WHICH ?

Which are the hand, we love the best, Those that are folded between our own, Or those that move us to strange unrest By the feathery touch that is quickly flown ?

Lewis to behave himself.

the windlass.

that windlass?"

seamen, running past them, took up hauling lustily on the rop.s, began

"It means," said one of the sea-chor?"

sternly.

the helm.

them sails!'

new captain.

above his head.

one of the men took it.

spike."

to hoist the sails.

What does it all mean?"

we've got a new skipper."

Which, ah, which, do we love the best, Hands caressing or hands caressed?

Which are the eyes we most adore, Those reflecting our every thought. Or those whose glanzes our hearts implore. Whose fire will neither be tamed nor taught?

Which, ah, which, are we drawn most toward,

Eyes adoring or eyes adored?

Which is the heart of hearts we prize, That which sways with a rassionate power, Or that which yields us a sacrifice, Gentle and generous, day and hour? Which, of all, do we hold above, Hearts most loving or hearts we love? -[Mary Berri Chapman, in Century.

AN ELABORATE ELOPEMENT.

It was a fine, clear day in June, when Hezekiah Lewis, captain and part owner of the schooner Thames, bound from London to Aberdeen, anchored off the little out of the way town of Oxford, in Suffolk. Among other antiquities the town possessed Hezekiah's widowed mother, and when there was no very great hurry -the world went slower in those days

-the dutiful son used to go ashore in at his mother's window, which often startled the old lady considerably, pass on to see a young lady to whom he had already proposed five times without effect.

The mate and crew of the schooner. seven all told, drew up in a little knot as the skipper, in his shore going clothes, appeared on deck, and and scowling fearfully. "He's our fied skipper. regarded him with an air of grinning, mysterious interest.

"Now you all know what you have to do?" queried the stranger.

"Ay, ay," replied the crew, grinning still more deeply.

Hezekiah regarded them closely. and then ordering the boat to be lowered, scrambled over the side and was pulled swiftly toward the shore.

A sharp scream and a breathless "Lawk-a-mussy me," as he tapped tender smile. his mother's window, assured him that the old lady was alive and well. and he continued on his way until he brought up at a small, but pretty, house in the next road.

"Morning, Mr. Rumbolt," said he heartily, to a stout, red faced man who sat smoking in the doorway. 'Morning. Cap'n, morning," said them?

the red faced man. "Is the rheumatism any better?" inquired Hezekiah, anxiously, as he sailor with thoughtless obedience rasped the other's huge hand that she should not be long, disappeared into the house in search of her you won't you won't. This end of steersman, awkwardly conscious that hat and jacket, and ten minutes later the ship 'il belong to you after eight the men were becoming more and the brawny rowers were gazing their o'clock of a night. Lewis, you must more interested in the situation, and Four Hundred Chinese Troops Said to Have fill into her deep blue eyes, as she sat go for'ard with the men.' in the stern of the boat and told

It was but a short pull out to the fair prisoner. schooner and Miss Rumbolt was soon The seven men shrugged their trouble came and stood by him. on the deck, lavishing endearments shoulders helplessly. and Hezekiah, on the monkey and energetically looking very depressed, lit his pipe prodding the bear with a handspike and leaned over the side. to make him growl. The noise of The day passed quietly. The orthe offended animal as he strove to ders were given by the mate and just told him not to expect you back get through the bars of his cage was Hezekiah lounged moodily about, a that night.' terrific, and the girl was in the full prisoner at large. At eight o'clock enjoyment of it, when she became Miss Rumbolt was given the key of aware of a louder noise still, and, the stateroom and the men who were turning around, saw the seamen at not in the watch went below. The morning broke fine and clear,

"Why, what are you doing?" she with a light breeze, which toward demanded. "Getting up the anmidday dropped entirely, and the schooner lay rocking lazily on a sea "Ahoy, there !" shouted Hezekiah. paint on the taffrail up in blisters fool, anyway." As he spoke the anchor peeped over and sorely trying the tempers of the

