

Scribner's Magazine.

AN EXCEPTIONAL YEAR.

THE Year 1891 has been marked by a greater advance than any similar period since the Magazine was published. Not only has the literary and artistic excellence been maintained and increased, but a corresponding gain has been made in the sale and influence of the Magazine. At the end of 1891 the circulation has risen to more than 140,000. If may justly be promised that the further improvements for the coming year will be proportionate to these largely increased opportunities.

FOR NEXT YEAR.

It is not possible to give, in a brief space, an account of all of the features in preparation, but the material is deficient in neither importance nor range of subject. Among the subjects treated:

THE POOR IN THE WORLD'S GREAT CITIES.

It is proposed to publish a series of articles, upon a scale not before attempted giving the results of special study and work among the poor of the great cities. The plan will include an account of the conditions of life in those cities (in many lands) where the results of research will be helpful for purposes of comparison as well as for their own intrinsic interest. While from a scientific point of view, the articles will be a contribution of great importance, the treatment will be thoroughly popular, and the elaborate illustrations will serve to make the presentation of the subject vivid as well as picturesque.

WASHINGTON ALLSTON.

UNPUBLISHED REMINISCENCES AND LETTERS of this foremost among early American painters. A number of illustrations will lend additional interest to the articles.

IMPORTANT MOMENTS.

The aim of this series of very short articles is to describe the signal occasions when some decisive event took place, or when some great experiment was first shown to be successful—such moments as that of the first use of the Atlantic cable, the first use of the telegraph and telephone, the first successful experiment with ether, the night of the Chicago fire, the scene at the moment of the vote on the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, etc., etc.

OUT OF DOOR PAPERS.

In the early spring will be begun a number of seasonable articles, among them being: SMALL COUNTRY PLACES, how to lay out and beautify them, by Samuel Parsons, Jr. FISHING LORE FROM AN ANGLER'S NOTE-BOOK, by Dr. Leroy M. Yale. MOUNTAIN ST. JOHN LIPINS NEW ZEALAND by Sidney Dickson, with illustrations by Birge Harrison. RACING IN AUSTRALIA, by Sidney Dickson, with illustrations by Birge Harrison. The illustrations are made from original material.

A full prospectus appears in the Holiday Number, now ready.

DEVERSON, Pa., Nov. 27, '90.
Gentle: I would like to make known to those who are afflicted with this terrible disease, that I have cured it in my own case, and in the case of my wife, and in the case of my three legs for three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure, and used one bottle on the horse and my wife used one for three years and cured her horse.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Little 4-year-old Francis Cantwell, a son of John Cantwell, of 615 North Twenty-fifth street, met with a horrible death at the Reading railroad crossing at Twenty-fifth and Pennsylvania avenues. A passenger train was approaching the crossing when the child started to run across the track. The flagman called to him, but the warning only tended to confuse the boy, who, failing to realize the approaching danger, paused for a few seconds. The pause was fatal, for in a moment the engine struck the child and hurled him over the side, severing his head from his body.

CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 24.—Henry C. Fritz, of Nether Providence, found his farm pre-empted by a big band of egyptians. He ordered them off, but they refused to budge. Fritz came to Chester and swore out a warrant before Alderman Deal for their arrest by wholesale. The alderman and Constable Sample deputized a dozen farmers, who armed themselves with pitchforks. The egyptians, when they sighted the armed force, fled to the woods, but the women showed fight, gathering in a group and refusing to surrender. The law finally prevailed, and the egyptians promised to vacate the premises, which they did after paying the costs.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Jesse R. B. Haines yesterday pleaded guilty before Judge Butler, in the United States district court, to making a false affidavit, so that Mrs. William H. Everly, an aged woman, was enabled to draw a $36 per quarter pension from the government, as Mrs. Ann Troll, the widow of Jacob Troll, a soldier who was killed in the war of 1812. The trial of Mr. Haines' wife, Elizabeth Haines, and their son, Joseph B. Haines, charged with making affidavits with a guilty knowledge to assist in perpetrating the fraud, is under way.

The Eminent American Comedian Succumbs to Pneumonia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—William J. Florence, the popular actor, died in his room at the Continental hotel at 8:30 last evening—died so peacefully that even the faithful watchers who remained by his side until the end were not aware of the actor's death until he had ceased breathing for several minutes. As to the immediate circumstances of Mr. Florence's death the physicians are reticent. They did say, however, that the fatal termination was scented two days ago. The terrible weakness consequent upon the run of his disease—the pneumonia—to which direction all fears were turned after the disease proper had run its course, was the immediate cause of the actor's death.

The body was immediately placed in charge of Undertaker Brinhurst, and was forwarded to New York today. From there the funeral train will probably pass to Albany, the dead actor's birthplace, where interment will be made.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The body of William J. Florence found a temporary resting place in the receiving vault at Greenwood cemetery, whither it was taken after the funeral services at St. Agnes' church, and there it will remain until the arrival from Europe of the widow of the actor, when it will be conveyed to a final resting place in the family plot.

FOUR LOST IN A FIRE.

