police, was borne down the center aisle to the open space in tront of the clerk's desk.

The Funeral Cortege.

Dr. Butler, chaplain of the senate, and Rev. Dr. Cuthbert led the way, the former repeating the solemn words begin-ning: "I am the resurrection and the ning: life. The congressional escort followed and then was borne the body. The mourners were Mrs. Kelley, escorted by her eldest son; Mrs. Florence Kelley-Wischnowitzky, escorted by her brother, W. D. Kelley, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Horst-man and their two daughters; Judge Kelley's private secretary, George O. Jones, of New York, and Robert P. Porter, who were present in the line at the invitation of the family. The casket, with long silver bars at the sides, was covered with black cloth and resting on it were a large wreath of white roses and lilies and crossed palms held to-gether by a bow of white ribbon.

The Ceremonies.

Dr. Butler read the burial service and then offered a feeling and an eloquent prayer, in which he spoke of the long, eminent and honorable life of Judge Kelly. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Cuthbert, and then, the audience standing the while again, the body was borne from the chamber. A large crowd had collected at the east door, and all reverently uncovered as the body of the dead statesman was carried slowly down the long flight of stone steps and deposited in the hearse.

The family and the congressional est cort took carriages and the procession moved to the Pennsylvania depot, where a special train awaited the funeral party.

Justice Matheson took the witness chair. He described his visit to the house on the morning of the murder and read from his notes what he had seen there. His testimony was principally of a corroborative character, excepting that he said that the matches he had found on the floor with the ends burned off were the same kind as those found in the match safes in the house. The face of the dead woman bore no signs of terror and her face was calm and peaceful, and there was no evidence of a struggle. The mouth looked red and swollen, as though a cloth gag had been placed in it, and the lips bore evi-dence of having been brussed without producing an abrasion. He then stated that the door back of the bed in the alcove room was ajar about two inches when he entered the room and that a hickory stick was lying on the floor. He then said that Dr. Shannon had ad-vised Miss Purcell not to make a statement, and had said that she would be unable to do so within twenty-four

Some people agree with The Sun's opinions about men and things, and some people don't; but everybody likes to get hold of the newspaper which is never dull and never afraid to speak its mind. Democrats know that for twenty years The Sun has fought in the front line for Democratic prim-ciples, never wavering or weak-ming in its loyalty to the true interests of the party it serves with fearless intelligence and disinterested vigor. At times opinions have differed as to the best means of accomplishing the cramon purpose; it is not The Sun's familt if it has seen further into the mill-stone.

stone. Eighteen hundres and ninetvis the year that will probably determine the result of the Presi-dential election of 1892, and perhaps the fortunes of the Democracy for the rest of the century. Vic-tory in 1892 is a duty, and the beginning of 1890 is the best time to start out in company with The Sun.