The cabin where the two victims of the girl, angrily. a mutinous crew had retired for cool-around from the land, and the crew, ion ladder.

the skipper. "Have you gone mad? short pipe. He was aroused at length for, very.

from his apathy by the sound of the "Good heavens! A mutiny!" ex- As he arose to his feet he was con- adventure." claimed the skipper, starting melo- fronted by Kate Rumbolt, who pant- "Smith!" cried the skipper,

"Where's the mate?" again. fore him. "I've done it," she cried, her eyes "He's with us," said another sea- sparkling.

man, brandishing his sheath knife

In confirmation of this the mate "Ha! ha! you should have seen them it lay gnashing its teeth and trying now appeared from below with an run. You should have seen the fat in vain to bite the rope which bound axe in his hand, and approaching his sailor ."

captain roughly ordered him below. "Let the-phew !-let the-good 'I'll defend this lady with my heaven? Here's a pretty kettle of tauntingly. You're quite white,' life," cried Hezekiah, taking the fish !" he choked. handspike from Kate and raising it

"Nobody'll hurt a hair of her beau- hands. "Just listen !"

"Those shouts are from aloft." "Then I yield," said the skipper, and I ought to be."

drawing himself up and delivering up "I've closed the companion," said about the old bear." the handspike with the air of a dethe girl, reassuringly.

feated admiral tendering his sword. "Closed the companion." repeated "Good," said the mate briefly, as Hezekiah, as he drew his knife. "He can smash it like cardboard if the fit "What!" demanded Miss Rumbolt takes him. Go in here."

excitedly, "Ain't you going to fight He opened the door of his state-Here, give me that hand- room.

"Shar.'t." said Miss Rumboldt, po-Before the mate could interfere the litely. "Go in at once," cried the skipper,

"Very good," said the mate, "if He walked aft and relieved the also that Kate could hear some of "And what are you going to do their remarks. As he pondered over with me afterward?" inquired the the subject and tried to think of a way out of it the cause of all the

> "Did my father know of this?" she inquired.

"I don't know that he did exacty," said the skipper, uneasily,

"And what did he say?" said she. "Said he wouldn't sit up," said the skipper, grinning despite himself. Kate drew a breath the length of which boded no good to her parent.

"I was afraid of that travelling chap from Ipswich," said Hezekiah, after a pause. "Your father told me of glassy smoothness. The sun beat he was hanging round you again, so "What are you doing with fiercely down, bringing the fresh I thought-well, I was a blamed

"See how ridiculous you have made the edge of the bows, and one of the men who were doing odd jobs on deck. me look before all these men," said

"They've been with me for years,' "Now, then," shouted the fellow, ness got more and more stuffy, until said Hezekiah, apologetically, "and 'stand by; look lively there with at length even the scorching sun the mate said it was a magnificent seemed preferable, and the girl, with idea. He quite roared about it, he Obeying a light touch of the helm, a faint hope of finding a shady cor- did. I wouldn't have done it with the schooner's bowsprit slowly swung ner, went languidly up the compan- some crews, but we've had some dirty times together, and they've For some time the skipper sat stood by me well. But, of course, alone, pondering gloomily over the that's nothing to do with you. It's 'What are you up to?" thundered state of affairs as he smoked his been an adventure I'm very sorry

"A pretty safe adventure for you," companion noisily closed, while loud, said the girl, scornfully. "You didn't men, whose fat, amiable face was frightened cries and hurrying foot- risk much. I like brave men. If you the ship's boat, and after a filial tap marred by a fearful scowl, "that steps on deck announced that some- go in the cage and undo that bear I'll thing extraordinary had happened. marry you. That's what I call an > dramatically against the cage and ing and excited, waved a big key be- quietly. "Come and take this helm a bit

The seaman obeyed, and Lewis, accompanied by the girl, walked for-"Done what?" shouted the mysti- ward. At the bear's cage he stopped, and fumbling in his pocket for the "Let the bear loose," said the girl. key, steadily regarding the brate as it.

