CENTRE HALL, PA., THURS. JAN. 3

VOL. LXVIII,

The REPORTER has rounded its 67th year and with this issue enters its 68th volume. This ranks it among the oldest journals in the state, and as the oldest in the central part of the state. During a period of forty seven years the REPORTER has continued under the conduct of the present family name, of which upwards of 36 years were under its present editor. In all this period of forty-seven years, this journal has never failed in its devotion to what was for the general good, nor faltered in its allegiance to Democratic principles, and never was lowered to become the organ of a clique or faction, which brought upon it the displeasure of a few at times. We are proud of what the REPORTER has accomplished in aiding enterprises in the county, and it is gratifying to know that it has won the confidence of the people in general.

The course of this paper, in the future, will be in its trodden path of right and duty, and to maintain the confidence reposed in us by the public. We flatter ourselves of seeing the evidence around us of having accomplished much good.

Happy New Year to all.

THE state legislature met on Tuesday. Walton, Rep., of Philadelphia, was elected speaker of the house ; there are no Centre county Republicans among the subordinates of the senate and house. The tremendous majority brought no pap to our local calamity howlers.

THE Philadelphia Times Almanac, for 1895, has come to hand; it is full of useful information on many subjects, and will be found convenient for reference every day in the year. Its election tables are all that any one can desire.

WE gladly give the Centre county

Republicans credit for a full measure of patriotism based upon a burning desire to serve their country. Sixty patriots have applied to Gov. Hastings for appointments. The General has made up his mind that as our county has the governor, it had enough and that the other caramels properly belong to the hungry of other counties.

THE tax-payers of our county should bear in mind that at the spring election, Feb. 15, they are to decide "ves" or "no" whether this county shall have a poor house.

THE lucky fellow for postmaster of the House was a Philadelphian, leaving Fiedler on the shelf. No plumb fell to Centre county Republicans at the organization of the legislature.
