LIGHTNING RODS UP.

Pennsylvania Republicans Who Want to Be Governor.

DELAMATER LEADS THE LIST.

He Has About One-third of the Delegates—Seventeen Counties Still to Hear From—Many Uninstructed Delegates—Hastings' Active Campaign—No Death of Dark Horses.

PITTSBURG, May 27.—Fifty-four of the sixty-seven counties in Pennsylvania have held their conventions and elected delegates to the Republican state convention, which will meet in Harrisburg four weeks from to-morrow. In six of the counties the primaries were held on Saturday.

No living man knows how all the delegates thus far elected will vote for governor, even on the first ballot. It is doubtless true that a goodly number of these delegates do not themselves know how they will vote. In many of the counties, however, the delegates have been instructed either by direct resolutions or by what is considered a binding preference vote of their county conventions. In other counties the delegates ran as representatives of special gubernatorial candidates and are thus pledged, by their own action, to vote for those candidates.

Contesting Delegations.
In one county, Berks, two contesting delegations of five members each have been elected by split conventions. The five men on the one hand favor Senator Delamater; the five on the other hand are for Gen. Hastings, Maj. Montooth or Secretary Stone.

It is generally expected by those who are interested actively in the campaign that, if the organization of the state convention is controlled by the field or the anti-Delamater forces, the Delamater delegation from Berks county will be permitted to occupy seats in the spectators' gallery.

Delamater Delegates.
Senator Delamater has secured more positive delegates than any other candidate. He has the following either instructed or pledged for him: Armstrong, 2; Cambria, 2; Clarion, 2; Crawford, 3; Elk, 1; Erie, 3; Franklin, 2; Fulton, 1; Lackawanna, 4; Lawrence, 2; Mercer, 3; Schuylkill, 4; Venango, 2; Wayne, 2; total, 38. In addition to these 2 of the 3 delegates from Delaware, 1 from Luzerne, 3 from Northampton, 1 from Potter and 2 from Wayne are strongly claimed for Delamater, making his maximum strength at this time 42.

Hastings Men.
The delegates instructed or pledged to Adjt. Gen. Hastings are: Blair, 2; Center, 2; Clearfield, 2; Clinton, 1; Juniata, 1; Millin, 1; Snyder, 1; Union, 1, and York, 4—in all, 15. Besides these the Hastings workers claim very positively 1 in Carbon, 1 in Delaware and 2 in Schuylkill. Two of the Schuylkill delegates have declared that they will not vote for Delamater, but further than that have made no positive announcement.

The Hastings people also claim the six delegates from Lancaster county, but those votes are being claimed by nearly all the candidates. The delegation has been elected in the interest of E. K. Martin, a candidate for lieutenant governor, and will vote for governor in the best manner to serve him. In some other counties delegates have been elected for both Hastings and Martin, while Delamater and Watres go together.

The Dark Horses.
Secretary of the Commonwealth Stone has secured the delegates from the following counties: Bedford, 2; Cameron, 1; McKean, 2; Montour, 1; Northumberland, 2 and Warren 1—in all 9. The two delegates from Adams are credited to Stone, and he will probably secure the two from Butler county. Maj. Montooth has the three delegates from Lehigh county and the one from Greene. His friends claim others in uninstructed delegations, but are averse to giving "pointers" to the opposition. Bradford's 3 delegates are instructed for Lieutenant Governor Davies, Luzerne's 5 out of 5 for Congressman Osborne, and Lycoming's 3 for Congressman McCormick.

The 17 counties which have not yet voted will elect 91 delegates. Of that number Philadelphia and Allegheny counties will choose 55. Of the Philadelphia delegates 30 will be for Hastings, and Allegheny's 16 will be for Montooth. The race is now an interesting one.

Mangled by a Torpedo Explosion.
BRADFORD, Pa., May 26.—Joseph and Willie Tranter and Austin Paterson were terribly cut and mangled here by the explosion of a torpedo squib. The boys found the squib in an old brush heap on High street and either kicked or threw a stone at it, when it exploded with the above results. Willie Tranter had his right eye blown out and pieces of tin and iron embedded in his flesh. He will die. The other two will survive.

Knights of Labor Decoration Day.
PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—T. V. Powderly, general master workman of the Knights of Labor, will deliver an address on Decoration day in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The occasion for Mr. Powderly's appearance is the decoration ceremonies in which the Knights of Labor have made arrangements to participate by a decoration of the grave of the founder of the order, Uriah S. Stevens.

Landslides Near Johnstown.
PITTSBURG, May 26.—Two land slides delayed trains on the Pennsylvania railroad for several hours before they could be cleared away. At Butterfield Falls near Conemaugh, the water washed about twenty-five feet of the track ballast away. The passengers on the through mail west were transferred and arrived here about four hours late.

A Gettysburg Skeleton.
GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 24.—While the new proprietor of the McClellan house had a force of hands making an excavation alongside the Western Maryland depot they came upon a skeleton, with which Union army buttons were found. The remains were sent to the National cemetery for interment.

Seven Divorces in a Day.
LANCASTER, Pa., May 26.—Seven couples were divorced in court here Saturday on the grounds of desertion and cruel treatment. An unusually large number of subpoenas in divorce are still pending.
