A RIP VAN WINKLE CASE.

The Republican state convention went down into the grave and brot up Galusha A. Grow, to be their nominee for congressman-at-large.

Over a generation ago Galusha disappeared from the political world, snowed under by the elder Cameron, who had no fondness for "Them d—n literary fellers."

When Grow was yet in the political world, his cry was free-soil, anti-slavery, and for the negro—there is where he stopped and went to his political sleep.

The Republican cohorts being short in material of mental caliber, dug down into the grave, brot up Galusha, and nominated the spook for congressman-at-large two weeks ago.

When Galusha takes his seat in congress, he will be its Rip Van Winkle. He will rub his eyes, utter a yawn, and then make a motion to call up the Wilmot proviso for discussion.

The writer once, on a morning, sat with Galusha, solitary and alone, on the railing by the sea-shore, at Cape May, watching the waves rolling in and listening to the music of the breakers.

Treasurer Gramley goes out of his responsible office with clean hands and an honorable record. He attended to the duties of his position himself and none of his predecessors has been more capable and obliging.

CAUCUS MEETING.

Potter township Democratic caucus meeting at Centre Hill, Saturday, Jan. 27th, 1894, at 2 p. m., to nominate township officers. B. H. ARNEY, Mem. Co. Com.

EX-SHERIFF Ishler goes out of office with great credit. He performed his duties to the entire satisfaction of the people. There was no mistake in putting him upon the Democratic ticket; all who had business with him, during his term, found him a perfect gentleman, with a noble disposition to favor those in distress as far as his duty permitted.

DIED OF PNEUMONIA.

Mrs. Col. Andrew Gregg Succumbd Wednesday Evening.

The death of Mrs. Col. Andrew Gregg occurred last night, Wednesday, about ten o'clock, at the family residence, about two miles west of Centre Hall, after a brief illness, of pneumonia. Mrs. Gregg was the victim of a cold about one week ago, which soon developed into other ailments, and finally settled upon her lungs, causing congestion of the lungs, and death occurred at the time stated.

Mrs. Gregg was aged about fifty-six years, and was the only daughter of Col. William Smith, dec'd., of Clinton-dale, Pa. One brother only, James Smith, now living in New Mexico, survives her. She was a lady much devoted to her family ties, universally respected and appreciated.

Mrs. Gregg has for many years been a devoted and most faithful member of the Methodist church. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon.

A Necessity to the District.

The Centre Hall REPORTER is 67 years old, which is a compliment to its usefulness. A paper that lives to that age is evidently a necessity to the people of its district. We offer Brother Kurtz our heartiest congratulations.—Phillipsburg Ledger.
