CAPITOL CHAT.

INFORMATION OF A WEEK FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

A Brief Review of What Government Officials are Doing for the Country's Good.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16, 1892.—"As goes New York so goes the election," is what one hears on all sides. Consequently the greatest interest is centered upon the situation in that state. It is no secret among well informed democrats that the party managers have had three separate and distinct polls made of every voter of New York State, and that each of them shows a democratic majority ranging from 20,000 to 35,000. It is also known that the republicans have made three polls of the state, but the footings of the republican polls are substantially the same as those made by the democrats. This information was brought to Mr. Harrison by a prominent New York republican, and advice sought from him as to the ways and means of overcoming the democratic majority which unquestionably exists at this time.

Andrew Harter has made extensive improvements on his stable and other outbuildings at the place which he purchased in the spring. John Gray, section foreman, and his crew of men have been busy the last week in clearing the right of way of any debris that had accumulated thereon, in order to have things in good shape when the P. R. R. inspectors happen to come this way, who are daily expected. Jerry Winklebleh departed this life on last Thursday, at his home about two miles north-east of this place. He had a complication of throat diseases something similar to quinsy. He did not complain until Sunday evening previous to his death. His remains were interred in Aaronsburg on last Saturday. He leaves a wife, three sons and one daughter to mourn his loss. His age was 57 years.

R. J. Snively met with a painful accident on last Saturday while working on the railroad. He was engaged in cutting an old hemlock log which had been blown down by the storm, when off the stump flew back in its original position and threw Mr. Snively violently among a lot of rocks and roots, bruising his side and arms considerably. No bones however were broken.

A new departure, has, it is said, been decided on by the Pennsylvania road in connection with the running of their mammoth new locomotives. The crew is to be practically double. One man to be known as the runner, is to be placed on the engine, who will never take his hands off the throttle valve and air brake lever. Another man to be known as the engineer will look out for the signals, attending to the oiler between stations and things of that sort, and two men will attend to the firing. It is believed these unusual precautions will prevent accidents on trains hauled by these mammoth locomotives, will be run at the rate of 50 miles an hour, straight through.

Mr. MacVeagh made two startling declarations in his great speech delivered in Philadelphia on Saturday evening to an immense multitude. First, he said that in Lancaster county, the garden spot of agriculture in the world good farms could be bought for the cost of the improvements on them; and second, that the depreciation in farm property of the country since 1870, under the highest tariff taxes and the growth of monopoly, was as great as the value of the entire protected manufacturing establishments of the nation. Does the present value of Lancaster county farms prove or disprove the truth of these grave statements? The farmers can judge for themselves.

Both the National and State Democratic Committees have written letters of thanks to C. R. Kurtz, of the Centre Democrat, for having successfully shown up the character of the North Carolina tool of the Republicans, who hails from Illinois and passed himself off as a southern Democrat in order to print stuff calculated to influence Union soldiers against Mr. Cleveland. A full account of Mr. Kurtz's expose, copied from the Pittsburgh Post, is found in another column of the Reporter.

It is thought wheat will go down to 65 cents. We hope not—however if it goes that low, we have the consolation of knowing we have a high tariff to live on. We would advise Republicans to start on their Salt river trip now, the weather being so fine—it's going to be mighty rough after the 8th of November.

longer deferred. The effects of his watchfulness and suspense are plainly visible in Mr. Harrison's appearance. He does not now see ordinary visitors to the White House.

COBURN.

A Painful and Peculiar Accident. Other News in the Locality.

A. J. Campbell was home over Sunday with his family. Mrs. Moore, of Flemington, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. B. Everett.

Mrs. Edward Ruhl, of Spring Mills, spent Sunday at this place the guest of Mrs. W. W. Rishel.

George J. Meyer has rented part of the house occupied by Jerry Martin and has moved into the same.

Quite a number of our people went to Paradise church on Sunday evening to hear the Children's day exercises held at that place.

