TROUBLE AMONG THE AUTHORITIES.

There is still considerable jangling among the World's Fair authorities, male and female, and a little unpleasantness also exists among the officials connected with the Pennsylvania building. All these jangles are the offspring, mostly, of jealousy, that bane of society and breeder of strife. A jealous person is a curse wherever found, and sad to tell, he is found in almost every community creating strife and hissing on and fomenting quarrels, and he is at the Fair as well as in the town and village. The tools he works with are falsehoods, misrepresentations, false insinuations, a loose tongue and tale bearing. Three-fourths of the strife in a community is the seed of a jealous fiend, who works underhandedly like a coward, and gloats over the mischief he causes. Dante, in his inferno, sets apart the lowest and hottest pool in hell for the jealous souls, for the iniquity they have wrought on earth, in every laudable work in the church, in the community, in the business world, in organizations, in short in all phases of life.

THE CHINESE MUST GO.

On Monday the supreme court, through Justice Gray, sustained the decision of the New York courts in favor of the constitutionality of the Geary Chinese exclusion act. Justice Brewer dissented.

Justice Gray, in announcing the judgment of the court, said that the powers of this nation to restrict or prohibit the immigration of any aliens into the country or to require such aliens already in the country to remove therefrom was a well settled principle of internal law and was confirmed by an unbroken line of decisions in this court. The legislative power of the government has not transcended any of its constitutional limitations in the act under consideration. The Geary act required all Chinamen to register or leave the country. They refused to register, and will now have to be deported to China. It is thought it will cost six million dollars to send them back.

At the conclusion of Justice Gray's opinion Justice Brewer announced that he felt compelled to dissent from the view of a majority of the court. He read his views at some length, declaring in substance that the act of 1892 was unconstitutional and that if it was upheld there was no guarantee that similar treatment might not be accorded to other classes of our population than Chinese.

Justice Field also read a dissenting opinion. He held that there was a wide difference between the exclusion of immigrants and the deportation of the alien residents, and he characterized the act in the strongest language as inhuman and brutal, and as violative of the constitution in every section. He regretted to say that the decision of the court was to his mind fraught with the gravest danger to the priceless constitutional liberties of the people.

Chief Justice Fuller also dissented from the opinion of the court.

TRUE EVERY WORD.

The Altoona Tribune, a Republican organ of commendable independence, says many things of good sound sense, that hit its own party. In its issue of Monday, it speaks thus: Pennsylvania has no man of first class importance in public life, and the Republican party especially is the victim of much mediocrity. The reason is, to a very large extent, that men of independent temperament and first class ability are studiously suppressed. When a young man comes into local prominence the machine marks him. If he is willing to sacrifice his manhood and his honest convictions and to work in harmony with the machine to accomplish its purposes, he may have something of a future, but it will be a future upon which he cannot look with any satisfaction at the close of life, and one which will terminate the moment he is of no further use to the machine. It would not be difficult to name men who would have won national fame and reflected honor upon their state had circumstances been different. But instead of sending statesmen to Washington we give our senatorial seats to men who seldom occupy them and who have been sneered at by nearly every reputable newspaper in the country. This condition of affairs has lasted a long time, but that is no evidence that it is going to last forever. In fact the signs of an impending change of leadership multiply on every hand.

THAT FREE BREAKFAST TABLE.

The free breakfast table is one of the Republican delusions, having no basis in fact.

Tea is free; coffee is free; sugar is taxed; the tablecloth is taxed; the cutlery is taxed; the china is taxed, and the table is taxed. Yet this is what the Republicans call a free breakfast table.

The difference between the taxes imposed by the Republicans and the taxes imposed by the Democrats is this: The Republican taxes are for the benefit of the manufacturer; the Democratic taxes are for revenue only.

Sugar is free only in its raw state; refined sugar is taxed at half a cent a pound, all for the benefit of the Sugar Trust. The Sugar Trust gets its raw material free, and has a bounty of half a cent a pound. This tax yields to the Sugar Trust an enormous revenue. In addition there is a bounty of ten millions paid to the sugar producers in America. This comes out of the pockets of the man who believes he has a free breakfast table.

The Democrats would change all this. In the first place, they would abolish the bounty. In the next place, they would put a tax of a cent or a cent and a half, or even two cents, on all sugars imported, and thus secure fifty millions in revenue.

Then a tax on coffee and a tax on tea, importations of which aggregate $142,000,000, could be imposed so light as scarcely to be felt, which would at the same time justify a reduction on household utensils, on crockery, cutlery, furniture, woolen clothing, tools and machinery.

In fact, the breakfast table already groans under the burden of taxation; under the burden of a double taxation. One part is for the government; one for the manufacturers and the sugar rings.

Democrats propose to free the breakfast table, the kitchen table and the bedroom of all taxes except those for revenue only. The working men will not have to decide between a taxed breakfast table and a free breakfast table; they have already decided against a household doubly taxed for revenue and protection, in favor of a few articles taxed for revenue only.

Forward!

CHINESE CAN STAY.

At a cabinet meeting on Tuesday, it was decided that the Chinese exclusion act can not be enforced, congress having made no appropriation for the enforcement of the law. The next congress will likely repeal the inhuman act.

A GREEN GOODS establishments luggage fell into the hands of the authorities up near Boston, the other day. The papers found showed the victims are from every section of the land. The list embraces the names of perhaps one hundred, who bought green goods within the last three months, who paid over sums amounting from $200 to $1000. The business of the green goods men at this rate would amount to half a million per year. Thousands of circulars were found in the boxes opened; Pennsylvania had its share of names among those buying green goods. We find no Centre county names in the list.

THE UNFAVORABLE weather gives the Chicago fair managers the blues as well as the farmer.

PHILIPS, the green goods man who died from the pistol shot he got from Hoerner, will receive little sympathy. However the Hoerner brothers are hardly better.

IT BEATS the dickens the way banks went to smash last week. In Indiana seven banks suspended; in Ohio three; five in Michigan and one in Illinois. There must be many happy depositors now.

THE WORLD'S FAIR managers have decided that the fair shall be open on Sundays.

GOV. PATTERSON'S veto club hits the right place sometimes.

THE NEW YORK Press still does up its "Tariff Pictures" in mourning. The funeral came off last November.
