MILLHEIM.

Jottings from Our Wide-Awake Neighboring Town.

Albert Klinefelter and family moved into the house of Nick Barnhart, on North street this week.

Millheim can boast of five or six newsboys and all doing a rushing business, what town of its size can beat it.

The management of the pike company are kept busy opening their respective roads. The snow in some places is drifted from four to eight feet high. The high winds close them up as fast as they are opened.

Taxpayers are busy paying their taxes, in order to save the five per cent. which will be added to all taxes not paid before the first of February; consequently the collector is kept busy. Uriah Reifsnyder of North street, is still on the sick list. Charles Aurand and family of Milroy, were the guests of Jerome Spigelmyer on last Saturday and Sunday; Mr. Aurand drove a spanking team of horses. John H. Woomer was to Lock Haven a few days last week on business as well as pleasure. He says that the roads are badly drifted, some places almost impassable.

Snyder Tobias, of North street, who has been confined to his bed in a perfectly helpless condition for the past six months is not improving any. Sleighing parties are not so numerous since the snow drifts.

The protracted meeting of the United Evangelical church is still in progress with some few seekers at the altar. The meetings are conducted by the pastor, Rev. Noah Young.

The house of Albert Klinefelter which was entirely consumed by fire as well as all his household goods, one evening last week, was insured; the house insurance $600 and $300 on the personal property.

Ice houses nearly all filled; the greater part of the ice was hauled from Moyer's dam in Brush Valley.

The house occupied by William Hoy, which was across the alley from the one which burned last week, was saved by the throwing of snow balls. It was quite a sight as well as amusing to see about fifty men and boys snowballing the house.

There was a very heavy wind storm passed this way on Saturday and Saturday night. drifting the roads and boardwalks to such an extent making it hard for pedestrians as well as horses to travel consequently there were but few people on the streets in the evening.

Cook Lose, the lumber contractor, hauled to Coburn one day last week a piece of oak timber from his lumber job in Brush valley, that measured 55
