ANOTHER CAVEIN.

A Damaging Drop in Real Estate at Wilkesbarre, I'm.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 28 .- A tremor of the earth and a sinking of houses in the northern part of the city demonstrated the fact that a cavein had occurred somewhere in the Convergham mines. A party of mine explorers made a descent into the workings, but did not deem it advisable to approach near to the cave. They find that the cave is in a direct line with the recent settling under the Lehigh Valley shops and round house. As far as can be learned the settling in the interior is widespread and has caused great damage.

The mine is operated by the Delaware and Hudson Coal company.

Scott Helps His Miners.

MT.CARMEL, March 28 .- Two thousand miners at Hon. W. L. Scott's mine, in this vicinity, have been idle three months. Yesterday Mr. Scott sent his check for $5,000 for their benefit, with instructions to draw for more when needed. This, with the promise of a speedy resumption of work, has greatly encouraged the men, whose sufferings during the period of idleness have been

Black Measles Epidemic.

PITTSBURG. April 1.—Black measles has become an epidemic in the Twentyfourth and Twenty-seventh wards of this city. There are 400 to 500 cases now, and there have been fifteen deaths so far from the disease. Doctors say the malady is much more dangerous than usual, as it is accompanied by throat and lung throuble, and they claim that it is a remnant of la grippe.

Murdered for a Pipe.

CRESSON, March 31 .- What will doubtless end in murder occurred here, when Nicholas Mulhearn fatally stabbed Fritz Chienelsky in the abdomen with a pocket knife. Mulhearn had taken a pipe from Chienelsky and when he asked im to return it Mulhearn jumped on Chienelsky and stabbed him six times. Mulhearn escaped and his victim will

WOE IN THE WEST.

Death in the Wake of the Western Whirlwind.

LOUISVILLE IS LAID IN RUINS.

Scenes of Anguish and Destruction That Baffle Description.

HUNDREDS KILLED AND WOUNDED

The Tornado Tore Through the Town in a Zigzag Course and Left a Mass of Ruined Buildings and a Panie Stricken Populace-Hundreds Killed and a Greater Number Injured-Fire Adds Horror to the Scene-Reports Still Coming in from Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee Swell the Terrible Record of Devastation.

CINCINNATI, March 28.—It is reported that many hundreds of lives have been lost at Louisville, Ky., Jeffersonville, Ind., and neighboring cities, a tornado having devastated the region. No accurate reports are obtainable. Rumor places the loss of life in Louisville at 1,500 and in Jeffersonville at 500. It is reported that the principal destruction at Louisville was in the western part of the city.

LOUISVILLE, March 29.—The Falls City, which sat so proudly on the banks of the turbulent Ohio but two days ago. giving no thought of danger, is now mourning the loss of 300 of her sons, whose lives went out in the twinkling of an eye and her sons and daughters are standing around the bedside of hundreds of others who were injured. Many of them fatally, in the terrible disaster that has overtaken her.

The calamity came without warning and it found men and women engaged in their usual avocations and many seeking pleasure only to find the halls of their gaity and mirth turned suddenly into the most terrible of sepulchures.

Approach of the Storm. Early in the evening the clouds west and southwest of the city had a threat ening aspect and a brisk wind with rain prevailed for two or three hours, but although the violence of the storm increased as darkness approached no alarm was excited. About 8 o'clock the clouds were seen to mass themselves to the southwest of the city. Half an hour later the blast came with terrible effect, the culmination, as it were, of all the threatenings of hours before.

Just west of New Albany the Ohio bends to the south and it was here and on the Indiana side that the storm assumed the proportions of a cyclone and started upon its devastating course. Crossing the river at a point just below New Albany it struck the suburbs of Portland and unroofed several houses.

