

Alter Danger of the Grip.
(From The Sunday Globe, Boston, Mass., Jan. 2, 1910.)
"Boston papers facetiously remark that 'La Grippe is seldom fatal unless you use all the remedies recommended for it.' They are correct. The writer fully believes that the end of the poor grip victim, if he tried all the patent medicines that have adorned (7) the pages of our leading newspapers as 'sure cures for La Grippe,' would be like Mark Twain, who for his famous cold tried every remedy advised by friends, until his stomach became so weak he began to vomit, and continued until, as he avers, 'he was like to throw up his immortal soul.' We notice one of the leading advertisers of the day has been conspicuous at this opportune time by the absence of any claim to cure the grip. They certainly deserve a 'thrombosis,' and we feel like giving them a free 'ad' for their compassion upon our readers. The more so for the reason that probably more people have used their remedy, that good old family medicine, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, for this foreign influenza, than all others combined. And why not? Certainly no other will relieve catarrhal colds, coughs, bronchial troubles, or neuralgic pains, as promptly as that same old Anodyne Liniment, and the above are all symptoms or results of La Grippe. Herein lies the real danger from this epidemic of influenza, it leaves the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes tender and very susceptible to the catarrh, bronchial troubles and pneumonia, which come with February and March in our northern climate. We shall still put our faith in a remedy (for this after trouble) which acts promptly to allay inflammation; for therein lies the chief danger from throat and lung troubles. And surely a remedy that has the friends that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment has, after eighty years' trial by a critical public, and has been used for the grip more extensively than all the advertised remedies, deserves, as we said, a medal, and has before it we hope a prosperous year as an octogenarian."

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT WAS ORIGINATED BY AN OLD FAMILY PHYSICIAN, AS HE—All who buy direct from the manufacturer, should receive a certificate that the money shall be refunded if not satisfied. Refund will be made in full, 35 cents. Six bottles, $2. Express pre-paid to any part of the United States; daily also postpaid. If you need a large quantity, or a retail stockkeeper, does not keep Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, urge him to get it for you. It will never fail. Do not fail to send for our pamphlet.—L. F. JOHNSON & CO., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass.

FARM NOTES.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cultivator secures a good soil for the first time in thirty years on a square acre of sandy soil by spreading twenty loads of coal ashes on it, lightly manuring it with barnyard manure, turning the whole under and seeding to clover.

WHEN fattening geese give a mixture of corn and wheat. They should also have a cooked mess twice a day, consisting of potatoes, turnips, chopped clover, cabbage and onions, as green food is essential. Add a quantity of salt, and do not overcook the water.

G. W. DEMAREE, commenting on the comparative merits of artificial comb foundation and foundation made by the bees, says: "Use comb foundation, by all means. In my locality, to set the bees to building their combs in the surplus cases, with view to obtain combs for extracting, would be the worst sort of management. The foundation will pay 200 per cent. on the investment the first season."

FUCHSIAS may be wintered very well in a dark cellar, if it is dry, so that the plants do not mold. Late in the fall without water gradually until the leaves drop off, then put them away in this dormant condition, bringing out again in March or as early as is feasible.

CLINGSTONE peaches sell just about as well as freestone if properly handled. They grow better, handle better, ship better and are always better flavored. After people learn how to get them off the stones they prefer them, says E. A. Bichi before a meeting of an Illinois horticultural society.

THE foundation of nearly all the ills that beset the dairyman is the buying of his dairy cows instead of raising them. To buy a cow is to buy something on trial. No dairyman can judge of the merits of a cow until he has tested her yield of milk. Cows from other sources also bring disease in the herd. Abortion, which is the most serious drawback to dairying, is contagious, and may be introduced in a herd by some cows brought from elsewhere.

