Subject: "Eseful Suffering."

TEXT: "It behaved Christ to suffer."-Luke xxiv., 46

There have been scholars who have ventured the assertion that the pains of our Lord were unnecessary. In lead it was a shocking waste of tears an i blood and agony, unless some great en i were to be reached. If men can prove that no good result comes of it then the character of God. sult comes of it, then the character of Got is impeached, and the universe must stand abhorent and denunciatory at the fact that the Father allowed the butchery of His only begotten Son.

We all admire the brave six hundred men described by Tennyson as dashing into the conflict when they knew they must die, and knew at the same time that "some one had blunder'd;" but we are abhorrent of the man who made the blunder and who cause i the sacrifice of those brave men for no use. But I shall show you, if the Lord will help me, this morning that for good reasons Christ went through the torture. In other words, "It behooved Christ to suffer."

In the first place, I remark that Christ's lacerations were necessary, because man's rescue was an impossibility except by the payment of some great sacrifice. Outraged law had thundered against iniquity. Man must dio unless a substitute can intercept that death. Let Gabriel step forth. He refuses. Let Michael the archangel step forth. He refuses. No Roman citizen, no Athenian, no Corinthian, no reformer, no angel volunteered. Christ then bared His heart to the pang. He paid for our retemption in tears and blood and wounded feet and scourged shoulders and torn brow. Heaven and earth heard the snap of the prison bar. Sinai ceased to quake with wrath the moment that Calvary began to rock in crucifixion. Christ had suffered.

"Oh," says some man, "I don't like that doctrine of suostitution; let every man bear his ewn burtens, I weep his own tears, and fight his own battles!" Why, my horther, there is a superficient of the substitution. brother, there is vicarious suffering all over the world. Dil not your parents suffer for you? Do you not sometimes suffer for your children? Does not the patriot suffer for his country? Did not Grace Darling suffer for the drowning saliors? Vicarious suffering on all sides! But how insignificant compared with this scene of vicarious sufferpared with this scene of vicarious suffer-

Was it for crimes that I had done He grouned upon the tree?
Amazing pity, grace unknown,
And love beyond degree.

Christ must suffer to pay the price of our But I remark again, the sufferings of Christ were necessary in order that the world's sympathies might be aroused. Men are won to the right and good through their sympathies. The world must feel aright before it can act aright. So the cross was allowed to be lifted that the world's sympathies might be aroused. Men who have been obdurated by the cruelties they have precised the measurement they have enacted, the massacres they have inflicted, by the horrors of which they have been guilty, have become little children in the presence of this dying Saviour.

What the swords could not do, what Jug-gernauts could not subdue, the wounded hand of Christ has accomplished. There are this moment millions of people held under the spell of that one sacrifice. The hammers that struck the spikes into the cross have broken the rocky neart of the world. Nothing but the agonies of a Saviour's death throe could rouse the world's sympathies.

I remark again 'Ut heboyes' Christ to

I remark again, "It behoved Christ to suffer," that the strength and persistence of the divine love might be demonstrated. Was it the applause of the world that induced rist on that crusade from Heaven? Why, all the universe was at His feet. Could the conquest of this insignificant planet have paid Him for His career of pain if it had been a mere matter of applaase? All tue honors of heaven surging at His feet. Would your queen give up her throne that she might rule a miserable tribs in Africa? Would the Lord Jesus Christ on the throne of the universe come down to our planet if it were a mere matter of applauss and ac-

Nor was it an expedition undertaken for the accumulation of vast wealth. What could all the harvests and the diamonds of our little world do for Him whose are the glories of infinitute and eternity? Nor was it an experiment-an attempt to show what He could do with the hard hearted race. He who wheels the stars in their courses and holds the pillars of the universe on the tips of His fingers needed to make no experiment you, my friems, what it was. It was un-disguised, unlimited, all conquering, all consuming, infinite, eternal, omnipotent love that opened the gate, that started the star in the east, with finger of light pointing down to the manager, that arrayed the Christmas choir above Bethlehem, that opened the stable door where Christ was born, that lifted Him on the cross. Love thirsty at the well. Love at the sick man's Love at the cripple's crutch. Love g in the garden. Love dying on the sweating in the garden. Love dying on the cross. Love wrapped in the grave. You cannot mistake it. The blindest eye must see it. The hardest neart must feel it. The deafest ear must hear it. Parable and miracle, wayside talk and seaside interview, all the scenes of His life, all the sufferings of His death, proving beyond controversy that for our ingrate earth God has yearned with stupendous and inextinguishable love.

stupendous and inextinguishable love.

