Governor Pattison sent to the House a message vetoing the Farr compulsory education bill. He recites his reasons for vetoing the bill two years ago and says that while some of his objections have been met, yet the present act presents certain aspects which will not meet with popular approval." He thinks it is a doubtful experiment; it is not in accordance with enlightened sentiment; it will establish a system so intricate, burdensome, elaborate and expensive that it will break of its own weight or be utterly neglected and ineffective, the whole school system will be demoralized and the expense increased.

The Governor was sustained in his veto by 72 to 56.

Improvements for State College.

The recent appropriation of the Legislature to the college includes an item of $1000 to be used for the erection of a grand stand on Beaver athletic field. A committee consisting of Professor H. J. Waters, E. J. Haley and Hugh Beaver will superintend the work during the coming summer. The appropriation also includes an item of $30 000 for the equipment of the engineering building and a sum sufficient for the establishment of the chair of mining engineering.

No Trolley Tracks to Mar.

At the suggestion of the Battlefield Commissioner Batchelder, the management of the new electric railway over the Gettysburg battlefield, has agreed to run their line over the battlefield via the Emmittsburg road, instead of in front of the bloody angle. The railway people will rectify all of the damage that has been done along the scene of Pickett's charge.
