ing to man than the lion. IN God's vineyard every tree is expected to bear good fruit.

WHEN we lift on somebody else's burden God takes our own.

GOOD actions, like sheep, are not apt to follow one another. MAHOMET admitted bees to paradise, but barred out the hornet. It is hard to convince a dyspeptic that the world is growing better. A LIE is always several shades blacker than the sin it tries to hide.

EVERY sensible man you meet will admit that he was a fool last week.

TEMPTING a child to do wrong is as much a sin as shooting a man with a gun.

NO MAN will ever be celebrated for his piety whose religion is all in his head.

THE man who believes the gospel with his heart loves his neighbor as himself.

Some men who start out to set the worldon fire give up at the first thunder clap.

THERE is nothing we ought to do that we may not expect Gou to help us to do.

THERE is no place in the Bible where God has promised to make a loafer happy.

IT will not be found that many of the songs sung in Heaven were written on earth.

UNLESS a Christian's walk corresponds with his talk the less he has to sav the better.

Most Christians are willing to do reat things for God, while but few are willing to suffer.

THERE is something wrong with the teligion of a man who never looks happy inside of a church.

THE moment you let a doubt touch your heart and stick, you will begin to limp in your Christian walk.

The Prince is perhaps the "senior member" of hunting society in his country. He was hunting in the Chantilly forest, as the guest of the Duc d'Aumale.

His party met another party which was following a deer in the same forest, and some disorder resulted. The Prince lost track of the animal that he was following, but he took the disappointment philosophically, and set out to find the deer again.

On the way he was stopped by an said Uncle Nahum, with condescenold white-haired peasant, who told sion, "that sech folks was 'as odd as him that the deer he was following Dick's hatband.' Novel Way to Clear a Common.

In 1808 when Jamestown, N. Y., was first settled, the inhabitants hit upon a novel plan for clearing off the public common. The plot set apart for that purpose was covered with trees, which were gradually cut down by the settlers at odd times when not otherwise engaged. But the stumps still remained, and their removal was a problem that caused many discussions among the city fathers. At last they struck a brilliant ides, whereby their object was not only attained, but the intemperate members of the community were taught a salutary lesson. It was duly enacted that the penalty for getting drunk was to dig up "If Theodore Thomas is a musician," a large stump, but if the culprit was said Banks, "why is it that nobody only moderately tipsy he was assigned ever saw him play a cornet, for in- to a smaller one.
