SUN SPOTS AND VOLCANOES.

The occurrence of volcanic eruptions on the earth and disturbances on the sun's surface would seem to be something more than co-incidences. Several weeks ago the great number of spots on the sun was noted by astronomers. Then came news of the renewed activity of Etna's slumbering fires, with streams of lava flowing toward the towns on the sea coast.

Now information has reached Australia of a volcanic outbreak on an island in the Philippine group, of such magnitude as to destroy nearly all life on the island, estimated at 12,000 people.

The first news of the eruption came from some natives of the archipelago, who, cruising in their canoes, were prevented from landing by the sight of mountains belching forth smoke and fire. They report that the "whole island was on fire. The water along the coast was full of half-burned wreckage, pieces of houses and charred bodies.

Corroboration of the report was taken to Sydney by a ship from China, whose Captain said he passed through miles of debris, dissimilar to anything he had before seen at sea. Poles and sides of huts, most of them charred and broken, were mingled with such utensils as the natives of the Philippines use in cooking.

The reports are credited at Sydney to some extent. The island of Sangir is known to be volcanic, and several small craters have threatened activity lately; but the loss of life is believed to be exaggerated.

This may be true, and yet the South Pacific may have been the scene of awful destruction of life, to swell the already tremendous total of the year 1892.

Wheeled Around a Shaft.

A few minutes before noon on last Friday, at the grinding shop of a factory No. 8, at Mill Hall, William Wagner came in too close contact with a line shaft revolving two hundred times a minute. His clothing caught and he was wound round the shaft, his body at each revolution striking the ceiling. The body finally was wedged in between shaft and ceiling so tightly that the machinery stopped. Both legs and one arm were broken and the body was badly bruised. Wagner is still alive, but in a critical condition.

AT HOMESTEAD.

A DASTARDLY ATTEMPT AT MURDER. A SOLDIER DISGRACED.

A Crank Calls and Fires Three Times at the Manager.

PITTSBURG, July 24.—Chairman Frick, of the Carnegie steel company, was shot twice and stabbed in his private office yesterday by Alexander Beerkman, a Russian Anarchist from New York. Mr. Frick's wounds are serious, but not necessarily fatal. The would-be assassin tried to commit suicide in the most horrible manner this afternoon will be photographed at the Central police station. He was caught in the act of chewing a cartridge and it was quickly taken from him.

Mr. Frick was sitting in his office yesterday afternoon when the colored messenger announced that a well-dressed young man desired an interview. Mr. Frick granted the request and Beerkman entered. A moment later a pistol shot and the sound of a scuffle created a panic in the office. Two more shots and Mr. Frick's shouts for help brought them to their senses and they rushed to the rescue.

The clerks found him grappling with his assailant, whose clothes were saturated with blood from the millionaire's hands. Mr. Frick had Beerkman by the throat and pummeled him until he fainted from loss of blood. Beerkman made a rush for the elevator, which had just stopped on the second floor, but there his progress was stopped by a dozen hands, and he was held until the police arrived. Inside and outside there was great confusion and excitement. Messengers and the telephone were hurriedly used to bring physicians.

Dr. Joseph Dickson took charge of the wounded man about an hour after the shooting. He was perfectly conscious and talked with those of his friends who were admitted to his room. The physicians soon extracted one of the bullets that had lodged in Mr. Frick's back. They then directed their attention to one of the wounds. Shortly before five o'clock the physicians sent out word that Mr. Frick was considered out of danger, all the bullets having been extracted. Mr. Frick's sister was with him.

Secretary Lovejoy gave out the following statement, last even, describing Chairman Frick's wounds: "Two shots enter the neck above the base of the skull on either side. One passed out between his shoulders and the other was removed from the opposite side of the neck. The third shot missed. There is no evidence that the stab wounds are deep or that they will prove dangerous. They are on the right, one at the lower border of ribs, the other just below the hip bone. Have no evidence that any of these wounds will prove serious. Mr. Frick's condition at present is perfectly satisfactory."

Beerkman is a Russian Jew and an anarchist. The police found he had two dynamite cartridges in his mouth which he thought to explode by biting on them, and thus blow his head off, but the cartridges would not go off.

Drummed Out of Camp.

Private Iams, of company K, Tenth regiment shouted when the report of the attempted assassination of Mr. Frick reached the provisional brigade for three cheers for the assassin. Colonel Streator from his quarters, heard the incendiary shout. He hurried into the camp and ordered the regiment to be paraded in double quick time. When his command was drawn up he recited to the soldiers the remark he had heard.

"I heard the voice distinctly," the colonel said. "I think I recognized it and I want the man who made the statement to advance two paces. The colonel had recognized Iams' voice and he was standing directly in front of the accused when he was talking. Immediately Private Iams stepped to the front. He was trembling like an aspen and he seemed unable to hold his gun.

"You offered three cheers for the killing of Mr. Frick, did you not?" the colonel asked.

Iams did not answer. He hung his head and nodded in the affirmative. He was ordered to the guard house. The colonel and his staff, including the surgeons, then went to the guard house. The officer of the day took charge of the criminal and at the colonel's orders he was hung up by the thumbs for thirty minutes. The surgeons remained with the unfortunate during all his punishment; one of them kept watch on his pulse while another looked after his heart, and at the end of thirty minutes Surgeon Neff ordered him taken down. When released young Iams was limp and apparently unconscious. The surgeons remained with him for an hour, when he was taken to his quarters.

