A BANK LOOTED.

The revelations in the Mifflintown bank case prove that the concern was insolvent as far back as eighteen years, and that the worthless condition of the institution was purposely kept hidden by an outward show of soundness, and by making false reports each year to cover the real rottenness of the bank. In this fraudulent manner it managed to continue for eighteen years as a skinflint concern, taking in the deposits of its neighbors and squandering them in stock speculations.

Such dishonest bank officials flourish a few years by speculating in stocks and other dabbles, using other people's money left in bank on deposit. This is the history of pretty nearly all looted banks-ruined by using the depositor's money for private speculations.

Whenever you see those employed in banks, going outside of their business and speculating and gambling, make up your minds that the money of the depositors is being used for illegitimate purposes, and you want to take your money out of it, before it is too late.

A bank carried on with the purpose of skinning and speculations, is the worst curse that can be inflicted upon a neighborhood, and that is just what the Mifflintown bank proved to be and scores before it, and others will yet turn out to be, where the persons in the bank go into speculations and swindles. A bank carried on with honest purposes is a convenience to a neighborhood; but where it is conducted upon the guerilla system it is sure. sooner or later, to turn out disastrously to those who put their money in it. In dealing with a bank, see whether those in it are men of pure character, free from speculation, and schemes to swindle its neighbors before you put your money there.

MIGHT Hasting's nomination have caused a drop in wheat? It went down the same day he was set up.

TO THE POINT

The York Gazette states the case in a few short paragraphs:

"Coxey's nomination for Congress in McKinley's own district is a more natural thing than at first appears.

"Coxeyism is the necessary outcome of McKinleyism.

"Protection inculcates the doctrines of paternalism and it is not at all surprising that men out of work should think that a government which can throw about capital the fostering care of a tariff can give them assistance, especially when all they ask is work.

This is a correct orthodox view of this great public question.

THE Senate has put barbed wire on the free list. Every farmer will thank the Democrats for that. The larger the free list the better for the farmer.

WHAT Uncle Dan Hastings needs to do now, is to give the bosses the shy. This is the right time, too, to do itthe party being strong in the state, and wanting to see Quay and Cameron given a back seat while the rank and file come forward. The bosses had to submit to Gen. Hastings' nomination because the Republican masses wanted him-he was nominated in spite of the bosses, who only bowed to the inevitable. There never was a better time for the Republicans of the state to throw off machine control, than now.

JOHN VAN IMMEN has been in the Ohio penitentiary since 1885 for murder, and will soon be released. The man he was convicted of killing has been found in Indiana. This is shocking to contemplate. Here is the disgrace and punishment of an innocent man for nearly nine years, for murder. What restitution is there for the man thus wronged by mistaken justice?