"You're afraid." said the girl,

The captain made no reply but eyed "Listen to 'em shouting." cried her so steadily that her gaze fell. He the exultant Kate, clapping her drew the key from his pocket and inserted it in the huge lock and was just turning it when a soft arm was said Hezekiah, sternly, "where you drawn through his and a soft voice murmured in his ear, "Never mind

And he did not mind.

FLORIDA RATTLESNAKES.

They Like Music, and Their Bite is Likely to End in Death.

After a man has spent twenty. ight years of his life catching snakes he knows what he is talking about. Si Foman is 43 years old. He went into the business of catching snakes "Sha" - began Miss Rumbolt when he was 15. He shows evidence again, then she caught his eye and of what the insurance men would went in like a lamb. "You come call " an extra hazardous vocation" in the shape of seventy-five or more "I've got to look after my ship and scars, the result of wounds inflicted my men," said the skipper. "I sup- by the fangs of reptiles. These pose you thought the ship would scars are all over his body-on his legs, one on his jaw. under the eye. where a rattler clipped him and whispered Miss Rumbolt, somewhat hung one day, while the back of his 'I'm chickpecked," murmured the her, with the air of a man whose job taken aback by the skipper's de- hands look like crows' nests of scars. He is a colored man, and has the appearance of having Indian blood in his veins. "All snakes," said Si, "like music, and this banjo is the thing I use to catch them with. Suppose I'm in the woods and see a rattlesnake crawl down a gopher hole. I go to the mouth of the hole and play, and pretty soon here comes the old fellow crawling forth. As soon as he gets outside I pick him up and put him in the bag, If he's in the open, coiled under a palmetto leaf, I'm more cautious. About thirty feet off I sit down and play, and the snake quickly uncoils himself and rolls around over the ground as if he enjoyed it. He rattles all the time, but not as loud as he does when he means business and is giving you warning to give him more room. I gradually approach, playing softer and softer, and finally I pick him up about the middle and slip him in the bag and go looking for another. 'A rattlesnake is the most poisonous of all the snakes in Florida. His bite is sure death unless you have an antidote very handy. I've got an somewhat hysterical condition to one antidote, though, and a bite never troubles me now in the least. It is so efficacious that the wound hardly swells. I went down and spent nearly two years among the Seminoles in the Everglades to get it, and then it and regarding the bear with much was good luck. I was out in the woods one day with Knot-Hole. The old fellow got bitten by a rattlesnake. and he started at once for his antidote. I followed him for I knew "Then there'll be no tales told. A gasped the fat seaman, aghast at what he was looking for. He tried to conceal the plant by crushing it "I don't think he would," said his down with his foot, but I picked it. up and told him that was the thing to cure snake bites. He remarked "Marry a coward like that?" de- my life if you do. But you'd better that I was too much of an Indian and must stay always in the Indian "I ain't going in," said the fat camp. The plant not only cures snake-bite, but the stings of all

JAPS GIVE NO QUARTER.

Been Virtually Annihilated.

Dispatches from Tokio to the Japaness legation, Washington, contain some :urther information regarding the massacres at Port Arthur,

One account of the battle says that in an engagement at Suchiatun, just before the fall of Port Arthur, "the Chinese behaved with their usual brutality, beheading the bodies of the Japanese, cutting off their hands, ripping open their stomachs, and tearing out their livers. The mutilated remains presented a revolting spectacle. The fury of the Japanese troops at the sight was deep, and both officers and men swore to take revenge for their unhappy comrades." A telegram from Shanghai says that the Japanese, to avenge the inhuman treatment extended by the Chinese to their prisoners, gave no quarter to the troops that marched from Fuchow to recapture Chin-chow, but cut down the greater part of them. Four hundred Chinese encountered and virtually annihilated at Ma-kwo-ling, are said to have been fugitives from Port Arthur. The fugitives encountered a battalion of Japanese in a narrow pass. The Chinese fancied that tl ef: only chance to escape lay in fighting, and the result was heavy slaughter.

