

FARM AND HOME.

THE DINNER IN THE FIELD.

By J. M. H.

What was it you said of the dinner, wife? That the cook has spoiled the roast? And yet, when she came here a month ago? Was she not your pride and boast? There are cooks and cooks, as the saying goes, but only one have I seen Who could cook a dinner just to my taste. Who is it, you ask, that I mean? Well, if you will give me your promise, wife, That you'll banish all jealousy, I'll tell how I came to know that cook. How she came to cook for me. Agreed? Very well. You remember, dear, When a lad, how I worked around On the various farms in our neighborhood? Wherever the work was found? One year I was working at harvest time For a certain farmer, a man Who was bluff and honest, a man who was made On the good old-fashioned plan. I was cutting a patch of grass that stood A long way off from the house. Next to the pasture where I could see The farmer's cattle browse. And at noon-tide the farmer's daughter brought My dinner, which she had cooked; I remember now, as the sun rose high, With what pleasure for her I looked. And when she came I took from her arm The basket, and quickly untied. The butter-milk that hid the winds which she Had prepared with a housewife's pride.

And what were those viands? Pork and beans, Apple pie and ginger-cake, Cottage cheese, buttermilk, and delicious bread, Such as only she could make. She smiled as I ate, and at times would pour The butter-milk from a pitcher; This buttermilk is good, I admit, But that was sweeter and richer. Ah! why do you blush? Are you thinking, dear wife, How I snatched a kiss as you went? How I asked your father, before the snow fell, To your marriage to give consent? You have cooked many dinners for me since the words Of the preacher that true love sealed, But the best of all dinners I ever had I ate in your father's field.

An Arab Dinner.

While at El Ontaja we made friends with the sheik of the village, a very dignified and courteous personage, who invited us to dinner, along with the station master and a French gentleman who had lately arrived to try an experiment in vine culture. We were received in a windowless room, with a handsome carpet and a good deal of furniture of a plain kind. His secretary sat at another table writing most of the time, for the village sheiks exercise magisterial functions. After a preliminary course of two or three rather highly-spiced viands, served in European fashion, the nice d resistance came on.

The table was cleared and a flat iron dish, a yard in diameter, was placed there, and two servants bore in a half grown sheep roasted whole on a wooden spit. This was deposited on the dish and the spit withdrawn. The sheik then proceeded to pull off the choicer parts with his fingers and place them on our plates, after which we were expected to help ourselves in the same "go-as-you-please" fashion. The meat was roasted very brown and crisp, and was not so nasty as it sounds.

After this followed the great national dish of "cous-cous"—flour moistened and rolled by the hand into tiny balls like aggs, then steamed, and served with different sauces or raisins. A wife is valued to a great extent according to her ability to make "cous-cous." We had lots of Algerian wine, which the sheik did not disdain to drink himself. Dates and pomegranates finished the meal.—[Nineteenth Century.

The Left Hand and Health.

In connection with the subject of the quality of the brain there is one point of great importance about which I can only say a few words, writes Dr. Brown Sequard in the Forum. It is that we have a great many motor elements in our brain and our spinal cord which we neglect absolutely to educate. Such is the case particularly with the elements which serve the movements of the left hand. Perhaps, however, fathers and mothers will be more ready to develop the natural powers of the left hand of their children, giving them thereby two powerful hands, if they accept that, as I believe, the health of the brain and spinal cord would improve if all their motor elements were fully exercised.

Getting Satan Behind Her, to Fash. Armand—Come! Fly with me. I implore you? Camille—Never! Sir, you mean me.

Armand—What! You will not go? Camille—I will resist you with all strength of my woman's nature. If you would tear me from this place, you must first drug me and render me unconscious. You will find a bottle of chloroform on the bureau over there.—[From an unproduced drama by Dumas.

"Nature rarely wastes, but sometimes she does," said Mehtabel as she eluded. "Look at the elephant, for instance. Two tons practically, and yet with a hide impervious to flies."

LONGEVITY IN THE DESERT.

Aged Mission Indians, Among whom is One who has Lived 120 Years.

Deputy United States Marshal Ralph Dominguez of Los Angeles, who was in the city last evening, tells a very strange tale of the extraordinary longevity of some Indians upon whom he served some papers last week.

Five Mission Indians were subpoenaed to testify in a case wherein the Government is plaintiff. The point involved is as to whether or not the Indians shall be maintained in the possession of the Potrero reservation, which comprises 45,000 acres of the finest land in Southern California. The five Indians in question were wanted to testify as to how long they had had possession of the reservation, and their ages ranged from 80 to 120 years. Mr. Dominguez found them in the Yuma desert, about ten miles the other side of Indio.

The oldest of the quintet was Juan Sabichi, who had been on earth 120 years. Francisca Apache was aged 115 years. Juan Largo had only lived 100 years. Juan Cohulla was born 95 years ago. The youth of the party was Chief Cabazon, who had only recollect of seeing 80 summers pass. Juan Sabichi and Francisca Apache recollect of the commencement of the work on the mission at Potrero which, as a historical fact, was built 110 years ago. They both assisted in the construction of the antique temple, as they carried adobe and in that way aided in the work. On account of their extreme age they can hardly walk now, but all things considered they are quite "chippier."

