"GOODS AT LOW TARIFF PRICES."

"Goods at low tariff prices," this is the heading to the advertisements of nearly all merchants, from John Wanamaker down. It means nothing more nor less than that now the workingman can purchase goods for less money than before the repeal of the McKinley high tariff law.

"Goods at low tariff prices" knocks the bottom out of Gen. Hastings' speeches and is the best speech, in reply to the General's silly calamity howl.

"Goods at low tariff prices"—this is the best speech out for the Democrats, and should lead every honest man to vote for Singerly. Singerly for a dozen of years has given the working people of Philadelphia coal at cost, and he has during that entire period fought in favor of "goods at low tariff prices," that the poor man might make ends meet.

"Goods at low tariff prices"—Democrats, put that on your banners, it replies to all the windy trash of Hastings that the people of the country are going to starve.

THE Republican deadlock in the Lycoming district, 16th, was broken on Tuesday. F. C. Leonard, of Potter county, on 573 ballot, was unanimously nominated for congress.

THE Japs are now moving on to Pekin, the Chinese capital, and the pig-tails are on the run.

TELL THIS TO HASTINGS.

An interview in to-day's Post with a leading Pittsburg dry goods merchant, dealing in domestic and imported goods, and particularly woolen fabrics, says the Pittsburg Post, states that blankets, as a result of the new Tariff law, have come down from $4 to $2.55 a pair. This is only one instance. Other woollens have fallen in equal proportion. "But have wages come down?" No, said the Pittsburg merchant, instancing one of the largest Eastern woolen mills where wages had been advanced because of the increasing demand for its product. Free wool has given a great boom to woolen manufacturing, and wages are going up under the new Tariff law instead of falling. Tell this to Hastings, the great calamity boomer and dodger of State issues.

TALKING against the new Democratic tariff is getting to be up-hill business with Gen. Hastings and his fellow orators. The people are beginning to like the Wilson tariff better every day.

GEN. HASTINGS' boom isn't sprouting prolifically. He may possibly get his party vote.

HOW TO TEST 'EM.

Let Gen. Hastings, in his high tariff speeches and calamity howls, test his audience in this manner: Let him ask all in favor of buying goods and other necessities cheap to rise in their seats. Of course, nine-tenths will at once rise to their feet. Then let him read the advertisements of Wanamaker and other merchants, in the newspapers, offering goods at reduced prices on account of the new tariff law and ask them how that suits them, and there will be a unanimous yell "That's all right." Now suppose our Dan try this test upon his audiences, it is simple and to the point, and more decisive and intelligent than an hour's howl on the calamity strain.

WHAT STRIKERS MAY DO.

The United States Court of Appeals, sitting at Chicago has modified the famous strike injunction granted by Judge Jenkins, which, in effect, declared strikes necessarily illegal. The opinion, read by Judge Harlan, holds that employes, singly or in a body, may refuse to work for any employer, just as any employer may discharge any or all of his workmen if he is dissatisfied with them or finds it unprofitable to keep them at work. The inconvenience to the employer and the injury to the public are both admitted, but treated as evils that can be better borne than the invasion of the natural liberty of the individual.

At this point the reversal of the Jenkins order ends and Justice Harlan holds that any combination of employes to prevent others from entering the service they refuse or to cripple the property or business of those against whom the strike is aimed is illegal. In other words employes may quit any service, provided they do it peaceably, but they become lawbreakers as soon as they attempt by intimidation, threats or the use of force to prevent others from working or engage in acts intended to obstruct railways, or any other public or private enterprise, either by the destruction of property or otherwise.

This modification of the Jenkins injunction and the reasoning upon which it is based will be accepted as sound, both in law and common sense, by everybody except the riotous elements led by agitators of the Debs stripe. The direct gain to the cause of law and order of the decision is that it clears away some of the legal haze which has obscured the mental vision not only of the labor agitators, but of members of the legal profession as well. Hereafter the labor leaders when counseling strikes, will understand, if they read Judge Harlan's order, that the legal power of the striker ends when he quits work. If he tries to prevent others from working or to obstruct by other means the ordinary transaction of business he becomes a law breaker. —Philadelphia Times.

CAMERON'S hand is not far from the troubles that are sought to be brought on in this senatorial district. It will suit Cameron to have two Democratic candidates for senator in the field, and thus make possible the election of McQuown the nominee of the Republicans, who is in favor of Cameron's reelection to the senate. A movement is on foot in many parts of the state, among Republicans, to defeat Cameron for re-election. In this district the Republican nominee, if elected, would vote for Don. Hence Cameron is anxious to have two Democratic candidates in the field in our district. If Democrats act wisely, he will be fooled in his plans.

CHAIRMAN Stranahan issued a personal invitation Monday to every Democrat of prominence in Pennsylvania to accompany William M. Singerly, the nominee for governor, and other candidates on the state ticket on their tour through the state. The party will leave Philadelphia on October 22 and will be gone two weeks, in which time it is proposed to visit every county, city and town in the state which can be conveniently reached by rail. Governor Pattison will be included in the party. Mr. Stranahan went to Philadelphia Monday evening to arrange the final details of the tour.

GEN. HASTINGS MISREPRESENTS.