The severity of Iams' punishment was due to his refusal to take back or apologize for his expression. One side of his head was shaved and the buttons cut from his uniform, of which he was then stripped. He was given a suit of cast-off, plain clothing, part being a pair of overalls, and was at once drummed out of camp. The proceedings were approved by General Snowden. Young Iams live at Waynesburg.

Troops are to Remain.

If the strikers have any idea or hope that the military will shortly be withdrawn from here, they will be greatly disappointed. General Snowden, when asked if there was any idea now of reducing the force here by ordering the Third Brigade home, emphatically replied: "You can quote me as saying that there is a greater likelihood now of ordering the First Brigade to Homestead than there is of ordering the Third Brigade home. The Duquesne strike, the attempted assassination of Frick and the mutterings of other labor troubles in this remarkable Monongahela Valley, have firmly placed the military here for some time to come, not so much on account of the people of Homestead as the danger of trouble in other sections of the valley.

General Snowden has a wonderfully advantageous position to command the whole valley. Several incidents which have occurred in the past forty-eight hours have also convinced General Snowden of the necessity of troops to preserve the peace, and have, at the same time, given the town striking illustrations of the watchfulness and discipline of the troops. At 3 o'clock a man supposed to be a spy tried to run the lines near division headquarters and at the upper end of Battery B's camp. As the stranger loomed up in darkness he was ordered to halt and give an account of himself by the sentry. He refused to do so and started to run the line when the sentry, quick as a flash, fired point blank at him. In less than two seconds a volley rattled along the whole line and the entire Second Brigade was aroused by the alarm.

Forty Thousand Men Involved.

This general but peaceful strike, involving 40,000 iron and steel workers and shutting down three-fourths of the mills of the Pittsburgh district and all concerns in the two valleys mentioned, would be the labor sensation of this Presidential campaign year was it not for the bloody times at Homestead. Ten times as many men are involved in the big strike which the outside world scarcely thinks about, and the reductions are as radical, if not more so than at Homestead. These 40,000 men have been idle three weeks, and their loss and the loss of the manufacturers and the business community generally is tremendous.

Even the comparatively small affair at Homestead, according to a well-posted merchant, means a decline in remittances to Pittsburgh of $100,000 a month.

The startling thing previously referred to is that the Pittsburgh iron and steel manufacturers are delaying matters at their frequent conferences with the wage committee of the Amalgamated Association in the hope that Carnegie's success would make the non-uniforming of other mills possible, or at least frighten the Amalgamated committee into an acceptance of the manufacturers' scale, which includes a reduction in the price per ton for puddling from $5.50 to $4.50.

THE LAND OF SUNSHINE.

A Unique Country where the Skies are a Most Never Clouded while the air is Cool and Bracing, like Perpetual Spring.

As an anomalous southern resort, by reason of the fact that there one may escape summer heat no less than winter cold, New Mexico is rapidly becoming famous. Averaging throughout the entire territory 5,600 feet in altitude above sea-level, and characterized by dry air which, unlike a humid atmosphere, is incapable of communicating heat, the temperature in midsummer remains at a delightfully comfortable degree through the day, and at night becomes invariably brisk and bracing. The sunshine is almost constant, yet the most violent out-of-door exertion may be undertaken without fear of distressful consequences. Sunstroke or prostration are absolutely unknown there. It is an ideal land for a summer outing. Its climate is prescribed by reputable physicians as a specific for pulmonary complaints, and the medicinal Hot Springs at Las Vegas are noted for their curative virtues. The most sumptuous hotel in the west, the Montezuma, is located at these springs. Write to Jno. J. Byrne, 723 Monadnock Block, Chicago, for "The Land of Sunshine," an entertaining and profusely illustrated book descriptive of this region, the most picturesque and romantic in the United States.

Perhaps the most eccentric Ohio man now living is William A. Strickland, of Athlia, who returned his pension money the other day with a note stating that he had been told to do so in a revelation in which the Lord warned him it was blood money. The chances are not only that Mr. Strickland's example will never become popular among Ohio men, but that he will get himself disliked by the neighbors for carrying this thing entirely too far. Mr. Strickland without doubt was clearly entitled to a pension, and refused. Now how many not entitled to pension, yet accepting have refused?

It is estimated that 10,000 workmen in New York city are idle on account of the strike of the public carmen union and building material drivers union. On account of the strike of the drivers the various classes of workmen on buildings now erecting in the city are unable to get material with which to work.

Mr. Van Pelt, Editor of the Craig, Mo., Meteor, went to a drug store at Hillsdale, Iowa, and asked the physician in attendance to give him a dose of something for cholera morbus and looseness of the bowels. He says: "I felt so much better the next morning that I concluded to call on the physician and get him to fix me up a supply of the medicine. I was surprised when he handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He said he prescribed it regularly in his practice and found it the best he could get or prepare. I can testify to its efficiency in my case at all events." For sale by J. D. Murray, Druggist.
