DEAD IN BED.

J. C. Stover, of Coburn, Comes to an Un timely End.

On Sunday morning the community of Coburn was startled by the report that J. C. Stover had been found dead in bed, and upon further inquiry the report turned out to be only too true. No person living in the house at the time of his death, and indications pointing to the cause of his death as being of a mysterious nature, J. F. Garthoff, Esq., was called upon to impannell a jury of inquest to ascertain the cause of his death. A. P. Zerby, J. B. Kern, J. M. Harter, Levi Spigelmyer, R. O. Brought and D. L. Kerstetter, good and lawful citizens, were chosen to conduct the inquest. A number of witnesses were heard, the jury rendered a verdict "That J. C. Stover came to his death by paralysis of the heart caused by the excessive use of intoxicants."

The testimony given at the inquest was to the effect that Mr. Stover left home on Saturday morning and went to Coburn in company with a companion, where they remained a short time and then went to Millheim, and got to drinking pretty freely. Towards evening they again returned to Coburn. here they were joined by three others; who procured three pints of whiskey somewhere to continue the debauch. About half-past ten they left for Mr. Stover's home, and reached there an half hour later. The doors being barred they affected an entrance through a window, and Mr. Stover was put to bed and his comrades went to their homes, leaving him alone. Mrs. Stover had gone to a neighbor's in the evening to spend the night. She feared one of the men. About daybreak Sunday morning Roland Finkle, who worked for Mr. Stover, came to the bedroom and called him but received no answer, but considered nothing wrong, supposing he was in a deep slumber, and Finkle went to work in the barn. In the meantime Mrs. Stover came from the neighbor's house and went directly to the bedroom, and found to her horror that her husband was dead. He was found lying crosswise in bed with one foot on the floor, and the other on the bed, cold in the embrace of death, having died sometime during the night.

Butfor the one vice, J. C. Stover during his short life, was a man of which any community might be proud. Attentive to his business, industrious, a good neighbor, a kind and obliging friend, a loving husband, a dutiful son and above all, a good law-abiding citizen. In politics he was a true Democrat and at the time of his death was Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this Remedy is taken as soon as a cold has been contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it will greatly lessen it's severity, and it is the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly. For sale by J. D. Murray, Druggist.
