THE JUDGES' RETIREMENT BILL.

While it was generally understood that the revenues of the state for the next two years would not greatly exceed the necessary expenditures of the various departments, the result of the conference at the Governor's house on Thursday evening has come in the shape of a revelation to the state officials and the members of the Legislature. It was the only topic of conversation among such of the members of the two houses as are still there, and it is generally conceded that it will have an important bearing on many bills now pending in either the House or the Senate.

One of its first effects will be to still further lessen the chances of the passage of the Judges' retirement bill. To the country members the mere suggestion of a reduction of a million dollars in the school appropriation is like waving a red flag before an enraged bull, and to couple that necessity with a request to vote for a measure which will still further increase the fixed charges of the departments can have but one result, especially as many of the members regard the bill as one intended mainly to benefit Philadelphia and a few others of the more populous eastern counties.

RETRENCHMENT IN WRONG PLACES.

After creating a lot of new and useless offices and unnecessarily increasing the salaries of officers provided for by existing laws, the officials at Harrisburg, including the Legislature, have discovered that retrenchment must be practiced. They don't propose to abolish any offices or reduce any salaries. They will just lop a half million a year off the school appropriation, abolish the usual annual encampment of the National Guard and cut down the usual charitable and penal appropriations ten per cent., or more if necessary, and try to worry along.

This in brief is the programme outlined and agreed to at a recent conference at the Executive Mansion, participated in by the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, State Treasurer, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Attorney General and the presiding officers and chairmen of the appropriation committees of the Senate and House. There is just one merit in this agreement, and that is that it is always right not to appropriate more money than is in sight. The great demerit of the agreement is that it contemplates retrenchment in the wrong places, and the conference which led to its adoption was held at the wrong time.

No one will dispute the necessity of retrenchment. Dull times and the decisions of the courts have very seriously reduced the state revenues since the last Legislature was in session. But this fact was or should have been just as well known on January 1 as on April 12, and the conference which has decided to place schools, charities, public improvements and the National Guard on short commons should have been held before a new office was created, a salary raised or a dollar appropriated for an unnecessary purpose. The important interests that concern the public should have been provided for first and at the expense of the necessary economy in all other directions. And what was clearly necessary in the way of economy should have been determined at the very outset.

As it is, the new officials and the higher salaries will be paid at the expense of the public improvements, education, charities and defense. This, if the people are properly awake to their own best interests, they will condemn in unmeasured terms. It cannot be said that legislators and state officials have sinned in the matter of official extravagance in the face of declining revenues without light and knowledge. The Times and other journals called attention to the proposed raid of the bootlers upon the State Treasury at the very beginning of the session, and warned the Legislature that the day of reckoning would follow very shortly. There can be no plea of ignorance filed in abatement of the existing crisis in the finances of the state, as there can be no just defence of a policy of retrenchment which reduces school and charitable appropriations while providing a lavish increase in the amount appropriated for official salaries.—Philadelphia Times.

THE RESULT OF FREE WOOL.

While the Wilson bill was pending in congress, and Republicans were asserting it would reduce wages and destroy manufacturing industries, Mr.

Thomas Dolan, of Philadelphia, one of the most extensive woolen manufacturers of the country and an ardent protectionist, in an interview which attracted much attention at the time declared it would be better if the Republican writers and speakers would say less about the lowering of wages, which they predicted as a result of the repeal of the McKinley law, for it might happen that wages would be raised under the new tariff, and then their arguments would come home to roost.

This is precisely what has happened and what is happening now. In Mr. Dolan's particular industry, that of wool, the Democratic doctrine escaped the intrigues of the senatorial junta and had a reasonably fair application. Wool was placed on the free list and there was a big cut in the duties on woolen fabrics from the McKinley average of 100 per cent. to one of about 35.

Did wages go down? Were the factories closed? Not a bit of it. Last week Mr. Dolan announced that in his great Philadelphia mills wages were to be increased 15 per cent. The man who had been getting $12 a week was to get $13.80, and so on in that proportion. The same story comes from the great woolen mills of New England. The manufacturers of woolens have been prospering as they have not prospered for years. Their productive power is taxed to its utmost capacity. New mills are being built and old ones enlarged. We are actually sending American woolens to England. And, better than this, American consumers are getting better woolen goods—there is less need of shoddy—and at cheaper rates than under the McKinley law, which taxed the raw material 33 per cent. and the finished product 100 per cent. and so encouraged the shoddy mills.

Here we have an illustration of the working of a Democratic tariff reform, when honestly applied. It is computed that free wool and reduced duties on woolen goods save the American people $170,000,000 a year.—Pittsburg Post.

In response to Chauncey M. Depew's charge that Gov. Altgeld, of Illinois, is an iridescent humbug, the latter replies that it is better to be an iridescent than a transparent humbug.

The state legislature is still running wild in creating new offices and increasing salaries.

Oil is shooting up like a rocket; the passage of the Marshall bill has made the Standard dictator.

The beef trust says meat has gone up because corn is scarce. Too thin—cattle can be fed on wheat which is cheap and plenty.

The Republican split in New York is getting wider and more bitter each day. In this state the Quay and Martin wings are slashing away at a lively rate. There is no certainty about having a Republican post-master in Centre Hall or any other town next term.

EX-CONGRESSMAN "TOM" JOHNSON, of Ohio, conspicuous in the industrial world as one of the largest iron manufacturers in this country, and in the political world for the earnestness with which he championed tariff reform in the fifty-third congress, has literally proven his faith by works, one of the largest of which is the new $5,000,000 plant at Lorain, O., which was set in motion by his own hand on Monday last. The starting of such an industry in Governor McKinley's commonwealth is undeniable proof that Mr. Johnson has the sincerity of his convictions; and it is one more demonstration of the truth that the industrial system of the country of which iron is the type is surely getting on its feet again and making ready to enter the lists for the markets of the world.

OIL dropped yesterday from $2.70 to $2.00. AT THE meeting of the Democratic State committee yesterday, Robert E. Wright was elected chairman, without opposition. OUR Assemblyman Curtin voted for the bill to pension Judges. Centre county will roll up that curtin. THE boom in oil is all the talk now. Oil is up to near $3 per barrel, a short time ago it was sold at 83 cents. In the House. The House on Tuesday passed finally Representative Keen's bill authorizing the board of school directors to appropriate funds for the purpose of establishing and maintaining public libraries was defeated, the yeas being 96 and nays 51, less than a constitutional majority. The bill authorizing the incorporation of companies for constructing and maintaining boulevards was also defeated. The Ritter bill, providing a compensation for judges who shall resign their office, after twenty years' consecutive service on the bench, at the age of 70 years. Curtin voted for the bill and Womelsdorf against it. —Every well-dressed young man gets his clothing and gents' furnishing at Lewins, Bellefonte.

Seventy-one charters were issued last month, three of them being railroads, and the balance for manufacturing concerns. A Large School.

The term of school under the charge of Prof. D. M. Wolf, of Spring Mills, which opened a short time ago, has a large number of scholars. Every year the special terms taught by Prof. Wolf the attendance grows larger, and there could be no better recommendation of his ability than this fact.
