First Note From the Excursion.

A great number of delegates to the National Editorial Association reached Chicago Sunday and Monday, bound for California. Sunday was delightful, with sharp frost. Eastern Ohio has good crop prospects, but beyond Fort Wayne and in Indiana grain looks poor—being water killed in the plains along the Fort Wayne railroad. Fruit trees are in full bloom. We leave for Colorado Springs and California, Monday evening, by special train of Pullman cars.

Chicago is a wonderful town. With all its fine churches and religious societies Sunday is not observed—the base-ball clubs were in full play; the saloons all open; the street cars running and the theaters open. Its hotels are wonder. The Auditorium, where we are now staying, is magnificent, especially in its interior, and the largest in the country, having 1400 rooms, and an addition is being built for 500 more rooms—it is ten stories high. The regular rates per day are six dollars, but, of course, they let up a little on the "poor printer." It would seem that it was turned upside down, for the dining room is on the tenth story—instead of on the first or second—and is a splendor to behold—the elegance of its design and finish, with a bill of fare to correspond. The good things are all Heavenward, it is true, but when we see how some Chicagoans live we feel that this tenth floor is about as near as they will ever get to the New Jerusalem, unless they could go there by a constantly running elevator as in this hotel. Sunday was cold and windy, although old Sol poured down his most genial rays all day. Chicago is nicknamed the "windy city" and it is appropriately applied.

When it is five o'clock in Centre Hall it is four in Chicago, the difference in time being one hour. At San Francisco the difference in time will be about three hours—five at Centre Hall, it will be two at the Golden Gate. This afternoon we go by special train to the Exposition grounds—this evening, Monday, depart for Colorado Springs.

How to Cook Trout.

Assuming that the scores of sportsmen who are daily engaged in whipping the neighboring streams, are able to catch or buy a trout or two, the testimony of an expert is timely, that there are three excellent methods of cooking them—viz., frying, roasting in the ashes, or boiling. To fry trout well is a great art, and rarely understood. The fat, be it butter, olive oil or lard, should be sweet and burning hot. As soon as browned the fish should be lifted out and the fat allowed to drain off. A thin slice of salt pork or even bacon will go well with the fish, but too much bacon may give them a smoky flavor. Small trout from six to eight inches, are best cooked in this manner. Any sized fish may be roasted in the ashes, and they are excellent that way; but a trout, from a fourth to three-fourths of a pound, gives the best results. "But above all says the expert, give me a good big trout, boiled properly, with a little white wine vinegar in the water, and served with either caper or egg sauce."

Big Fire in Tokio.

The steamship Belgian brings details of a great fire at Tokio, Japan, on April 10. The fire started early in the morning in the house of a small restaurant keeper from a candle left burning. It spread in three directions through densely populated districts.

The fire was extinguished after consuming 5000 houses on twenty streets including forty warehouses, police stations, a panorama building, the Russian school, the English school and a Kinji school and several official residences. The loss of life is estimated at from seventeen to forty-five.

The steamer Raiden Maru was sunk by floating ice in Kushiro harbor forty persons drowned.

To Cure Freckles.

Some people are born freckled and others have freckles thrust upon them. The former class might as well accept their freckles as a dispensation of Providence, for nothing can be done for them. The latter can always get rid of their affliction by using a couple of drachms of sal ammoniac with an ounce of German cologne, the solution mixed with a pint of distilled water. Applied two or three times a day, states one of our contemporaries, it will cure the worst case of freckles on record.

A DEMORALIZED PARTY.

The fact that all its best men have been forced completely into the background is convincing evidence of the demoralized condition of the Republican party. As late as four years ago a man of pure and upright life, of strong conviction, of unwavering honesty and unfaltering courage—such a man, for instance, as Walter Q. Gresham—could still command a following in it. But after the blocks-of-Five campaign of 1888 this became impossible. The party had the choice between repudiating that policy of recklessness and unscrupulous Radicalism or adopting it in permanency.

In 1880 Republicans by the hundreds of thousands cast their influence against their party that it might be warned in time and recede. But it refused to hear them. Its officeholders controlled it fully, and a change of the course of the party would have meant their retirement from office, and their loss of standing as well as loss of leadership in the party. It held its course, and as a result it is now absolutely committed to Harrison and the school of politics he represents. Men like Gresham are no longer mentioned among Republican leaders. Their places have been taken by John Wanamaker, Steve Elkins, and others who believe that the one thing necessary in politics is "the necessary funds" in the hands of "reliable men."

Nothing but an overwhelming defeat in November will give the party a chance to reform or restore to leadership in it men who have not entirely surrendered to the idea that trying out fat and co ntrolling Blocks-of-Five is the "best politics."—St. Louis Republic.

The frank utterances of President George B. Roberts, of the Pennsylvania railroad company, demonstrate that the great corporation of which he is the head has no sympathy with certain current efforts to embarrass the public by raising the price of articles which the people must have. He holds that the great transportation companies of the country should be sympathetic with every movement having for its object the reduction of cost to the consumer, and looks with disfavor upon all schemes and combinations having for their object the oppression of the people. He is wise enough to see that the corporation which grasps power for the purpose of tyrannizing over its patrons is doing itself great harm and paving the way for a popular rebellion which will unsettle values injure business and, possibly, involve the innocent in the indignation which overwhelms the guilty. It is to be hoped that the arrogant corporation managers who are at this moment completing schemes to aggrandize themselves at the cost of the public, and in defiance of the constitution and laws of this commonwealth, will be convinced of the folly of their course by the weighty words which have fallen from the lips of Mr. Roberts.

Through Freight Trains.

Last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the Pennsylvania railroad company started a train of forty cars loaded with corn from Chicago and the train made the trip without changing engines or engineers. It arrived in Philadelphia on Monday evening. This is a new idea of the "Pennsy," and may shortly lead to a great advancement in the time of delivering freight matter.
