ABOUT THE FARM.

dints for Farmers and Busy Housewives to Appreciate.

In our experience the late crop of white turnips generally does better among potatoes than among corn. So soon as potato tops die the turnips have all the soil from which to draw, and they are rather benefited by the stirring of the soil required in digging potatoes by hand. If a horse potato digger is used, no turnips can be grown, as the digger necessarily upor whatever else may be growing on

In all Northern climates orchards do best when planted on soil with a good deal of vegetable matter. This is more apt to be a moist soil, and moisture prevents the deep freezing that so often destroys trees when they get into bearing. These kinds of soils are usually low and sheltered from winds, another great advantage when the country is denuded of original forests. What is the use of growing fruit on hillsides, to have it blown off as it begins to ripen.

Many farmers think that August and September are the proper months to sow rye. Sown at these times it gives cuttings for soiling in the fall. If sowing has been neglected, it is regarded by some good farmers as an advantage to sow rye in the fall, even as late as November, or as long as the ground can be worked. The grain sown thus late does not sprout in the fall, but starts very early in spring, and the crop is much earlier than from any spring sown seed.