The Japan Mail, an English newspaper, published in Yokohama, credits the stories of the massacre.

The taking of Port Arthur has been calebrated in patriotic fashion all over Japan. School boys have paraded in nearly every town and hamlet of the Empire. American scalers at Yokohuma also participated in the festivities. They formed in procession, carrying a Japanese naval flag and the Stars and Stripes, and marched about the town to the music of a fiddle and an accordion, cheering with true American enthusiasm.

The Tai-Won-Kun, father of the Korean King, and recent of Korea, is reported to have retired into private life. This has probably been followed by the restoration of the king to real power. Events in Korea have been rather uninteresting with the exception of an insurrection at the city of Kwang-ju. Tens of thousands of the population rose and beseiged the citadel where some 700 officials were quartered. It was not a violent attack but rather a kind of investment, for the people that flocked around the castle cut off the supply of daily necessaries, seeking to coerce the inmates by that expedient. The officials, although driven to the verge of starvation, took no active measures, but simply waited for the mob to disperse. Twenty Japanese soldiers from Soul drove off the rabble. The rising was not of a wanton character. It was due entirely to the intolerable exactions practiced by the local officials for years.

HANGED BY A MOB OF VIGILANTS

Summary Punishment Meted Out to a Dofaulting Nebraska Official.

Barrett Scott, delaulting treasurer of Holt county, Nebraska, to the extent of several thousand dollars is supposed to have been

AN EMBEZZLERS RUSE.

Frank E. Sparks Found Unconscious on the Fisor of His Office.

A despatch from Cincinnati, Ohio, says: There was a great sensation in the central part of the city on account of exaggerated rumors of a daylight robbery of the post office. It was after 2 o'clock when Assistant Cashier Frank H. Sparks was found by Janitor John Wiehe lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. No noi-e had previou-ly been heard about the place, but when Wiehe gave the alarm an enormous crowd soon surrounded the building,

When Postmaster Zumstein, Inspector Falmon and (ashier Tucker arrived in the cashier's office Sparks did not appear to be badly hurt, although he had a big lump on his forehead. There was no doubt whatever about the money drawer being short $867.

Sparks was alone at 1.10 P. M., when, he said, two men entered the office and asked for small change for a $5 bill.

While he was unlocking the money drawer one of them rushed tbrough the small screen door, which happened to be open, and soon both of them were on him. He said he dealt one of them a hard blow, but was himself struck by a pair of iron knuckles and rendered unconicious. The watchman, who is constantly patroling the corridors, said that he saw no such men as Sparks described either enter or leave the cashier's office.

Sparks was arrested and shortly afterward confessed that he got away with the money himself. He was short $286.30 and was to settle as soon as Cashier Tucker returned from lunch, when he knew he would be caught While Tucker was lunching Sparks took $583.68 from the drawer, put the $562 In bills between the leaves of a magaz ne and $21.68 in coin in an envelope, hiding both. Alter his confession he told where the money was and $583 68 was rec. vered. Sparks is married and belongs to a good family. His friends wil make up the shortage of $283,but Inspector Salmon says that will not save him from prosecution.

STOLE $10,000 IN DIAMONDS.

Burglars Select Only Choice Gems in a Texas Jewelry Store.

More than $10,000 worth of diamonds were taken from the store of Hickox & Nixon, El Pasco, Texas.

The front door, which is always locked. was opened by boring the lock off and the big safe was treated in the same way. Not a valuable stone or watch was left, but not a cheap watch was disturbed. The work was evidently that of an expert, which all the more mystilles the officers. Three other stores were also entered.

