Union, and some other districts.

All the lawyers above mentioned are concerned on one side or the other, in all the cases on the trial list, hence extra courts, extra judges and extra expense would follow. Judge Furst's ten years out of practice might be an exception, his old cases having been disposed of at special courts during his term.

It would be a wise provision if the conststution required that judges must be chosen from outside the district in which they are to serve; the law permits this but does not make it mandatory.

Some one of our local millionaires sent Coxey a check for $1000 on Potters bank. That check is as good as a score of others received by Coxey, and will make a good cigar lighter.

The president judgeship is beginning to warm up. Republican members of the Bellefonte bar have signed to Furst has sent a courteous reply consenting to be a candidate for re-election.

J. G. Love, Esq., has also taken the field to contest the nomination with Judge Furst.
Among Democrats there is not quite as much commotion as on the other side, possibly because the election of a Democrat is among the very doubtful things in a Republican district. In occasional groups the names of Fortney, Bower, Ellis Orvis and Spangler are discussed.
What the people want to avoid is the holding of special courts, bringing in outside judges to try cases in which the resident judge was concerned, which entails additional expense. This is avoided by electing a judge from outside the district, an in Schuylkill, Union, and some other districts.

If the statute does not specifically cover this method of counterfeiting it will have to be amended. The attempt to inflict the penalty of the law for producing and circulating coins in all respects like the genuine by invoking the equities of the case must prove a failure, for if it is dishonesty for an individual to attempt to pass fortynine cents worth of silver for a dollar it is equally dishonest for a government to do it.