But I remark again, "It behoved Christ to soffer." that the nature of human guilt might be demonstrated. There is not a commight be demonstrated. There is not a common sense man in the house to-day that will not admit that the machinery of society is out of gear, that the human mind and the human heart are disorganized, that something ought to be done right away for its re-pair and readjustment. But the height and depth and length and breadth and hate and recklessness and infernal energy of the human heart for sin would not have been demonstrated if against the holy and innocent one of the cross it had not been huried in one bolt of fire.

Christ was not the first man that had been put to death. There had been many before Him put to death, but they had their whims, the r follies, toeir sins, their inconsistencies. But when the mob outside of Jerusalem howled at the Son of God it was hate against howled at the Son of God it was nate against goodness, it was blaschemy against virtue, it was earth against heaven. What was it in that innocent and loving face of Christ that excited the vituperation and the contumery and scorn of men? If He had ban tered them to come on, if He had laughed them into derision, if He had denounced them as the vagabonds that they were, we could understand their ferocity, but it was against inoffensiveness that they brandished their spears, and shook their fists, and ground their teeth, and howled and scoffed and jeered and mocked. at evil had He done? Whose eyesight had He put out? None; but He given vision to the blind. Whose child had He slvin? None; but He restored the dead damsel to her mother. What law had He broken? her mother. What law has bedience to None; but He had inculcated obedience to government. What foul plot had He encouragement. acted against the happiness of the race! None; He had come to save a world. The only cruelty He ever enacted was to heal the sick. The only ostentation He ever dis-played was to sit with publicans and sinners and wash the disciples' feet. The only selfis iness He ever exhibited was to give His life for His enemies. And was to give His life for His ensmies. And yet all the wrath of the world surged against His holy heart, Hear the redhot scorn of the world hissing in the pools of a Saviour's blood! And standing there today let us see what an unreasonable, loathsome, hateful, blasting, damning thing is the iniquity of the human heart. Unloosed, what will not sin do? It will scale any height, it will fathom the very deptu of hell, it will revel in all lasciviousness. There is no blasphemy it will not utter, there are no scruelties on which it will not gorge itself. Is will wallow in filth, it will breathe the air of charnelhouses of corruption and call the n aroms, it will quant the blood of immortal souls and call it nectar. When sin murdered Christ on the cross it showed what it would do with the Lord God Almighty if it could get at Him. The prophet had declare!—I think it was Jeremiah—had declared conturies before the truth, but not until sin shot out its forked tongue at the crucifix and tossel its sting into the soul of a martyred Jesus was it illustrated, that "the heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked."

Again, "It believed Christ to suffer," that our affections might be excited Christ-ward. Why, sirs, the behavior of our Lord has stirred the affections of all those who have ever heard of it. It has been the art galleries of the world with such pictures as Ghirlandaio's "Worship of the Magi," Giotto's "Baptism of Christ," Holman Hunt's "Christ in the Temple," Tintorer's "Agony in the Garden," Angelo's "Crucifixion," and it has called out Handel's Messiab," and rung sweetest chimes in Young's "Night Thoughts," and filled the psalmody of the world with the penitential notes of sorrow

Show me any other kinz who has so many subjects. What is the most potent name to-day in the United States, in France, in England, in Scotland, in Ireland? Jesus. Other kings have had many subjects, but where is the king who has so many admir-ing subjects as Christ? Show me a regiment of a thousand men in their army and I will show you a battalion of ten thousant men in Christs army.

Show me in history where one man has given his property and his life for any one else, and I will show you in history hundreds and thousands of men who have cheerfully died that Christ might reize. Aye, there are a hundred men in this house who, if need were, would step out and die for Jesus. Their faith may now seem to be faint, and sometimes they may be inconsitent, but let the fires of martyrdom be kindled, throw them into the pit, cover them with poisonous serpents, pound them, flail them, crush them, and I will tell you what their last cry would be, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly!"

