KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

BELVERNOS, Pa., Nov. 27, 30,
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.: Gents—I would like to make known to those who are almost persuaded to use Kendall's Spavin Cure the fact that I think it is a most excellent Liniment.
I have used it on a Blood Spavin. The horse went on three legs for three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure. I used ten bottles on the horse and have worked him for three years since and has not been lame.
Yours truly,
WM. A. CURL.

Gents: In praise of Kendall's Spavin Cure I will say, that a year ago I had a valuable young horse become very lame, hock enlarged and swollen. The horsemen about here (we have no Veterinary Surgeon here) pronounced his lameness Blood Spavin or Thoroughpin, they all told me there was no cure for it, he became about useless, and I considered him almost worthless. A friend told me of the merits of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, so I bought a bottle, and I could see very plainly great improvements immediately from its use and before the bottle was used up I was satisfied that it was doing him a great deal of good. I bought a second bottle was used up I was satisfied that it was done him as great deal of good. I bought a second bottle was used up I was an used up my horse was cured and has been in the team doing heavy work sil the season since last April, showing no more signs of it. I consider your Kendall's Spavin Cure a valuable medicine, and I should be in every stable in the land. Respectfully yours.

POET AND DIPLOMAT.

James Russell Lowell Yields to the Great Destroyer.

OH, WHY DON'T YOU LET ME DIE?"

These Were the Last Words of the Boston, Aug. 13. — James Russell Lowell, LL. D., D. C. L., the poet, es-sayist and diplomat, died yesterday morning, at his home in Cambridge, the house in which he was born.

Family friends now say that Mr.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL he appeared brighter than at any time during his long illness. Up to that time the room had been cool, but then he began to show the effect of the heat. On Monday afternoon, when the nurses changed the bedding, he suffered intensely when moved, and finally said: "Oh, why don't you let me die?" These words were his last. He seemed from that time to lose heart, and was in a comatose condition until the end. Mr. Lowell, who was the grandson of Judge John Lowell, the founder of the Lowell Institute of Boston, was born at Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 22, 1819. He was a son of Rev. Charles Lowell, D. D.

When but 19 years of age young Low-ell graduated from Harvard college. He was graduated with high honors, and was the class poet. At that time, however, his aspirations did not incline strongly to verse writing, and he decided to take up the practice of law. He was called to the bar, and opened a law office in Boston in 1840. He did but little practice, and his taste reverted to writing poetry

His First Published Poems. In 1841 he published his first collection of poems, entitled a "A Year's Life," and two years later he, with the late Robert Carter, started a magazine called The Pioneer. This, however, did not prove a success, only three numbers being issued. About this time he published another volume entitled, "Poems." Included in this work was the "Legend of Brittany" and "Prometheus." His critical work, called "Conversations on

Some of the Old Poets," was placed before the public in 1845. It was in 1848 that Mr. Lowell made a big hit by the publication of the "Indian Summer Reverie," which is conceded to be the most poetical of all his graver poems. "The Vision of Sir Launfal," a romance on the search for the Holy Grail, appeared separately, and in the same year the "Fable for Critics" and the first series of the "Bigelow Papers" were published. The latter was suggested by the author's indignation at the Mexican war of 1846-7. His second series of the papers was published in 1861. During these periods Mr. Low-ell was appointed professor of modern languages at Harvard university, succeeding Longfellow. Some of his later works included "Fireside Travels," "Under the Willows," "My Study Window," "Among My Books," "The Cathedral," "A Life of Keats" and "The Rose." He also wrote many critical and biographical essays. While at Harvard Mr. Lowell edited several magazines, among them being The North American Review and The Atlantic Monthly.

Our Representative Abroad. Mr. Lowell held two diplomatic positions. In 1877 he was appointed minister to Spain and in 1880 minister to Great Britain. He resided in London until 1885. While there Oxford and Cambridge conferred upon him the degrees of D. C. L. and LL. D. In 1884 ne was recalled. Mr. Lowell was married in 1844 to Miss Maria White, of Watertown. She was a poetess and wrote some charming verses. Mr. Lowell afterward married a daughter ef ex-Governor Dunlap, of Maine, who died in England in 1885. There were four children by the first marriage, of whom only one survives. She is the wife of Congressman Bur-

CAPE MAY, Aug. 17.—President Harrison, through Private Secretary Halford, denies the story that he is about to declare over his own signature that he will refuse to be a candidate for re-nomination. The president replied in his usual manner that he would not discuss newspaper rumors. The vigor with which Mr. Harrison's answer was made made it quite apparent that no such let-part of the time the bank had a deposit of public money, but never the pro rata it was entitled to under the ordinance of councils regulating the city banking. They also had a deposit of the state funds, but he emphatically declared that no interest directly or indirectly was paid by the bank or its officers on those deposits. Interest was, however, paid to Mr. Bardsley on a certificate of deposit in his own name. This came to his notice first in August, 1890. when Bardsley wanted 3 per cent.
