PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Postmaster General Wanamaker appeared before the Bardsley investigating committee yesterday afternoon and asked to be allowed to testify. He explained his connection with Lucas in the Reading stock deal, showing that his actions were perfectly business like.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—Failure of council's committee to verify once a week the cash account of Bardsley, and the failure of the common law to provide for the issuing of a writ of sequestration in case of an official default, were the causes assigned by the judges of the court of common pleas No. 1 for refusing to grant the writ of sequestration asked for by the city against the ex-city treasurer's property.

DEATH TRAP FOR TWO

Fatal Upsetting of a Bateau in a Ferry Slip. PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—Mrs. Mollie Carpenter, 30 years old, wife of William Carpenter, a huckster, and her son John, 7 years old, living at 630 Division street, Camden, were drowned in the Delaware river last night.

When he dipped the oars to pass the slip one of the oar leeks broke. Looking up he saw the steamboat Pennsylvania entering the slip into which they had drifted and saw the great danger. As he uttered the cry of warning the big boat struck the bateau. Mrs. Carpenter, who was sitting in the stern, grabbed her son, while Mr. Carpenter got a firm hold of the rudder of the Pennsylvania. He heard his wife scream, and when he turned his head he saw her go over the side of the little craft and disappear beneath the swell from the wheels of the ferry boat with her arms.

A FEAR CRAZED BOY.

Pitiable Scenes at a Philadelphia Coroner's Office.

YOUTHFUL MURDERERS' TERROR

One of the Juveniles Becomes So Panic Stricken Over the Terrible Charge Against Him That He Is Removed to the Hospital for Treatment.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The sad spectacle was witnessed at the coroner's office of two lads, the elder barely 16, who were present on the serious charge of having taken human life. The younger of the two was Joseph Fitzmaurice, aged 14 years, of No. 1813 South Front street, who stabbed John Sobieski, a Pole, aged 36 years, living at No. 777 South Front street, in the leg with a Barlow knife on Friday night at Front and Mead streets, from the effects of which he died the next day at the Pennsylvania hospital.

When Fitzmaurice was brought into the office his mother became hysterical, and at the conclusion of the case, when he was remanded by the coroner to Moyamensing prison to await the action of the grand jury, she grew nearly frantic. Overcome by His Mother's Grief. The poor lad was overcome by his mother's grief, and was only saved from fainting by the hurried application of restoratives. He trembled violently, and, unable to give vent to his feelings in tears, gazed with dry but agonized eyes at his mother, who followed him, vainly calling his name as he was led back to the patrol wagon.

Another Youthful Murderer

The excitement created by Mrs. Fitzmaurice and her son had barely died away when the case of Thomas Crooks, Jr., aged 14 years, who died at the Episcopal hospital on Saturday, from the effect of a pistol shot inflicted earlier in the day by James Crossett, 16 years old, of No. 2337 Lehigh street, was called.

His Composure Forsook Him. During the hearing of the testimony, both in his own case and that of Fitzmaurice, Crossett had not manifested any feeling. When called to the witness stand he gave his testimony in what appeared to be the coolest and most nonchalant manner.

His condition now grew so alarming that Coroner Anshutz said: "This is no place for that boy. He needs immediate attention. I will continue the case. Take him at once to the Episcopal hospital for treatment, and let the doctors there telegraph me when he is ready to come here again."

An Alarming Condition

It is said that ever since Crook's death Crossett has been brooding over the affair, and has expressed himself in mortal terror lest he would be hanged.
