JUST WHY?

Why should any Democrat vote for Shady Harter for sheriff in preference to the Democratic nominee, handsome John Condo?

Mr. Condo is just as tall as Shady Harter; he is just as good looking as Shady; he is just as intelligent as Shady; he is a sterling Democrat, and Shady is just the opposite; possibly Shady has nearly as good a character as Mr. Condo—now why should any Democrat vote for Shady Harter?

WANT TO MAKE A BIG GRAB.

Besides working to capture the sheriff the Republicans have set out to capture two commissioners and thus control that important board. Democrats, this can't be done unless you allow yourselves to be gulled into scratching your own nominees. No good Democrat, we trust, will be found willing to do that.

KANSAS farmers have no seed wheat. Perhaps they gave too much attention to raising Peffer.

THE Republicans of Berks county, Pa., have already elected delegates to the state convention of 1894 and instructed them for Hastings.

THE CROP reports justify a better price for wheat. Who is pinching the farmer? Wheat might be ten cents higher, it is asserted, if there were not a pinch, by which the farmer is the sufferer.

THE general resumption of business keeps going on all around. Wheat is also going up, and the prospect is brighter for farmers. The repeal of the silver bill is one of the things the farmer needs and it is working well for him already.

GEN HASTING'S boom for governor has begun to boom. Several counties have instructed for him, and several Hastings clubs have been organized. The general has the start and we would like to see him keep the inside track in this Republican race.

THE Columbian "Liberty bell" was dedicated at the World's Fair on Saturday. Miss Alice Scott, of California, sounded the bell first and there were other exercises, including addresses by President Palmer, and Commander-in-Chief Adams, of the Grand Army of the Republic.

THE Harrisburg Patriot says: Senator Gerard C. Brown, of York; James McSparran, of Lancaster, who was defeated for the democratic nomination for auditor general two years ago by Robert E. Wright, of Allentown; "Farmer" Taggard, of Montgomery and Senator Noah B. Critchfield, of Somerset, are spoken of as possible successors to Grand Worthy Master Rhone, whose term expires in December.

THERE seems to be a general desire among our people to take a trip to the World's Fair before the exposition closes. Flattering accounts given by those who return, is what arouses so much interest, and the fact that the real expenses of the trip are far beneath what people imagined is what makes so many anxious to go. Every day the attendance is increasing and during the present month it will be at its highest point.

PENNSYLVANIA crowned herself with glory at the World's Fair, last Thursday. The exercises were conducted upon a magnificent scale and was in true keeping with the dignity of the "Keystone State." None of her sister states can compete with her in the great variety and extent of her resources. She stands foremost in the galaxy of states and is fittingly termed the Keystone in the grand archway of statehood.

SOBER WORDS ABOUT PENSIONS.

It has been the rule of the Pension Department since its organization, says the Philadelphia Times, to suspend the payment of pensions in all cases during inquiry as to the right of the pensioner to the pension rate he was receiving. This was no new order under the present administration. When the Department received information that threw doubt upon the correctness of a pension, the payment has uniformly been stopped until the facts could be fully ascertained.

There has been no change in the political complexion of the authority in the Pension Department that suspends pensions. It is still Republican, with an experienced Republican at its head, and every pension that has been suspended has been suspended by a Republican board and under the rules that have been in operation ever since our civil war. The present Commissioner of pensions has, therefore, been simply following the rules and precedents of the Department as long established, by suspending pensions where reasonable doubt existed as to the correctness of the rating or the integrity of the pension claim.

The ruling made by Ex-Commissioner Raum, by which disability pensioners under the law of 1890 were put in the same class with disability pensioners under the old law that required the disability to be the result of wounds or illness received or contracted in actual military service, was overruled by the proper legal authority of the Pension Department, and it is this ruling that has caused the suspension of some thousands of pensions. As most of these pensions are not alleged to be wholly fraudulent, Commissioner Lochren has properly liberalized the uniform rule of the Department, and will henceforth continue the payment of pensions pending inquiry into their validity. So far from restricting the rights of pensioners the present Commissioner has greatly liberalized them in favor of pensioners. The new ruling of Commissioner Lochren will be accepted by every fair minded citizen and by every honest pensioner as not only just, but is more generously just than the rulings of his predecessor.