General Hastings deviated enough from his memorized campaign speech, to tell the people of Bradford, that the question before them was not one of partisan politics, but was "of life or death—whether the people will starve under free trade dynasty or prosper under the protection policy of the Republican party." This is the worst kind of calamity howling, against which General Hastings himself inveighed in his Harrisburg speech; which Chauncey M. Depew severely condemned in his Homburg interview.

The general must be getting rattled. But there is a worse feature than this to this statement of the issues of the campaign; it is a very bold misrepresentation of facts. As every man knows, the people came nearer starving under the protection policy of the Republicans, and are just beginning to get full stomachs under the Democratic reform tariff law. Assuredly, "the hero of Johnstown" cannot have got so rattled before a little audience up at Bradford as to inadvertently misrepresent the facts. He must have had a purpose in misrepresenting, but that purpose will fall of results, for the people of Bradford are altogether too intelligent to swallow such a concoction. General Hastings must not discredit the mental capabilities of the people of this state.

SINGERLY challenges Hastings to use his widely circulated paper, the Record, to discuss the tariff issue. The General has not yet accepted, although through the Record over two hundred thousand readers can be reached every day, a far larger gathering than Hastings' addresses in a month.

WHERE is that galushagrow majority predicted for Hastings?

FILED OBJECTIONS.

S. Woods Caldwell Files his Objections in the Dauphin County Court.

Hon. S. Woods Caldwell, of Lock Haven, the nominee of the Clinton county Democratic conferrees for Senator in this district, was in Harrisburg Saturday, and filed in the Dauphin county court his objections to the nomination of Matt Savage for the same office. The objections as filed are:

1st. Because the conference which nominated said Matthew Savage was not held under the rules of the Democratic party, which political party his nomination is alleged to represent, as required by the second section of the act of assembly of Pennsylvania regulating the nomination and election of public officers, &c., approved the 10th day of June, 1883.

2nd. Because said nomination was made under a rule known as the Orvis rule, which rule, neither at the time of said nomination nor at any other time, has been the rule of the Democratic party in said Thirty-fourth senatorial district.

3rd. Because under the rules of the Democratic party of said district the three counties comprising the same, namely, Clearfield Centre and Clinton, which in said nominating conference were entitled to but three conferees each, were represented in said conference by the following number of conferees, to wit: Clearfield by twelve; Centre by nine and Clinton by three; which excessive representation on the part of Clearfield and Centre counties were in violation of the rules of the Democratic party and of the rights of Clinton county, whose representation was in strict compliance with the rules of the Democratic party of said district, and whose representatives then and there protested against the violation of the rules of the party.

4th. Because said conference being irregular and illegal in its representation, its proceedings, including the nomination of said Matthew Savage, were null and void.

5th. Because the nomination of said Matthew Savage, and the certificate and papers certifying the same are irregular, illegal and void.

Judge McPierson fixed Thursday at 12.30 o'clock as the time for the argument on the objections. In the meantime Mr. Savage has filed an answer to the charges showing cause why his certificate should be accepted.

THERE are no signs of a compromise between the rival Democratic nominees for state senator in the Thirty-fourth district. Matt Savage of Clearfield, was in Harrisburg with his attorney preparing objections to be filed in the Dauphin county court against the certificate of nomination of his opponent, S. Woods Caldwell, of Clinton, who has already taken legal steps to test the validity of Savage's papers. Chairman Stranahan has been vainly trying for ten days to have the contestants agree to have the conference reconvene and make a unanimous nomination. This district was formerly represented by ex-Senator Wallace and has always been Democratic. The Republicans affect to be confident of electing their candidate, M. L. McQuown, of Clearfield.

ALMOST every paper one picks up contains advertisements of business men, announcing that they have reduced the prices of goods, on account of the new tariff becoming a law. The masses of the people ever did court any move that would cheapen the prices of necessities, and that desire has, in a large measure, been gratified by the passage of a lower tariff under Cleveland's administration. The calamity howl of the opposition falls still-born—the purchaser knows, when he goes to the store, that he is saving money, and that his earnings now bring him and his wife and little ones far more comforts than under the McKinley tariff.

THE Republican judicial dead lock was broken on Friday, as we predicted in the REPORTER the day before. John G. Love was unanimously nominated for President Judge, Mr. Lovell having withdrawn, and expressing his satisfaction with Mr. Love as the nominee, in his letter of withdrawal to the conference. This ended the deadlock, 3 to 3, that was kept up at Tyrone for several weeks. It is reported that all is lovely now in that party, and how else could it be? there was so much "Love" at Tyrone for four weeks that it slopped over.

THERE is not an honest man in Pennsylvania who can give a good reason why he should not cast his vote for two such noble men as Col. Singlerly and Tom Collins—the life-long friends and benefactors of the poor classes.

Ira C. Mitchell.

We are pleased to learn that our old friend, Ira C. Mitchell, is meeting with encouragement beyond his expectations in re-establishing himself at the bar of his native county. Mr. Mitchell over a quarter of a century ago, then a young man, was the foremost lawyer at the Bellefonte bar, and won a state reputation for his legal ability. His return to our county is hailed with pleasure by all, and he is filling up with practice.