Mrs. Garthoff has received her stock of millinery goods and requests all her friends to call and examine her line of head gear.

Andrew Harter has made extensive improvements on his stable and other outbuildings at the place which he purchased in the spring.

A LIAR WITHOUT A PEER.

Another Evidence of the Unreliability of the Gazette.

The Bellefonte Centre Democrat in its last issue is called upon to show up the tactics and unreliability of Fiedler's Gazette, in publishing interviews which never occurred and the direct opposite if they had. The Democrat says: Mr. Noah J. Stover, of Bonacord, Kas., formerly of Walker township, came east to spend a few weeks among his friends in this section. While at the Grange picnic he met his nephew, editor Fiedler, with whom he spoke a few words in regard to the political outlook of Kansas this year. In the next issue of the Keystone Gazette Mr. Fiedler reported this interview with his uncle in the following style:

Kansas is Republican. Among former Centre constituents residing in Kansas and at present visiting friends at the home of his uncle, Mr. Stover is a man of far more than ordinary intelligence and, coming from an Alliance stronghold, it must be taken as strictly non-partisan. It is hoped the Centre county calamity striking newspapers and their stamp speakers will give Mr. Stover's report wide circulation.—Gazette.

"My dear boy, don't give yourself any uneasiness for Kansas is as surely Republican this year as Pennsylvania. The farmers, one of whom I am, are prosperous and perfectly satisfied with President Harrison, and a large Republican majority will be the result. Even many of the Democratic farmers of Kansas will vote the Republican ticket this year. They are absolutely disgusted with the demagogues in both their own and in the People's party, which is the same as the Alliance."

This is not very pleasant reading for calamity shriekers of the east, but they will have to take the facts as they really exist. Mr. Stover is a man of far more than ordinary intelligence and, coming from an Alliance stronghold, it must be taken as strictly non-partisan. It is hoped the Centre county calamity striking newspapers and their stamp speakers will give Mr. Stover's report wide circulation.—Gazette.

The above report of what Mr. Stover said was a complete falsehood in every line. It annoyed Mr. Stover considerably for wherever he went his friends questioned him about it and expressed surprise. In order that the correct story might be told, Mr. Stover called at the Centre Democrat office on last Saturday afternoon and made the following statements, over his own signature, for publication:

A CORRECTION. Editor Centre Democrat:—In regard to the above quotations (in the Keystone Gazette) I would say that for some reason I have not been correctly reported:

1st. Kansas is not "as surely Republican as Pennsylvania." In my estimation the electoral vote of Kansas will likely be cast for Cleveland because his views come nearer to those of the Alliance platform than those of the Republican party.

2nd. I have no personal knowledge, nor have I heard of any Democratic farmers in my country who will vote the Republican ticket this year.

3rd. While I am an Alliance Party advocate, between the two great parties, I would say that the Alliance party is disgusted with the Republican administration in our state; and in the event of making a choice, I would heartily endorse the principles of the Democratic party and would prefer Cleveland rather than Harrison for president.

4th. I believe that the present McKinley tariff does not benefit the farmers of Kansas, and that reform of the present tariff laws is necessary for the prosperity of our people.

A Horse Thief's Awful Crime.

Farmer Levi Boyer and his son, Emory, had a struggle with a horse thief in their barn at point township near Sunbury Sunday morning. The father and son entered the barn to hitch up the family horse. They found a stranger about to steal a valuable horse. Boyer and his son attempted to stop him and a fight ensued. The thief seized a heavy piece of iron, and after crushing the boy's skull in, and injuring the father he escape. A posse of farmers has scoured the mountains, but have thus far failed to capture the fugitive. Young Boyer died within an hour.

New Store.

A new store has been opened at Farmers Mills by Mr. John H. Rishel, which the citizens of that locality will heartily appreciate. A full line of general merchandise will be kept in stock and at rock bottom prices only will it be sold. He invites all to call and see his stock.

Won the Game.