Robert Emmet is not likely to be perpetuated in statuary in New York very soon, as the fund, now a year old, is of slim proportions due to internal dissensions among the Irish organization.

ain't the rheumatism what troubles head. Being thwarted in this design me," he resumed, lowering his voice by the man taking flight, she lost bolt, in tones of husky confidence. The captain nodded.

Kate. 'What ? " asked the skipper.

other.

"What?" inquired the astonished mariner again.

'Ch ckpecked," repeated Mr. Rum-stood silent awhile, with the air of a with a desperate appearance of reso- per. lution, he bent down to the old man's ear.

"That's the deaf un," said Mr. Rumbolt promptly.

Hezekiah changed ears, speaking at first slowly and awkwardly, but said the girl, energetically. becoming more fluent as he warmed with his subject, while the expression of his listener's face gradually ment to one of uncontrollable mirth. He became so uproarious that he was of you." fain to push the captain away from with hearty good will.

choking Mr. Rumbolt. "Here's Cap- her position forced itself upon her. tain Lewis."

"I can see him," said, his daughter, calmly. "What's he standing on one leg for?"

ing in a somewhat constrained atti- d'ye hear?" tude, colored violently and planted both feet firmly on the ground.

Being as I was passing close in, ing ashore to see mother''-

To the captain's discomfort maniwere promptly quelled by the daugh- nice as ninepence." ter.

"Mother," she repeated, encour- manded Miss Rumbolt with spirit. give it to me before you go in." agingly.

you just to pay a sort o' flying visit to the Thames.

enough where I am," said the girl. don't let's have no fuss about it." "I've got a couple of monkeys and a bear aboard which I'm taking to a violently. menagerie in Aberdeen." continued

"Well, I don't know." said the damsel in a flutter; " is it a big the mate at last feebly. bear?"

"Have you ever seen an elephant?" inquired Hezekiah, cautiously.

'Only in pictures," said the girl. "Well, it's as big as that, nearly," said he.

The temptation was irresistible. and Miss Rumbolt, telling her father him. "The vixen!"

handed it over and Miss Rumbolt at So, so," said the other, "but it once tried to knock him over the and looking round cautiously, "it's her temper entirely and bore down like a hurricane on the remaining members of the crew who were just "You've heard of a man being approaching. They scattered at once henpecked ?" continued Mr. Rum- and ran up the rigging like cats, and tiful head," said the mate with a for a few moments the girl held the deck, then the mate crept up behind exactly suited him, clasped her tight- meanor.

ly round the waist while one of the seamen disarmed her.

bolt, firmly. "D'yeunderstand me?" settled what to do with you," said of mine. They're as honest a set of The captain said that he did, and the mate, reluctantly releasing her. old sea dogs as ever breathed, and I With a wistful glance at the hand- only hope they are all safe up aloft. man who wants to say something, spike the girl walked slowly to the I'm going to lock you in; but don't but is half afraid to speak. At last, cabin, followed slowly by the skip- be frightened, I shan't hart you."

> latter shaking his head solemnly, as key of the cage in his pocket, took a the indignant Miss Rumboldt seated firm grip of his knife, and, running herself.

The skipper started.

Miss Rumboldt, "and you did noth- in dropping a noose over its head. changed from incredulous bewilder- ing. You just stood still and let The brute made a furious attempt to them take the ship. I'm ashamed extricate itself, but the men hurried him and lean back in his chair and rupted by a hoarse voice shouting to much the same appearance as the choke and laugh until he nearly lost | them to come on deck, where they lion in Æsop's fables and was dragged his breath, at which crisis a remark- found the mutinous crew gathered and pushed, a heated and indignant ably pretty girl appeared from the aft about the mate. The girl cast a mass of fur, back to its cage. back of the house and patted him look at the shore, which was now Having locked up one prisoner the dim and indistinct, and turned some- skipper went below and released the

"Lewis," said the mate.