Oh, yes! the Lord Jesus has won the affec-Oh, yes! the Lord Jesus has won the affections of many of us. There are some of us who can say this morning, "Lord Jesus, my light and my song; my nope for time, my expectation for eternity." Altogether lovely Thou art. My soul is ravished with the vision. Thou art mine. Come let me class Thee, Come life, come death, come score Thee, Come life, come death, come score and pain, come whiriwind and darkness. Lord Jesus, I cannot give Thee up. I have heard Thy voice. I have seen Thy bleeding side. Lord Jesus, if I had some garland plucked from heavenly gardens I would wreath it for Tay brow. If I had some gem worthy of the place I would set it in Thy crown. If I had seraphic barp I would strike it in Thy praise. But I come lost and ruined and undone to throw myself at Thy feet.

No price I bring; Simply to Thy cross I cling. Thou knowest all things. Thou knowest that I love Thee.

But I remark again, "It behoved Christ to suffer," that the world might learn how to suffer. Sometimes people suffer because they cannot help themselves, but Christ had in His hands all the weapons to punish His enemies, and yet in quiescence He enqured all outrage. He might have hursed the rocks of Golgotna upon His pursuers; En might have cieft the earth until He swallowed up His assailants; He might have called in reinforcement or taken any thunderbolt from the armory of God Omnipotent and hurled it seetning and fiery among His foes, but He answere i not again.
Oh, my hearers! has there ever been in the history of the world such an example of enduring patience as we find in the cross? Some of you suffer paysical distresses, some of you have lifelong aliments and they make you fretful. So newm-s you think that G xi has given you a cup too deep and too brimming. Sometimes you see the world laughing and romping on the highways of life and you look out of the wintow while seated tu invalid's chair. I want to show you this morning one who had worse pains in the head than you have ever had, whose back was scourged, who was wounded in the hands and wounded in the feet, and suffered all over; and I want that example to make you more enduring in your suffering, and to make you say, "Father, not My will but Thine be done." You never have had any bodily pain, and you will never have any bodily pain that equaled Christ's torture. "It behoved Christ to suffer," that He might show you how physically to suffer. physically to suffer.

physically to suffer.

Some of you are persecuted. There are those who hate you. They criticise you.
They would be glad to see you stumble and fall. They have done unaccountable meannesses towar! you. Sometimes you feel angry. You feel as if you would like to retort. Stop! Look at the cose! lipe, look at the still hand, look at the beautiful demeanor of your Lord. Struck, not striking back again. On, if you could only appreciate what He endured in the way of persecution you never would complain of persecution, The words of Christ would be your words, "Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from Me; but if not, Thy will be done." "It behoved Christ to suffer" persecution, that He might show you how to endure persecu-

Some of you are bereft. It is no random remark, because there is hardly a family here that has not passed under the shadow. You have been bereft. Your house is a different place from what it used to be. The same furniture, the same books, the same pictures, but there has been a voice hushed there. The face that used to light up the whole dwelling has vanished. The patter-ing of the other feet does not break up the loneliness. The wave has gone over your soul, and you have sometimes thought what would tell him when he comes back: but then the thought has flashed upon you, he will never come back.

Ah! my brother, my sister, Christ has sounded all that depth, Jesus of the bereft soul is here to-lay. Behold Him! He knows what it is to weep at the tomb. It seems to me as it all the storms of the world's orrow were compressed into one sob, and that sob were uttered in two words, "Jesus

I close my sermon with a doxology: Blessing and glory and honor an i power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb, forever. Amen and amen!"

A gosper barge, the gift of a wealthy New Yorker to Bishop Walker to the Episcopal Church of North Dakota, is to be launched at Bismarck soon. It is to be called the Missouri Missioner and used for Christian work in towns and camps along the Missouri for a distance of more than 500 miles. It is ninety-three feet in length and twenty-five feet in breadth. The Bishop hopes, with this barge church, to reach many people who ccu!d not otherwise attend divine service, and it is to be used for general Christian work of every kind that the region calls for. Bishop Walker refuses to give the name of the giver, saying only that he is a man with many interests in the West.