In a well played game at Lewisburg last Saturday, the Bucknell University football team defeated the Franklin and Marshall team, of Lancaster, by a score of 23 to 12. Bucknell played a superior game in running, blocking and tackling.

Crops Not Good.

Corn is not a good average crop but the quality is No. 1. Wheat is scarce up to an average crop, and a considerable portion is slightly shriveled.

SCABBY POLITICS.

REPUBLICANS USING AN OLD CAMPAIGN TRICK OF 1876.

What Do the Veterans Think of It? Hiring Republican Editors to Abuse Northern Soldiers. Work of the Durham (N. C.) Globe.

Pittsburg Post, Oct. 14.

The Republican national committee has revamped a trick which it played on the public in the campaign of 1876. In that year a paper sprung up that was known as the Southern States. It was published at Okolona, a village in Mississippi. It began by denouncing the North in the most bitter terms. It assailed the Union soldiers in the vilest kind of language, and its lurid editorials tried to show that the South was as disloyal as ever. The publisher declared himself to be a Democrat, and pretended to support Tilden and Hendricks. These articles, soon appeared in every Republican paper of the North during the campaign, and had the effect of prejudicing many soldiers from voting for Tilden. When the matter was investigated it turned out that Will H. Kernan, editor and publisher of the paper, was a Republican, who had been employed by the Republican national committee to go to Mississippi to establish and edit just such a paper for campaign purposes.

The same kind of a dodge is being played this year to prejudice the old soldiers by just such a Kernan furnished in 1876 in Mississippi, and the Republican press of the North is perniciouly doing its part of the dirty work to scatter the same far and wide. The following article from the Globe, printed at Durham, N. C., has been reproduced by nearly every Republican paper in Pennsylvania, and probably everywhere else in the United States as well. It has been circulated extensively by the State and national Republican committees.

"The pension fraud is a theft, and we repeat that no man can honestly defend it. The South has been taxed to death to pay this Grand Army of the Republic pension. The pensioners are in the empty pail—and when Cleveland struck the beggars in the face he did a good business. We hope to God that he may have a chance to hit 'em again. Vagrants and mendicants should be both vigorously slapped and kicked. But when Harrison and Cleveland men who all the time I am for the brave Buffalo men who slapped the dirty pensioners, who are for the most part beggars, in the face. They are dirty and lousy rascals who came to this country, who abused women, who burned homes, who stole all that was in sight, and today, without an honorable war, are bleeding this country and helping to pay for it. Let the hired Yankees howl. I am of the South and for the South."

There was much more of the same kind of stuff as the above. Actuated by a desire to get at the bottom facts of a publication so mean and needless Mr. Charles R. Kurtz, editor of the Centre Democrat, of Bellefonte, Pa., enclosed the Globe clipping in the following letter which he wrote to the editor of the Sun, a recognized and reliable Democratic paper at Durham.

OFFICE OF THE CENTRE DEMOCRAT, Bellefonte, Pa., Sept. 27, 1892.

DEAR SIR:—Enclosed you will find a clipping from the last issue of the Keystone Gazette, which also appeared in the Republican papers of Pennsylvania and adjoining States, published apparently for the purpose of arousing the feeling of race against the Union soldiers, and prejudicing them against the Democratic party. I am a Republican, and I would heartily endorse the principles of the Democratic party and would prefer Cleveland rather than Harrison for president.

4th. I believe that the present McKinley tariff does not benefit the farmers of Kansas, and that reform of the present tariff laws is necessary for the prosperity of our people.

The action of the Democratic clubs referred to by Mr. Robinson is as follows: "Resolved, That this association, composed largely of ex-Confederate soldiers, reaffirms the principles enunciated in the national Democratic platform of this year, and heartily endorses every word and syllable thereof; and repudiates the utterances of the Durham Globe, an independent newspaper edited by a person heretofore a Republican, from the Northwest, regarding pensions, inconsistent with the time-honored principle of the Democratic party."