"Well," growled the skipper.

The skipper, who really was stand- sensible you can go with it as mate, front of the cage as she reached it, lady?" inquired the captain.

Miss Rumbolt," said he, " and com- spliced," said the mate sternly. Scotch marriage is as good as any, such simplicity. festations of a further attack on the and we'll just lay off and put you

'Not if I know it. Why, I'd sooner "I thought I'd come on and ask | marry that old man at the helm." "Old Bill's got a wife already."

spoke up one of the sailors. "The archly. "Thank you, I'm comfortable lady's got to marry Cap'n Lewis, so

The mutineers appeared to be in a heads thoughtfully. "We thought you liked him," said

"You had no business to think," said Miss Rumbolt. "You are bad one of you, I shall come and see it. '

'quick with you." too," she said, prettily.

steer itself, didn't you?"

'Mutineers deserve to be eaten,"

Hezekiah looked at her. "They're not mutineers, Kate," he said quiet-"You must both go below till we've ly. "It was just a piece of mad folly

He slammed the door on her pro-"This is bad business," said the tests and locked it, and, slipping the up the steps, gained the deck. Then "Don't talk to me, you coward," his breath came more freely, for the mate, who was standing a little way up the fore rigging, after tempting "I made three of 'em run," said the bear with his foot, had succeeded down with other lines and in a short The skipper's defence was inter- space of time the bear presented

"That'll do, my dear," said the what pale as the serious nature of other, who passed quickly from a of such haughty disdain that the captain was thoroughly cowed and "This ship's going in the lace and stood humbly aside to let her pass. brandy trade, and if so be as if you're The fat seaman was standing in "An' spose I do, what about the satisfaction, until Kate sidled up to him and begged him as a personal 'You and the lady 'll have to get favor to go in the cage and undo it. "Undo it? Why, he'd kill me," part of Mr. Rumbolt appeared, but ashore, and you can get tied up as tormentor, with a bewildering smile; 'and I'll wear a lock of your hair all > sailor, shortly, "Not for me?" queried Kate

"Not for fifty like you," replied the old man firmly. "He nearly had "I won't," said the lady. stamping me when he was loose. I can't think how he got out."

the Captain, "and the thought dilemma, and, following the exam- Rumbolt, airily. "Just for a little nationalities are represented there up all day?"

The sailor was just going to tell eigners all say that the Bowery is valley. when he was interrupted.

coming. Stand by there."

kinds of insects, and it is also said to cure rabies.

On the Bowery.

As more foreigners walk on the Bowery than walk on any other street is in Fall B.ver making an inquiry into the "Why, I let him out," said Miss in New York; and as more different struck me you might possibly like to ple of the mate, scratched their run. How would you like to be shut than are represented in any other next summer. He is to go also to New Bedstreet in New York; and as the for- ford, Lowell, Lawrence and the Blacks one her with more fluency than politeness the most marvellous thoroughfare in "That'll do," said the skipper, who assuming that there is little reason is given to 1,200 hands and the factories are men and you'll all be hung, every had come behind them. "Go for- to doubt that the foreigners are enward, you. There's been enough of tirely right in the matter, especially new factories will be creeted by companies "The cap'n's welcome to her for this fooling; the lady thought you as their opinion coincides with that me," murmured the helmsman in a had taken the ship. Thompson, I'll of every American who has eve Elmer Glass Works, which have been closed husky whisper to the man next to take the helm; there's a little wind made even a casual attempt to size up the Bowery.

hanged by vigilants, who then weighted the body and threw it in the quick sands in the Nebraska River.

Scott, pending an examination, had been released on bail, and took a drive, accompanied by his wife, daughter and niece, Miss McWhorter, several miles in the county. They had startel to return home and had gone a short distance when a volley of shots were fired into the carriage from ambush by maskel men. One of the bullets pierced Scott's ear and scratched his temple. Another struck a steel in Miss McWhoter's corset, then glanced off, inflicting a flesh wound, and lodging in her clothing. One horse was instantly killed and the other mortally wounded.