It Strikes the City. Apparently fed by the partial destruction it struck the city at Seventeenth and Broadway and took a direct northeast course, striking the squares in its path, at the angles, and extending about one and a half squares in width. Each square brought it nearer to the business portion of the city until it struck Main and Eleventh. Here its track was broadened until it covered three squares.

passing out of the city at Seventh street, where it crossed to the Indiana side. The space traversed was not less than three miles and on every side desolation was visible. Massive buildings of brick and stone were crushed and scattered at every side and hardly a residence fell that some of the inmates were not killed or injured. The cries of the survivors and the groans of the injured ningled together and added to the ap-palling desolation of the scene.

Scenes of Anguish and Panic.

At first there could be no organized effort at rescue. Hundreds of homes had been demolished, husbands and wives, parents and children had been separated, and each knowing nothing of the condition of the other ran frautically from place to place looking for

As if to add to the horror, fire at once broke out in all parts of the devastated district, and the bewildered firemen knew not which of the half dozen places to go to first. The Terrell & Deitz house, on Eighth street, Sim's furnishing house, the Colored Odd Fellows' hall and Seegar's saloon, all some distances apart, were on fire at the same time. The Killed in Fatis City Hall. Probably the greatest loss of life occurred at the Falls City hall, which was in the center of the tornado. In the lower rooms of the hall were fifty or seventy-five children, with their mothers and other relatives, taking dancing lessons. There were at least 125 persons on the lower floors and seventy-five more attending a lodge meeting on the upper floor when the terrible wind swooped down upon the building. The entire structure in less than five minutes was a shapeless mass of brick and mortar, burying 200 helpless victims, of which number few escaped uninjured. Conservative estimates place the loss of life at this point at 100, while other reports indicate the number nearer 200. Immediately upon the burst of the cyclone the fire bells sounded and the police were at work. Within ten minites a posse appeared at the Falls City hall wreck. Digging Out the Victims. When the force of police appeared at the Falls City hall the walls of the adjoining house were first propped, and then began the work of cutting through the heavy slate roof that covered all. At first work was difficult and laborious on account of the anxious multitude that thronged the wreck. Difficult was the task to clear the ruins of women who were found digging at the slate with their fingers, crazed at the groans beneath, each of which they thought ascended from their dying. Every one did noble work.

BURYING THE VICTIMS.

The Streets Thronged with Funerals. Reports of Fatalities Exaggerated. LOUISVILLE, March 31.-If possible the throngs of sightseers were even larger than the day previous, when the woeful spectacle was first unfolded to the light of day in all its hideousness. All night long the searching parties continued their labors and the sound of rattling wagons rose out of every street.

Carpenteas and tinners worked like beavers the whole day trying to repair bro-ken roofs and strengthen dangerously weakened walls. Gangs of linemen were getting the tangled and broken wires of the telephone and telegraph out of the way for further repairs.

Meanwhile the solemn tolling of church bells, the frequent passage of laden hearses and long lines of funeral carriages gave note to the hurrying crowd that the tornado's victims were passing to their last abodes.

Loss of Life and Property. «Careful estimates by competent un-derwriters and salvage agents are nearly agreed that the damage to build-ings of all classes, to domestic goods and commercial stocks will aggregate close to $2,500,000, with a liberal allowance for rebuilding and repairs.

The main point of comforting thought is that the loss of life will not prove nearly so great as first supposed. Ata late hour on Saturday night ninety-four names were borne on the list of the dead, and of these but three were taken from the ruins during the whole of Saturday.

Barying the Victims.

The work of burying the dead went on with ghastly, systematic briskness yesterday. All of the hearses in the city were taxed to their utmost. One procession contained five hearses, conlaundry girls, Maggie McClure, Mary Bridget Crow, Maggie Campbell and Mary McGinty, whose funeral services were held at the cathedral at the same time.

Humboldt Lodge, I. O. O. F., re-mained at Cave Hill cemetery during the afternoon and received one at a time of the funeral processions of the ten members of that fraternity killed at the Falls City hall. The burials with the ritual services of the order occurred at half hour intervals.