A NEW by-product of the dairy is announced. It is called "lactoserin," and is a Swedish invention, or the result of such invention, the same as the separator and extractor. It has been examined by the editor of the American Dairyman, who appears to think it a success. It is nothing more nor less than skimmed milk made dry and then baked to a yellowish brown color. It is said to have been tested in the German hospitals where it was not only pronounced wholesome, but to be good for infants, and to have curative properties. We await developments.

LAST spring, says the New England Farmer, we receive from the Agricultural Department a package of a new variety of bean, claimed to be something "wonderful." The beans, their foliage and blossoms, are the same as those of the old-fashioned "posy" bean our grandmothers used to plant in their flower gardens, and as such we should consider them a valuable acquisition for general cultivation.

TO THE BEGINNERS.—To the novice in poultry raising I would make the following suggestions:
1. Have all plans as well matured as possible before commencing the business, especially if it is on a large scale.
2. Construct a convenient poultry house that shall be warm and dry in winter; easily ventilated in summer.
3. Select for general farm use not more than two or three different breeds of fowl.
4. Feed regularly and liberally, but do not overfeed. Give plenty of fresh water and good range in summer.
5. Do not overcrowd. Fowls need plenty of room.
6. Keep in separate apartments if fowls are very numerous.

HOUSEHOLD

GRILLED LAMB.—Put a shoulder of lamb over the fire in boiling water. When it has boiled for 2 or 3 minutes, during which time you have skinned it carefully, put where it will just simmer slowly for three-quarters of an hour, then take it out and slash or score it across with a sharp knife, both ways, making the cuts about an inch apart, and deep enough to reach nearly to the bone. Have some bread crumbs mixed with salt, pepper, parsley and a little thyme and marjoram. Brush the beaten yolk of an egg over the scored lamb, and sprinkle the crumbs upon it. Broil over a clear bright fire to a delicate brown. Make a sauce for it as follows: Put one cup of sugar over the fire in a saucepan with a cupful of good vinegar and a half teaspoonful of cayenne pepper; simmer ten minutes, and add a glass of claret and serve.

COTTAGER'S PIE.—This is a very nice way of serving any kind of cold meat. Put a tablespoonful of butter or nice sweet drippings in a frying pan, and when hot, add a spoonful of flour; stir to a rich brown, and add a pint of broth such as can be made from any bones and trimmings of cooked or uncooked meat. The bones from half a dozen chops, if boiled slowly for a couple of hours with an onion and seasoning, will make a pint of good broth for such a purpose. Cook this broth and flour for five minutes, season it rather high; half fill a deep dish with any kind of cold meat cut in bits and well seasoned, and pour this gravy over it; cover with mashed potatoes an inch thick, and dot with bits of butter before baking a nice brown. This can be varied by the addition of a cupful of tomato sauce, or by frying an onion with the drippings, or by the use of a teaspoonful of curry powder. If the meat is either veal or chicken, milk can be used instead of broth.

BAKED LIVER.—For one whole liver, spread a quarter of a pound of salt pork on the bottom of a bakingpan, cover with one onion, half a carrot and half a turnip, all par-d and sliced finely and dredged with salt and pepper. Lay on the liver, and over it two ounces of salt pork sliced; add a pint of water and place in a moderate oven. Baste every fifteen minutes with the gravy in the pan, and when it has cooked one hour and a half, stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour with cold water and vinegar. Cook half an hour longer, and serve with the gravy poured over it.

ROLLED FLANK OF BEEF.—Spread a flank of beef on a board, and if one part is thicker than another, as it is apt to be, equalize it by cutting some of the meat from the thick part, and spreading it over the thin. Make a dressing with some cracker or bread crumbs, a little summer savory, a spoonful of melted butter, seasoning and gravy enough to make the dressing moist. Spread the meat with this, and roll it up and pin a cloth firmly around it; place in a steaming pan and just cover with boiling water. As soon as it reaches the boiling point, set it where it will just simmer for five hours. Let it partially cool in the water in which it was cooked, then take up and remove the cloth, but not the strings. When cold and firm, remove these and the piece will cut into tender slices.