It is great folly to seek to misrepresent the effort of the present Pension Department to make the pension list a roll of honor. There has not been a single pension suspended that was not suspended by a Republican board and upon cause which fully justified it. This should be commended rather than complained of by every true soldier. It means that the pension laws shall be administered in a liberal spirit, and that no wrong shall come to any veteran who has just claims upon the generosity of the government.

JUDGE FURST ON TROUT FISHING AND KILLING DOGS.

Judge Furst made two rulings last week in the Centre county court, which will be of interest elsewhere. One case brought before the court was a young man who had been catching speckled trout with a rod, and a line with several hooks on it. Counsel for the fisherman argued that as he had caught the trout with a rod and line, he had not violated the law. Judge Furst ruled that no species of fish was more carefully protected by law than speckled trout, and that the intent of the law clearly is that not more than one hook should be used to catch them. In the case before him the defendant had used a device more like an outline than a "rod, hook and line." The defendant was found guilty.

The other ruling was in a dog case. Mrs. Kate Brown brought suit against Wesley Straw for shooting her dog. The animal was a valuable one as it protected her property and she always took him along with her when she was by herself. The dog went away and strayed into Straw's barn yard, where he gave a flock of sheep trouble. Straw shot the dog. The judge ruled that while the dog was a valuable one to Mrs. Brown, he was trespassing on another man's property, and as the law gave every man the right to shoot a dog when annoying sheep, the defendant should be acquitted.

PENNSYLVANIA PROTECTIONISTS.

The Pennsylvania protected industries are protesting against a change in the tariff. The Pennsylvania beneficiaries of monopoly taxes were heard on this point last November, and it will be recalled that they were not in touch with the majority of the country.

Remarkable Coincidence.

William Brown, of Lost Creek, Schuylkill county, three years ago spent Sunday in the mountain between Mahanoy Plane and Shenandoah. In the evening he walked down a path to the Reading railroad tracks in time to have a leg cut off by Conductor Doherty's train. Monday last Brown spent the day on the same mountain and returning by the same path he traversed three years ago, and when at the spot of his previous misfortune tripped and fell just as Doherty's train shot by, the wheels cutting off his remaining leg about the same place the first leg was mangled.

State College Opens.

The Pennsylvania State College opened Wednesday with the largest attendance in its history. The freshmen class will number at least eighty, the majority are mature and well-preserved men. The athletes are enthusiastic over their might and muscle. The mining engineering department opens with men in every class. It evidently fills a want in the community. Every department is manned as never before and their is great enthusiasm and earnestness among teachers and students.

Killed on the Rail.

On Wednesday morning word was received to the effect that James A. Curry, the eldest son of John Curry, of Bellefonte, was killed in Buffalo, N. Y. He was employed as foreman in the yard at that place, and it is supposed that he was standing on the track opposite, when he was struck by a train which came up back of him, killing him almost instantly. The deceased was about 35 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss.

Died in California.

Daniel Furey, who was aged 73 years, died August 26 last, in California, to which state he had gone a number of years ago. He was a cousin to John M. Eurey, of Pleasant Gap, and brother to Wm. Furey, formerly of Bellefonte, and in Centre county's early history one of its most trusted commissioners.

A Pleasant Stag Party.

On Wednesday a carriage with four of Milroy's prominent and most jolly citizens, passed through our town on to Bellefonte, where they visited Gov. Curtin and others. The gentlemen in the party were Ner Thompson, Jas. B. McManigle, S. S. Brown and W. B. McNitt. They had a most pleasant time in Bellefonte and on their return called at the Reporter's office and put in a pleasant half-hour. Remaining for supper in this place they left for Milroy before dark. A pleasanter party could not be found in Mifflin county, and we'd like to have them come oftener.