So urgent were the demands on the undertakers that as a rule but two hacks were allowed to each funeral Even with this arrangement the facilities were inadequate and the electric street cars via Green street and Baxter avenue were called into requisition as a more rapid means of funeral convey-

TRAIL OF THE TORNADO.

Reports from Other Places That Suffered Only Less Severely Than Louisville. GOLCONDA, Ills., March 31,-The cyclone of the 27th struck this place from the southwest, being accompanied by rain and hail in floods and valleys. The two story farm house of Jonathan Robinette was riven to pieces and its inmates were tossed about like playthings. All were more or less injured, Mrs. Robinette fatally. Miss Lucy Robinette was struck by a flying timber and killed outright. George Taylor's residence was torn to pieces. His wife was killed snd other members of the family were seriously injured. All his out-buildings were wrecked. A German boy, name unknown, was drowned. Rumors are constantly coming in of residences destroyed, barns wrecked, fencing washed away, orchards ruined, and men, women and children killed or washed away by the rushing waters.

In Tennessee.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 29.—The storm struck this city about 9 p. m., but beyond unroofing a few houses and blowing down a number of signs, did no damage.

The town of Fayetteville, Lincoln county, fared badly. A negro woman was killed by falling walls, and a number of persons were injured. The principal stores in the town were wrecked and the stock of goods either blown away or ruined by the rain which followed. Many residences were demol-The damage is estimated at $206,000, and many of the poorer classes, especially, the negroes, are destitute

At Trezevant, Weakly county, the little 8-year-old child of E. E. Martin was killed, several persons injured and many houses wrecked. Other towns in the state report some damage, but nothing serious.

At Morgansfield, Ky. MORGANSFIELD, Ky., March 31.-A terrible hail and wind storm visited Uniontown, Ky., and Union and Web-ster counties Thursday at 5:40 p. m. The wife of W. B. Taylor, a son of Henry Hammock, a German unknown and others were killed outright. Beds, furniture and clothing have been found all along the road from Morganfield to Bixon. The killed and wounded at Webster will number not less than fifty.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 31.—The Chesapeake and Nashville railroad suffered much loss of property by Thursday's cyclone. About 600 feet of high trestle work were destroyed and two 500 feet iron bridges were blown from their pillars. They were broken and twisted into thousands of pieces and shapes and are a total loss. pany hope to be able to run trains gyer the road in three weeks. A mile of track was torn by the cyclone. A special from Clay, Ky., says that the number of lives lost will not fall short of fifty, while the damage to property is estimated at about $70,000.

In Southern Illinois. CAIRO, Ills., March 29.-The gale here on the river sunk several shanties and fish boats on the Ohio river and rendered navigation almost impossible. In the city it blew down one frame house from its foundation into the No one was hurt. The gale blew at the rate of sixty miles an hour. At Mill Creek five houses and several barns were blown down and a Mrs. Bartline and child severely hurt. At Metropolis the tornado unroofed about 100 houses, among them being the court house and bank and Judge Milkey's residence. One person was killed and several hurt.

Bridge Blown Down. EVANSVILLE, Ind., March SI .- Three spans of the Newport News and Mississippi Valley railroad bridge, across the Cumberland river, near Kutacross the Cumberland river, near Kuttawa, Ky., were blown into the river by Thursday's cyclone. The loss of property in the vicinity of Kuttawa is estimated at $50,000. Twelve persons are reported to have been killed and about thirty seriously injured. At Eddyville, Ky., nine persons were killed.

Silcott's Stealings. WASHINGTON, April 1 .- The court of claims gave judgment in favor of Representative Crain, of Texas, in his suit to compel the government to reimburse him for money lost through the defalcaaim for money lost through the defalca-tion of Clerk Silcott. This decision will, of course, be the guide in all simi-lar cases, and the federal treasury will be obliged to make good the whole of Silcott's shortage, which amounted to CONGRESSIONAL.
