Stocking Trout Streams.

The American Angler for October contains the following article relative to stocking trout streams which contains a great deal of truth and applies very forcibly to this state:

"There is another matter that the new association should investigate. The usual pratice in the past of stocking the streams of Sullivan and Ulster counties has been to place thousands System. For detailed information call brooks tributary to the noted trout dress were born and raised in these brooks they would stand some chance of reaching adult years. But such is not the case. Born in a wooden trough, raised in artificial streams where every condition is different from that which they find when thrown upon their own infant resources, they become an easy prey for their many enemies or die of disease. Imagine a thousand children raised in an orphan asylum in a great city, and at an age of five years in the jungles of Equatorial Africa to take their chances against the beasts and serpents of the forests, with no one to protect or take care of them. How many would attend the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the colony? Trout should not be placed in a stream until they are at least four inches long, and it would be better yet if none but six-inch trout were used for stocking very much greater to stock with such fish, but it would seem to me that one thousand one-inch fry.

When it Should Not Be Used.

A discussion regarding the advantgathering of feminine gossip brought sending her the most affectionate mes-'yours with undying love, K. M." pleased with her for sending a postal to romantic in the United States. his home asking something about a book. Beside those who merely dislike receiving postal cards there are some who would be seriously offended at being addressed in that manner, so it is best always to avoid their use as far as possible. Appointments with the dressmaker, orders to the grocer, and like business may with all proprie ty be conducted by means of cards, but for friends and acquaintances a sheet of note paper and envelope are what etiquette requires.

How to Fasten Shoe Buttons.

Do your shoes buttons drop off or break? And are you bothered with trying to keep them on? Try this way and see if it is not satisfactory: As soon as one button comes off, immediately rip off every button on the shoe. Now take a stout shoe string or a corset lace, and having pressed the eye of each button through the shoe, run the string through all the eyes, and thus fasten on all the buttons once and forever. If you do this you will not be bothered by threads that break or fasteners that hurt.
