CENTRE HALL, PA., THURS. JAN. 4

VOLUME 67.

With this issue the CENTRE REPOR-TER enters its 67th volume. This is a good, old age, and like old wine, the REPORTER is getting better with age.

The people have confidence in the REPORTER, and that has made it strong and influential. It has faced many storms, yet never was shaken.

The REPORTER, we flatter ourselves, has accomplished a great deal of good in its time. It has done more solid for the reason that the allowance is ingood than perhaps any half dozen others can claim credit for in this county.

The railroad, that has been the making of our beautiful valtey, possibly would not yet have been constructed, but for the stand taken and aid rendered by this journal which is just as creditably identified with other enterprises and improvements. Centre Hall has the impress for good upon it coming from the interest we have taken in | can't understand. One is, how so mafurthering what was beneficial to the town and vicinity, calling forth appreciation from many and bitter jealousy need, and are apparently always hapfrom a few.

The REPORTER will strive to be as useful in the future as in the past, and kindly asks the support of the public.

THE London News puts the "foreigner pays the tax" argument of Mc-Kinley Reed and Dalzell (by the two latter in the minority report) very neatly. Referring to our imports last year of $421,000,000, and the payment on them of $205,000,000 customs taxes, the News says "that the Americans are shrewd enough to know that while the foreigner got his $421,000,000, the value of his imports, the American people paid the $205,000,000, so that the goods imported through the custom house cost them $626,000,000." That is about the size of it, although Reed and Dalzell commit themselves to the blooming absurdity that the foreigner pays the tax.

WE notice bro. Rhone, from across the fields, was in attendance upon the Repub state convention at Harrisburg, on Tuesday, to work for the nomination of Taggart, for Republican congressman-at-large. But, the Patriot says, bro. Leonard found it an up-hill job, everybody was the other way. We would advise Mr. Rhone to have a red hot set of resolutions passed next and then leave the Repubs again,-don't king shot his bride of six weeks while let 'em snub you any more, bro.

FOUR PENSION DECISIONS.

Assistant Secretary Reynolds has rendered four decisions of interest to has been placed in an asylum. pension attorneys. The first decision holds that where at the date of his death a soldier leaves a wife from lege and a brother of Col. Shortlege, whom he has been legally divorced of Bellefonte. and minor children over the age of sixteen years, his mother will occupy a pensionable status and can apply for overcoat and you can get such a one as and receive a pension as dependent you need at a small figure at Lewins, mother of such soldier, upon compli- Bellefonte. His assortment is large, ance with the statutory requirements and every purchase is made satisfacto-

In the second it is held that where an invalid pensioner dies leaving no claim for increase or re-rating of his A House pension pending in the pension bureau at the time of his death, but has accepted the rate of pension he was then receiving without demur or complaint, his widow has no right under the provisions of sections 4718, revised statutes, United States, to file an original claim for re-rating of her deceased husband's pension.

The third holds that the terms of the act of congress, approved March 1, 1893, prohibiting payment of pension after July 1, 1893, to a non-resident who is not a citizen of the United States, except for actual disabilities incurred in the service, applies to widows who are non-resident aliens. The fourth decision holds that the commissioner of pensions has no authority, express or implied, to vary the terms of a contract for attorney's fees in a claim for a pension where such contract has been duly made and executed in accordance with the provisions of law nor can he refuse to issue a pension certificate to claimant sufficient to pay the fee contracted for. The certificate should issue, irrespective of the amount found due. It is then within the power of the pensioner to prevent payment of the fee by declining to execute his voucher, or to execute his voucher and pay the fee subject to any equitable arrangement that may be agreed upon between the attorney and the pensioner.

Our town was startled last Saturday afternoon about four o'clock by the alarm of fire, and dense clouds of smoke were seen issuing out of the house occupied by John Taylor, in the northern part of town. The people hurried to the house, broke in the front doors and proceeded to deluge the house with water, and soon extinguished the fire. The fire it seems originated in the wood box where a young child put a piece of wood it had tried to put in the stove and could not. An aged woman and a young child had charge of the house at the time, and while the old lady was at the house doing chores the fire occurred. Fortunately the damage was not very heavy, but so densely was the house packed with smoke that it was only by chance the fire was discovered in time to quench it. Taylor and his oldest son were away cutting wood and his wife was away visiting friends at the time it occurred.
