LECONYAC QUITTED

The Jury Says Chalkley Did Not Kill Annie Leoney.

PROSECUTOR JENKINS PROSTRATED

Stricken with Heart Failure in the Midst of His Closing Address—The Judge's Charge—The Mother of the Murdered Girl Congratulates Chalkley. He Is Released.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 4.—At 9:45 yesterday afternoon the jury in the Leoney murder case brought in a verdict of "not guilty" and Leoney's friends pressed eagerly forward to congratulate him. There was a large throng both in and outside the court room, for it was generally believed that the verdict had been made up before the jury had left the box.

Very little can be learned of the reasons which swayed the jury to this conclusion, but the prevailing opinion is that the salient weakness of the state's case was the incredibility of its two main witnesses, Murray and Smith.

When the verdict of "not guilty" was pronounced the mother of the murdered girl threw her arms around Chalkley Leoney and wept. Leoney was immediately released.

The Public Prosecutor Fatigued. There was great excitement in the court room when Prosecutor Richard S. Jenkins, in the middle of a powerful speech closing the trial, was prostrated by an attack of heart failure.

The old lawyer who conducted the trial of the state in Camden county for twenty years previous to his succession by his nephew, Wilson H. Jenkins, six years ago, had been given the responsible task of delivering the closing argument for the state. He is of feeble frame, but great determination. He had fought against illness for the past three days, determined to make the effort of his closing semi-official life.

At the end of half an hour Mr. Jenkins complained of the ventilation of the court room. A few minutes later he was seen to stagger and but for the assistance of his nephew the prosecutor would have fallen.

He was led from the court room and Judge Garrison, who is a physician, attended him. It was announced that he had an attack of heart failure, probably not serious, and the court took a recess.

The Judge's Charge. Later the prosecutor agreed to let the case go to the jury on the charge of the court. Judge Garrison then began his charge. Judge Garrison charged that willful premeditation had not been proved, and that a verdict of murder in the first degree should not be rendered. He said verdicts of either the second degree, manslaughter or acquittal were all that were possible.

He said the testimony and conduct of the defendant alone should greatly influence the jury. The testimony of Smith and Murray, if the jury believed it, left no uncertainty as to guilt, but he called attention to the rigorous attack made on their veracity. The charge lasted forty-five minutes. It was able and impartial.

The jury was out three hours and twenty minutes.

CONGRESSIONAL

Summary of Proceedings in Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Mr. Chandler's resolution to censure Mr. Call came up in the senate and gentleman from Florida became still more violent in his language, declaring Chandler a coward for not having replied to the former attack which Call made on him.

Senators Sherman and Hawley protested against the language of the Florida senator, declaring it the most violent and unparliamentary ever heard in the senate. Mr. Sherman said he hoped the proper committee would, if it was necessary, so change the rules that no gentleman could in future use such language with impunity. The resolution was referred to the committee on privileges and elections. The senate passed a bill granting a pension of $100 a month to the widow of Gen. Judson Kilpatrick. Mr. Cook, of Texas, spoke in opposition to the educational bill.

The house passed a bill to discontinue coinage of $1 and $3 gold pieces and 3 cent silver pieces and several other bills of minor importance. Consideration of the educational bill was resumed in committee of the whole.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Mr. Gorham presented to the senate the credentials of Mr. Wilson for the new term and they were read. Messrs. Reagan and Wilson spoke in opposition to the educational bill.

In the house the contested election case of Atkinson vs. Pendleton, from the First, Virginia district, was called. After agreeing to limit debate to six hours the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The house called up the contested election case of Atkinson vs. Pendleton in the First West Virginia district and seated Atkinson, the contestant, by a vote of 182 to 0. The Democrats refrained from voting and the speaker counted a quorum. Mr. Atkinson was immediately sworn in. The Democrats will take the case to the supreme court. The urgent delivery bill was then considered in committee of the whole.

The house passed the following house bills for public buildings: Roanoke, Va., $100,000; Norfolk, Va., $100,000; Newport News, Va., $100,000; Lynchburg (extension), $50,000; Petersburg, Va. (enlargement and improvement), $50,000. The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the bill to declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and competition.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The house discussed and passed a pension bill for a bill. It was necessary to have a call of the house to secure a quorum, and proceed with the consideration of the bill, and then after several hours spent in discussing points of order in committee of the whole, the committee rose and the bill was passed. It appropriates $25,000,000—the largest item being $1,000,000 to pay pensioners of the war of 1812 and the Mexican war. The house at its evening session passed forty-five pension bills.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, Senator Ingalls was elected to serve as president pro tem of the senate during the absence of the vice president, Morton. Mr. Ingalls, after taking the formal oath of office, took his seat as president of the senate. Mr. Blair again called the attention of the senate to the action of the press associations of the country in not reporting fully the fact spread by him before the senate in his speeches on the educational bill. The senate then discussed the bill granting pensions to soldiers and sailors incapacitated for the performance of manual labor.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Mr. Perkins vainly endeavored to induce the house to suspend the rules and put on its passage the senate bill for the organization of the territory of Oklahoma. The Arkansas contested election case of Featherstone vs. Cate was called up and debated.

The senate passed the bill fixing the salaries of the judges of the United States district courts at $3,000 a year. Mr. Spooner, of Wisconsin, spoke against the educational bill.