The vigilants then attached another pair of horses to the carriage and drove the party over the prairie, finally depositing the women and commanding them to go to a farm house a short distance away. Scott and his driver, Henry Smith, were then blindfolded and taken towards the Nebraska River, where Smith was released and told to go home. This is the last seen of Scott and it is supposed he was treated the same as James Hill and his son a short time agohanged and thrown into the river. Mrs. Scott, her daughter and Miss Mc.

Whorter returned to the city about 1 o'clock and when the details of .he affair became generally known friends organized a posse and started in pursuit of the mob. ;

WORK AND WORKERS

THE Shell Fish (ommissioners ' Lonnecticut report that the oyster ir wastry in that State is valued at $3,000,00" -ed has an annual pay-roll of $2,250,000 Ine Buckeye Glass Comp-uy, at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, is preparing to resume opera ions with non-union men. Ine local union men are greatly excited, and a number of the new men have been assaulted. THE Massillon, Ohio, district miners' organ zathers issuel a statement that the miners accepted the award of the Board of Aroitration under protest, reserving the right to ask for a new settlement when opportunity offers. A despatch from Leadville, Col, says that the statements of the s.nel.ers for the year 1894 shows the bullion produced from Leadville ores during that period amounts to $8,160,074. The gold output for the year is $1,934,240, an increase of $131,040. THE turestened strike of the 2,50) conductors and motormen of the Consolidated Traction, Company, of Newark, N. J., and surrounding towns has been averted, the company acceding to the demand of the employes that the trips should be so arranged that they shall carn $2 per day each. DAVID HOLMES, the English labor lead-r. condition of the textile trades for the jurpose of a report to the Belgian Convention

Tuz glass industry at Clayton and Wilthe world, I think we are justified in linmstown, N. J., is now at its height Work now operating. It is also given out that the for many years, will soon it started up under new management.

	WELLELL TO T P.1
	EALTIMORE
	GRAIN, ETC. FLOUR-Balto. Best Pat.$ @ $ 385 High Grade Extra CANNED GOODS.
こうしているのであるのであるのです。 ひろうち ひろう ひろう ひろう ちょうしょう ある	TOMATOES-Stnd.No. 3.$ @ $ 70 No. 2
Statement of the local data	CITY STEERS$ 61/6 $. City Cows Southern No. 2
۱	POTATOES & VEGETABLES.
	POTATOES-Burbanks$ 50 @ $ 60 ONIONS
ł	PROVISIONS.
	HOGS PRODUCTS-shids.$ 7% 6 $ Clear ribsides
	BUTTER-Fine Crmy$ 25 @ $ 26 Under fine 23 24 Creamery Bolls 23 25
	CHRESE,
	CHEESE-N.Y. Fancy$ 12 @ $ 1234 N.Y. flats
	EGGS-State
	CHICKENS-Hens$ 8 @$ 9
	TOBACCO. 9 10
	TOBACCO-Md. Infer's.$ 150 @ $ 250 Sound common
	SEEF-Best Beeves$ 4 50 @$ 475
	Good to Fair
	MUSKRAT
	Raccoon 40 45 Red Fox — 100 Skunk Black — 80 Opossuru 22 23 Mink — 80 Otter — 60
	NEW YORK.
「「「「「「「」」」」」」	FLOURSoutherp$ $ 10 @ $ 4 20 WHEATNo. 2 Red 6036 C236 RYE-Western
	PHILADERI-PHIA.

PHILAPRI.PHIA.

FLOUR-Southern	300 0	$ 400
WHEAT-SA, 2 Red.	6935	10%
CORN-No. 5 OATS-N. 2	4535	4-15
BUTTER-State.	18	8-14
EGGSPenns. ft	24	