One Woman Burned to Death, Two Others and a Boy Suffocated.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 24.—A fatal fire in which four persons lost their lives occurred yesterday. The fire started in the kitchen of the Old Homestead, a hotel at Third and Pine streets. The building was entirely destroyed, nothing but the walls remaining standing. A fireman in making his way in the building stumbled over the charred body of Maggie Wilson, a waiter girl, 20 years of age, whose relatives reside in Derrick city, Pa. It is said her escape was cut off by a bolted door. The bodies of the other three victims were found in one room where they slept.

None of them was burned, but they had been suffocated. They were Mrs. Buchanan, the pastry cook, who came from the Riddell house in Bradford to this city; her little boy, who came to visit his mother and remained overnight, and Mrs. Marsh, a dishwasher. Mrs. Buchanan and her boy were locked in each other's arms near the door of the room. Mrs. Marsh was in bed. The hotel was conducted by Snowden & Tompkins. The Grand Central restaurant suffered considerable loss by fire.

DA FONSECA RESIGNS

The Dictator Overthrown by a Revolt in Rio Janeiro.

GENERAL PEIXOTO NOW PRESIDENT

The Brazilian Capital in a State of Excitement and Business Generally Suspended—The News Received with Cheers and Exclamations of Satisfaction.

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 24.—A revolution broke out here yesterday and Da Fonseca at once resigned in favor of Floriano Peixoto. The opposition to Dictator Fonseca has gathered sufficient force to break through the barriers erected by the government to hold it in check and to make itself master of the situation. No details have yet been received as to the precise methods adopted. All that is known is that Fonseca considered it impossible longer to maintain his ascendancy and has surrendered his authority. In retiring, or "resigning," as he calls it, he declared that he did so in favor of Floriano Peixoto, the vice president or president of the provisional government, of which Fonseca was the head. Whether the opposition will be content to allow Peixoto, about whom little is known here, to assume the leadership of the state is not known.

Rio de Janeiro is in a state of great excitement, but no reports have come as yet indicating mob law or serious disorder. The uprising, however, has had the effect of putting a stop for the time being to all kinds of business. The exchanges are closed and everybody is so interested in watching political developments that no thought is given to commercial pursuits or business engagements. The news that Fonseca had resigned spread through the city like wildfire. Everywhere it was received with enthusiastic cheers and exclamations of satisfaction.

The Fallen President.

Manoel Deodoro da Fonseca was born in 1845, and on his father's side at least comes of Portuguese stock. The family in Portugal was wealthy and the father, early in this century, receiving some concessions of land in the province of Rio Grande do Sul, emigrated to Brazil, where he married a Brazilian lady, and became the father of three sons, of whom the future president of the republic was the eldest.

In the war with Paraguay, which ended in 1870, Deodoro won distinction in the battle of Mossoro, being promoted from lieutenant to major on the field. On his return to Rio, the Emperor Dom Pedro bestowed upon him the Order of the Rose, then made him commandant of the army in Matto-Grosso province, and finally placed him in charge of the cartridge factory and magazine at Rio, and raised him to the rank of general.

Fonseca is a man of portly and impressive physique, of medium height, with nose slightly inclined to be aquiline, and wears a full beard, now somewhat streaked with grey. His sons were educated in an American school, and one of his daughters is married to an American, the husband of the other being an Englishman.

The New President.

General Floriano Peixoto, the new president of Brazil, is one of the most eminent men of the Republic. He rose to the rank of adjutant general of the army under the empire. In April, 1890, he was made minister of war, in succession to Senator Benjamin Constant, who was transferred to another department because the soldiers were clamoring for a chief who had been more closely identified with military affairs. In August, 1890, Ruy Barbosa was ousted from the ministry of finance, because of dissatisfaction with a decree that ordered 20 per cent of all customs duties to be paid in gold, and General Peixoto was made his successor, retaining that position until there was a complete change in the ministry in January last, resulting from a vote of censure on the cabinet passed by the congress. General Peixoto had meanwhile been serving as provisional vice president of the republic under Fonseca, and in February, as already stated, was formally elected to and inaugurated in that position under the provisions of the new constitution.

MINNEAPOLIS GETS IT.

June 7 Fixed as the Date for the National Republican Convention.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Minneapolis gets the Republican national convention. It will be held June 7. General James S. Clark will manage the Republican presidential campaign next year. This is the story of the action of the Republican National committee in a nutshell. There was, perhaps, never such a bitter struggle for the location of a convention.

All the cities which put in bids worked hard and spent a great deal of money. The resignations of Messrs. Quay and Dudley, of the committee, were accepted by the Republican National committee, and the action of the executive committee naming J. S. Clark, of Iowa, as Quay's, and William Barbour, of New York as Dudley's successor, was approved. The contest between Mr. McBride and Mr. Bartch as the representative of Utah on the committee was decided in favor of the former, George A. Hobart, of New Jersey, was elected vice chairman.

Japan's Recent Earthquake.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—The steamer China arrived from Hong Kong and Yokohama yesterday, bringing details of the great earthquake that occurred in Japan on October 28. The smaller towns of Ichimiyama, Kyosu, Kasamatsu and Takagahara are said to have been wiped out altogether.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Right Hon. William J. Jackson, the newly appointed chief secretary of Ireland, was re-elected as member of parliament for North Leeds without opposition. Gloucester Racing to Close.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 20.—President Thompson, of the Gloucester race track, says that the track will be closed down on Nov. 28. He stated that this action was taken in consequence of the decision of the court of error on Wednesday, declaring pool selling on race tracks illegal.
