WHERE IS THE RACKET?

Is a question often asked by persons not acquainted in Bellefonte. Do you come via L. & F. B. E. V., or B. R. Railroads, go up High Street about 2 1/2 squares to the Diamond; turn to the left; pass 1st Nat. Bank, Montgomery's Clothing House, Erhard & Co., grocers, and next you find "The Racket," being the middle room of Crider's Exchange the largest and most noticeable building in the town. If you can't find it ask the first boy you come to, they are our especial friends, they say, "There is no flies on The Racket."

And they know. G. R. SPIGELMYER, SHEN SPIGELMYER, Jr.

A certain extinguisher for the frolicking Canada thistle, as given the Reporter by one who tried it, is to cut off the weed, a distance above the ground, just before they go to seed and when the stem is hollow, and then with a small can let about a thimble full of coal oil drop into the hollow stem and the job is complete.

"Should every dog of every breed in America be killed to-morrow," says a St. Louis statistician, "the real loss to the country would not be $100. On the contrary, the gain would be at least $30,000,000 per year. Nations fanned for their thrift and economy do not take to dogs." We guess our townsman, Sando, does not believe in that sort of doctrine.

Mr. Louis Contoit, of New York, reporter for several of the leading sporting papers in that city, was in town the other day in company with Mr. C. K. Sober, of near Coburn, at whose place he was a visitor. He had witnessed some of the latter gentleman's remarkable feats in glass ball shooting at Williamsport on the Fourth and came along up here to negotiate with Mr. Sober for a three days' exhibition in New York. Some of the leading clubs there are anxious to see the famous Centre county shot and are willing to spend large sums of money to have him come there. Mr. Sober has not yet decided whether he will accept their pressing invitation.—Millheim Journal.

A Clinton County FASTER.

Clinton county has a woman who is making a record for herself as a faster which promises to equal that of Tanner, if her strength does not fail too soon. The lady is Mrs. Daniel Snyder, who, with her husband resides in the prosperous village of Mackeyville, in Nittany valley. The Lock Haven Express says: Mrs. Snyder commenced her fast on Sunday, June 10, consequently Sunday was the thirty-fourth day since food passed her lips, so far as is known. During the thirty-four days Mrs. Snyder positively refused to eat food of any kind, but occasionally took a little water. For the past five days not even water has passed her lips and she has become very much emaciated, being reduced to a mere skeleton. No cause is known for the woman's singular action in refusing to take food. She has no disease, and is apparently of sound mind. Her condition at present is similar to that of a person greatly reduced by fever or other wasting disease, and she is unable to speak owing to her weakness. About two years ago a Philadelphia doctor performed an operation on Mrs. Snyder for the removal of an ovarian tumor, but physicians say her continued fast is no way a result of the operation. This is said to be the third time she has fasted for long periods of time, although in neither of the previous instances did her fast continue so long. Mrs. Snyder's death is likely to result in a few days, as she is now thought by physicians to be in too low a condition to revive.

The Clara Price Monument.

The contract for the monument to be erected over the grave of Clara Price, for whose assault and murder Alfred Andrews was hung at Bellefonte a short time ago, has been awarded to J. R. Batchelder, Lock Haven. It will be plain shaft fourteen feet six inches high on which the following inscription will be cut:

CLARA IDA PRICE. Born June 16th, 1871. Died, November 27th, 1892. Aged 21 years, 5 months and 11 days. Murdered near Karthans, Pa., November 27th, 1892, by Alfred Andrews. Virtue hath its reward in life as well as after death. My life for my honor. PRICE.

In the bottom base a hole will be cut 10 inches long, 5 inches wide and 5 inches deep in which will be placed a tin box containing a list of the names of subscribers to the monument fund, copies of the county papers, and such other articles as are usually placed in a corner stone. The cost of the monument will be between $300 and $400.

A naturalist has begun a series of investigations in regard to the amount of appreciation shown by animals for music. He finds that sheep and pigeons are fond of the flute; pigs oxen and cows attracted by instrumental combinations and dogs delighted with sleigh bells. Canaries generally respond to musical sound and hares have been known to stand listening in the field to the chanting of choristers. Sais are peculiarly susceptible and follow ships for many miles, where a violin is discoursing. The hippopotamus is visibly affected by the drum. "Squirrels are not only fascinated, but actually spellbound by the music box or guitar." Alligators and hyenas are either insensible or frightened by experiments and as yet tradition only can settle the taste of a wolf. A Scotch bagpiper, according to an old legend, was traveling in Ireland one evening when a wolf came upon him. He was obliged to open his wallet and supply him with the whole stock of his provisions, after which he made his pipes skirl. "This the monster no sooner heard than he took to the mountains. 'Aye,' said the piper, 'had I known your humor you should have had your music before your supper.'" Tradition, however, would require in this case to be corrected by further experiment.