It is clear as daylight that Fairbrother is acting for the interest of the Republican national committee, and in the hope of electing Harrison is heaping abuse and vilification on surviving federal soldiers to prejudice them against Cleveland. It is the trick of 1876 over again, and Republican money is at the bottom of it. The Daily Citizen of Asheville, N. C. says: "The similarity of the rot the Durham Globe is printing with Kernan's wild shrieks is being remarked in several Northern papers, and the Editor has been carefully studying the Globe in that connection for several weeks. Another Northern paper says that the Durham Globe is not supporting Cleveland, but lean Alliance paper. This is partly a mistake. It pretends to be supporting Cleveland, while, at the same time, doing more than any Republican paper of equal pretensions to defeat him. We are for the information of all that the editor of the Globe is not the notorious Kernan, but one Al. Fairbrother, well known in Nebraska as a Republican and not very well known here as anything political. However, he is not past finding out."

What became of Kernan, the once famous editor of the Okolona States? A recent number of the Times-Press of Bay City, Mich., says:

"One day last spring Kernan drifted into the Times-Press office, seedy, dirty and hungry, and begged fifteen cents with which to get a lunch, saying he had eaten nothing in twenty-four hours. He was on his way to Alpena, where he had been engaged as the Evening Echo. During his stay in this office Kernan disclosed the true facts of his connection with the Okolona States, which created quite a furor in the campaign of 1876 by its lurid sentiments of treason, and stated that he was employed by the Republican national committee to go to Okolona, a small village in Mississippi, where he started a weekly paper called the Southern States, and in the style which many will recall, and they will remember that it was exactly like the ravings of the North Carolina Globe. His salary during his connection with the States was paid by the Republican committee."

"Let the veterans remember" adds the Times-Press, when they read the extracts from the North Carolina Globe condemning pensions and abusing the Union soldiers, "that they are written by a man hired by the Republican committee and were penned in the interest of Benjamin Harrison's election."

Strikers Return to Work.

The largest number of Homesteaders returned to work on Monday at company's terms which has yet applied in the same length of time. These men were all given employment and the intimidation given out at the steel works office that many other local steel workers would be taken back when they applied.

The report of the many desertions has caused much comment in the borough, and coming so immediately after the declaration of the Local News that the strike is about lost, is looked upon by many as a verification of that statement.

It is reported further that the steel workers who live up Munnell Hollow and at Gehringtown are organizing to return to work in a body.

A Swindle.

A few months ago agents, both male and female, canvassed Huntingdon and adjoining counties securing orders for earthen pots. The agents claimed that the pots would stand the severest heat test, says the Huntingdon Journal and would not break unless they were left drop on the floor or ground. The agents sold thousands of them in this section, and after they had been used a few times the purchasers found that they had been duped. The pots would not stand an ordinary heat.

In Huntingdon the pots sold for 55 cents, but through the rural districts the price was less, some of them being sold for 25 cents. There is no trade mark on the ware, and therefore people are at a loss to know who handles them or where they are made. The whole thing is a fraud, and we are only too sorry that we can't obtain the names of the swindlers so as to enable us to give a more thorough ventilation.

Disqualified as Election Officers.

The following persons are disqualified from holding or exercising at the same time the office or appointment of judge, inspector or clerk of any election to be held in the commonwealth: First. All persons excepting justices of the peace who shall hold any office or appointment of profit or trust under the government of the United States, or this state, or of any city or incorporated district, whether a commissioned officer or otherwise.

Second. A subordinate officer or agent who shall be employed under the legislative, executive or judiciary department of this state, or of the United States, or of any city or incorporated district.

Third. Also any member of congress and of the legislature of the state and of the select common council of any city or commissioner of any incorporated district.

Fourth. Any inspector, judge or other officer of any election is ineligible to any office to be voted for at such elections except that of an election officer.

Public School Statistics.