"In five years' time," says Edgar L. Wakeman, "I have tramped along 3,000 miles of British roads. And yet for five months of every year, and in a lesser degree for the other seven, half of the people of our farming communities are imprisoned and impoverished helplessly at home. As one result, the people of the whole country pay, in an indirect road-tax, though annual sharp advances on all food neceslose, a sum each year enormous enough to maintain as superb roads as England

DR. GILMORE ELLIS, superintendent of the insane asylum at Singapore, India, has made public some interesting results of his study of the peculiar form of madness known as "amok." He has gathered from the testimony of Malays who have run amok, or "amuck," as we spell it, that strong emotions bring on genuine paroxyms, during which the person has no recollection of his acts. It is a curious coincidence that the theory brought the drippings from the pan put in about out by Zola in "La Bete Humaine" is a quarter of a pound of boiled macaroni, identical with that of the murderous cut in six-inch lengths, and half a dozen before him when seized by the passion of macaroni on the rack about six minutes slaughter. THE State Olive Growers' Association of California recently held a convention The mealie to compare notes and transact a little business in the interest of their products. Santa Barbara, Livermore, Pomona, Auburn, Santa Clara, Sonoma, and other counties. President Ellwood Cooper talked to the convention about the adulteration of olive oil. The State law prohibiting it had proved a failure for the reason that it did not provide for the appointment of inspectors to analyze the oils sold, the citizen being obliged to proceed individually against violators of the law and get together his own evidence. Treasurer Justinian Caire said that the public seemed to be unwilling to pay a fair price for pure oil and would rather buy cheap adulterated oils so long as they were palatable. Mr. Cooper suggested that the olive oil act should require that the names of manufacturers of oils adulterated products are offered for sale quantity, etc., must be printed on the packages containing them. Rev. C. F. Loop of P mona, a student of olive culture in the old and new worlds, stated that California, for 500 miles north and south, was the ideal country for olivegrowing. There are now, he said, fifty varieties cultivated in the State, including the black olive of Africa and the razza of Tuscany. Within a few years California would be able to supply the United States with both the fruit and the oil. It was decided by the convention to make an exhibition of pure California olive oils at the Manufacturers', to be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, in October, 1892, and at the Italian American exposition now being held at Genoa, and which runs until

Uses of Borax .- We are just beginning to appreciate the use of borax in bathing brought up to your room at the good handful of borax will soften ten According to a bulletin just issued gallons of water for laundry use. Borax will not tarnish the color or eat into the fabric of the most delicate material if used in such a proportion in water. A teaspoonful of borax added to the starch in the laundry will give that peculiar gloss to collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms ishing iron.

As a destroyer of insects, borax is this means, providing some cleanliness is also exercised. There is no possible excuse for the croton bug or the familiar water bug which disgraces so many kitchens by its presence. If the precincts of the kitchen and all the surrounding closets and pantries be cleared of their contents, systematically cleansed in every nook and cranny, thoroughly dried, and every shelf be sprinkled with borax and lined with clean paper, the most pest-ridden kitchen will be immediately and effectively rid of these insects. A simple use to which borax is put is to remove the fuzz which gathers in a teakettle where the water is hard.

As a medicine, more or less, borax possesses considerable power, and for that reason should not be taken internally without a physician's order. It is a valuable disinfectant and antiseptic. It is sometimes used with glycerine or honey for affections of the throat. There is a certain form of boracic acid which is used to preserve fish and meat, and even milk and butter. It would be very unsafe, however, for any one not acquainted with scientific methods to make use of borax in any such way. Borax is also said to be of use in making fabries fireproof, being superior to alum for that purpose.

Electric Logs.

Electric "Logs," have been used in the United States naval service with some success. They record the speed of a vessel by trolling a small propeller behind it, the revolutions of which open and close a battery circuit. These breaks in the current are recorded by a suitable device, of which the scale is so graduated as to read the distance passed over in any certain time. This apparatus, while recording the speed between two points, is defective, as it fails to give it at any moment of observation .-Electricity, New York.