FRYING BANANAS.—Cut eight bananas into halves through their length, dip them in a paste made from three eggs, six ounces of flour and a little water to make it smooth. It must be sufficiently solid to adhere to the bananas; add a half teaspoonful of soda, mix thoroughly with your paste, dip the bananas in and fry them in hot lard, and when colored a bright yellow brown, sprinkle them with sugar and serve.

BRIDE CAKE.—A cupful and a half of sugar, half a cupful of butter, the whites of four eggs, two cupfuls of flour well mixed with two teaspoonfuls of yeast powder, a teaspoonful of extract of lemon, and half a cupful of milk. Frost.

Hark! to the sound of humanity's wail! Millions of people with aches and ails. Headaches and humors, a merciless foe, Weakness of lungs and disorders of blood. Yet there is a helper that certainly saves. Thousands of people from premature graves. The remedy is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures coughs, relieves asthma, checks bronchitis, purifies the blood, heals sores, eruptions and unsightly pimples, and without a rival for all the ills that spring from a disordered liver. All druggists.

Prepare for Spring

Now is the time to attend to your personal condition in preparation for the change to spring season. If you have not "wintered well," if you are tired out from overwork, if your blood has become impure from close confinement in badly ventilated offices or shops, you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. It will purify and vitalize your blood, create a good appetite, and tone your whole system. "For a first-class spring medicine my wife and I think very highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla. We both took it last spring. It did us a great deal of good and we felt better through the hot weather than ever before. It cured my wife of sick headache, from which she has suffered a great deal, and relieved me of a dizzy, tired feeling. I think every one ought to take something to purify the blood before the hot weather comes on, and we should certainly take Hood's Sarsaparilla this spring." J. H. PEARCE, Supt. STEWED BEEF. Cut the beef in dice, and fry a little hot dripping with a sliced onion until a light brown. Add one quart of boiling water, and minced parsley and celery. Simmer very slowly until the meat is nearly done, and then season with salt and pepper. Cook until very tender. For the dumplings, mix together two cups of flour sifted with two small teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one of salt, and make a soft dough with half a pint of milk and one beaten egg. Drop by the tablespoonful into the pot of boiling stew; see that the boiling never ceases for a minute; cover closely, and at the end of fifteen minutes try them with a fork; if they are done, turn all out onto a large platter.

The character of this stew can be greatly changed by omitting the dumplings, and adding a pint of tomatoes about an hour before it is done. In this case, put large slices of toast over the bottom of the dish. A large green pepper chopped and added is also a nice change.

BEEF OLIVES.—Have a pound and a half of round steak cut less than a half inch thick, trim off the edges and fat, and cut into strips three inches wide and four long; season with salt and pepper; chop the trimmings with an ounce of salt pork very fine; mix with it three tablespoonfuls of powdered cracker, one-half teaspoonful of sage and savory mixed, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, and half a teaspoonful of salt; mix all thoroughly, and spread on the strips of beef, and roll them up and tie with twine, and roll in flour. Fry brown as many slices of this pork as you have olives; take out the pork, put in the olives and fry brown also, then put them in a small saucepan that can be covered tightly. Stir in the fat remaining in the pan a tablespoonful of flour until perfectly smooth and brown, then pour in gradually three cups of boiling water stir for a minute or two, pour it over the olives, cover the saucepan, and simmer two hours. Take them up, cut the strings, and place the olives in a row on a dish with the gravy around them.

JEWELS AND LACES.
"Oh, girl with the jeweled fingers, Oh, maid with the lace rare!"

What are your jewels and what are your worth to you if, from undergoing the trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees, and which are enough to test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust, you break down, lose your health and become a physical wreck, as thousands do from such causes?
Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your lace to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.
For all those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturer, that will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper and faithfully carried out for many years.
As an invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated, teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.
As a soothing and strengthening nerve, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, and other distressing nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and dependency.