Statistics compiled at the school department for the year ending June 6, 1892, gives the total number of districts in this state at 2,358, an increase of 20 over the previous year; number of schools, 23,436, an increase of 552; number of teachers, 25,339; number of pupils 977,529; cost of tuition, $7,706,657.16 The figures show an increase in wages paid teachers and general improvement all along the line.

A Gunning Accident.

Charles, son of William Read, of Millroy, Milford county, aged about 10 years, was killed in a gunning accident on the mountain near that place on Tuesday. He let the butt of his gun down on the ground and it was accidentally discharged, the load entering under the chin and coming out at the top of his head.

Swallowed the Bait.

A new phase of the lightning-rod swindle was perpetrated on several farmers near the line between Cambria and Somerset counties during the past summer which is somewhat amusing. The facts in the case just came to light today by suit being entered for the collection of notes given by the guileless farmers.

The names of the farmers who were made the victims of the lightning rod agents are Joseph Hofecker and Josiah Allwine. Against each of these a judgment note for a large sum has just turned up, and they have engaged an attorney to fight the payment. According to their story the manner of obtaining the notes was as follows: One day during the summer two strangers drove up to Hofecker's place, and just as they came to the barn they alighted and looked at an instrument they had in the wagon. They then spoke to Mr. Hofecker saying, "You're in luck. You just hit it exactly right. You can consider yourself a fortunate man, indeed."

When asked to explain they said that they were putting up lightning rods free to all residences five miles apart, and that Hofecker's place happened to be just that far from the last one of the kind. They explained that they did this as an advertisement, as it gave them possession of all the intervening territory. After inquiring the names of all the neighbors and making particular inquiry as to who lives five miles further on, they suggested that the rods ought to be put up at once to have a good effect. This was done, and when the job was completed Mr. Hofecker was cautioned not to tell the neighbors of the good luck as they expected to get their pay by putting up others. As a mere matter of form, Hofecker was asked to sign a paper showing that the rods had been put up, which paper with his signature now turns up as a judgment note for five times what the rods were worth.

The same tactics were worked on Mr. Allwine, both men readily swallowing the bait. It is said that a number of other farmers in the same vicinity were caught in the same way, but so far no other suits have been entered here.—Johnstown Herald.

For some time past it has been apparent to the officials of the Postoffice Department that many postmasters disregard the long-standing custom to not furnish to inquirers the names and addresses of those who receive mail through their respective offices. Many postmasters by imparting such information have unwittingly assisted and encouraged fraudulent schemes, such as "green goods" and other swindles, which rely upon the credulity of persons whose names and addresses have been obtained and paid for without disclosing their object. To remedy this evil the Postmaster General has issued an order to postmasters and other postal officers and employees, strictly prohibiting from making public names, addresses or private information obtained by them in the discharge of their official duties.

A Thing of the Past. What a pity that the old-fashioned apple-butter bollings have nearly gone out of fashion. Blumsock, wildrismann, mock marriages, and such like fun that followed when the snitzing was done are among the things of the dizzy past and coming generations grow up under other inspirations. To be as an apple-butter bolling was the highest ambition of our boys and girls at one day and the season looked forward to with great longing for its speedy coming, that the youngsters might "go home mit de gals in the morning." What is the world coming to anyhow?

Found Dead.

Samuel K. Hicks, a well-known citizen of Grafton, Huntingdon county, was found dead on a pile of straw near his residence on Saturday morning. He had been in Huntingdon on Friday and bought some laudanum, of which it is supposed he took an overdose by mistake. He was aged 48 years, was a soldier in the war of '61, and leaves a wife and several children.

Warren's Comedy Co.

Will appear in Harper & Kreamer's hall beginning on Friday evening, 21, for a week's engagement. Comedy, drama, etc., is contained in their repertoire. Seats, ten cents.

Chestnut Season Soon Over.

Chestnut time will soon be over and Sunday schools will fill up again. Don't throw shells on the floor.

The Beauties of Nature.

Natures richest colors are now seen in our mountain and forest trees. A beautiful sight.