Francisca Apache was married fourteen years ago, when he was over 100 years old. In honor of his union to an Apache woman, who on the occasion was a blushing bride of 60 summers, he added to his name the name of the tribe his wife was a member of.

Four years ago the father of Chief Cabazon died at the advanced age of 140 years, and then his son succeeded to the chieftanship. These extraordinary instances of the longevity of the Mission Indians, who number about 600, speaks a great deal for the climate of the Yuma desert, where during all this time they have lived undisturbed by the white man.—San Diego Union.

How to Count Bank Bills.

"There are two kinds of bank bills," said a man who has handled a good many of them. "There are the national bank bills and the Government notes. The former have vignettes on each end, the latter on the left-hand end only. The Treasury Department made a mistake in putting the vignette on the left end of the Government note, for this reason: Take a bundle of these bills in a bank; the bank clerk in counting such a bundle places his left hand on the left end of the bundle and counts the right end with his right thumb and finger. The vignette is the most difficult thing to counterfeit, and for that very reason it is counterfeited most. In counting such bills as I have been speaking about this vignette is not seen by the bank clerk, and he is more liable to count in a spurious note than if he saw the vignette. The expert knows a bad vignette almost at a glance. I think if the Treasury Department had thought of this the vignette would have been put on the right end of the bill."

This was told to the cashier of a Dearborn street bank. He smiled when he heard it. "In the first place," he said, "bank clerks do not count bills in the way you mention. If they do they violate orders. The instructions are that they shall handle the bills so that each can will come entirely within the range of the eye. I presume there are violations of this rule in every bank. Even so, an expert has other means of detecting a bad bill than looking at the vignette. However, I am of the opinion that the vignette would be an additional safeguard if it were on the right end of the note."—[Chicago Tribune.

CRIB UNDER ARREST.—Mr. Pulliam (about to propose)—"Miss Sanford, I am now going to say what I wanted to say an hour ago. Can you not guess from my eyes what it is?" Miss Sanford—"Do you mean 'good night'?" You look sleepy."

"August Flower"

"I inherit some tendency to Dyspepsia from my mother. I suffered two years in this way; consulted a number of doctors. They did me no good. I then used Relieved in your August Flower and it was just two days when I felt great relief. I soon got so that I could sleep and eat, and I felt that it was well. That was three years ago, and I am still first-class. I am never without a bottle, and if I feel constipated the least particle a dose or two of August Flower does the work. The beauty of the medicine is, that you can stop the use of it without any bad effects on the system. Constipation while I was sick I felt everything it seemed to me I man could feel. I was of all men most miserable. I can say, in conclusion, that I believe August Flower will cure anyone of Life of Misery with judgment. A. I. Weed, 219 Bellefontaine St., Indianapolis, Ind."

Which will you have, sickness, suffering and despair, or health, strength, and spirit? You can take your choice. All chronic diseases and derangements peculiar to women are permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the female functions to healthy action. It removes the obstructions and suppressions which cause trouble and misery. For periodical pains, internal inflammation, ulceration and kindred ailments, it is a positive remedy. The system is invigorated, the blood enriched, digestion improved, melancholy and nervousness dispelled. It's a legitimate medicine, the only one that's guaranteed to give satisfaction in the cure of all "female complaints."

HUMOROUS.

A darkness that may be felt—A black hat. The disinherited son is punished with a will. The royal chef does things to the Queen's taste.

"We meet but to part," as the comb said to the brush. The lobster is not noted for its bashfulness; but it turns red on getting into "hot water."

"I say, Bill!" (shouting to another salesman), "got any more of those diamond necklaces for $1.49?" "Sweet nothing!" he exclaimed softly, as he looked at the row of ciphers after the figure on the check.

A value of a compliment lies in its pling. "Heart of oak" is more pleasantly received than "wooden head."

"ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPOKE."—"Did you call on the cautious last eve ing?" "Yes." "How did you find them?" "Easily enough; I've been there before."

ANOTHER KIND OF VEHICLE.—"D'd he leave in a coupé?" asked the judge of an amusing witness. "No, your honor. He left in a huff," was the unexpected answer.

NOT AN EXTINCT RACE.—Teacher—"Johnny, who was the prodigal son?" Johnny—"Oh, that was the fellow who went away a dude and came back a tramp."

HARD TIMES TO GUESS.—"Do you hear that Lyzideede has printed a prize picture?" "N." "True. It's to be given as a prize to any one who guesses what it's about."

A GOOD REASON.—Customer—"You're let-out 'shine isn't, as good as your advertisement." Bookback—"I know it, sir; that's the reason I charge more. They injure my reputation."

A SURE SOURCE OF INFORMATION. Wool—"Bronson has gotten himself in a nice scrape taken a contract to build a sewer, and don't know the first thing about the work." Van Pelt—"That's no matter; the lawyers will who will hang around will tell him how it should be done."

Progress. It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and the most gentle diuretic known.
