SWENGEL MURDER TRIAL.

testimony. At 5 o'clock the court adjourned to reconvene on Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

The first witness placed on the stand on Monday by the Commonwealth was Prothonotary J. C. Schoch, the prosecutor and the father of the dead woman. He related in a clear manner the story of how he found, some two years ago, that his daughter Annie was enciente, and that when young Swengle was accused of the trouble he did not hesitate to acknowledge himself the cause. Mr. Schoch related how he went to the prisoner's home after his wife died and asked the pris- cartridges. Call and see them and oner to tell him how the death was learn prices. caused, and Swengle then told him the weasel story and took him to the pen to find the poisoned pork, but a search proved furtile. Mr. Schoch then stated to his son-in-law that he was afraid Annie had taken the strychnine, and then the prisoner replied that he hoped not, for it would almost worry him to death.

Frank Wenrich testified that one day shortly before the death of Mrs. Swengle he was working in the field with prisoner, when they noticed the prisoner's wife coming across the field. When Wenrich told Swengle that he had a very good and preity wife and that he ought not to scold her so much prisoner replied that witness might have her and $50 to boot if he would only take her.

This evidence created a decided sensation in the court room, which was repeated when Miss Kemply, a cousin of the dead woman, came to the witness box and stated that when she visited the Swengle homestead on July 17, the prisoner told her that he wished he was single as he had a h-l of a life of it.

When Isaiah Lose next took the stand he admitted that he was not on the best of terms with the prisoner and that shortly after the prisoner was married he and his wife visited him, and while he was standing in his potato patch with Swengle they saw Mrs. Swengle coming across the field. When the prisoner saw his wife coming he used bad language while referring to the young woman. MORE STARTLING EVIDENCE

After dinner the evidence was startling and interesting. Mr Shoch was recalled and acknowledged that he had stated to Mr. J. P. Smith the night his daughter died that Shindle, the druggist, was drunk and had sold his daughter poison, from which she died. On cross-examination witness endeavored to qualify the statement. This evidence is important as showing that the first thought of the prosecutor evidently was that the druggist made a mistake and that Swengle did not poison his wife.

A sister of the dead woman, Mrs. and leaves no unpleasant effects. Clyde Klose, testified that the prisoner told her shortly after his marriage that he did not intend to live with his wife, that she was not worthy.

When W. E. Charles took the stand it appeared that he failed to testify as the Commonwealth expected, when the Court intimated that the State thought the witness had been tampered with. This brought Attorney Bow- THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEG er, for the prisoner, to his feet, who emphatically denied the insinuation.
On cross-examination he testified that Swengel was noted for his fast driving but that when they noticed him going

H. G. Buffington was the first witness called at the evening session, and he testified that he assisted Swengel to get ice to use after his wife's death, when the prisoner remarked that her death had spoiled a good time for him, as he intended going to a picnic that Young Swengel sat in court all day with his, head bowed down and his hand to his brow. He seemed to realize his position for the first time. It has been an unfortunate day for the prisoner. The Commonwealth closes in the morning, when the defense will have a chance to set themselves right.

The greater part of Tuesday morning's session in the trial of Charles W. Swengel for wife murder was consumed by the attorneys for the Commonwealth preparatory to placing their expert medical witness, Dr. Charles K. Mills, a professor on nervous diseases in the University of Pennsylvania, on the stand. It was 10 o'clock before the eminent Philadelphia specialist year--a efully graded and thorough.

Fall term opens Sept. 14, 1892. Examinations for admission, June 16, and Sept. 13. Commencement week June 12-15, 1892. For Catalogue or other information, address took his place in the witness box. In reply to the question of what, in his opinion, was the cause of Mrs. Swengle's death. he replied that, judging from the symptoms as detailed to him he believed that death was due to strychnine poison. A critical crossexamination followed.

The Commonwealth made a desperate effort after dinner to work in evidence regarding declarations made by the prisoner to a certain witness, but ex-Judge Bucher objected, and Judge McClure ruled in his favor. The State then rested.

Mr. Bower opened for the defense. He said Swengel would show that the druggist sold him both strychnine and morphia, and that the strychnine was not labeled as the druggist had testified, and further that the couple had always lived pleasantly to-gether.

The first witness for the defense was Dr. Nipple, who testified that from the evidence he would not be able to swear that Mrs. Swengel had died from strychnine poisoning. Dr. Leiser stated that he could not swear from the evidence that the prisoner's wife died from strychnine poisoning, but, on the contrary, he thought the symptoms denoted death from uremic convulsions. Any way he would not attempt to diagnose any case of poisoning in from three to five minutes as the doctor did who attended Mrs. Swengel the day of her death.
