CYCLONE. BIG

New York and New Jersey Have a Rare Experience.

6 MEN AND WOMEN KILLED.

Hundreds of Dwellings and Other Buildings Destroyed-Trees and Debris Carried by the Wind-Heavy Losses.

The first cyclone in many years struck New York and resulted fatally in one instance, besides wrecking a large amount of valuable property. The cyclone descended upon the upper part of East New York, known as Cypress Hills, at half-past four, continued on its way to the lower plains district, and from there traveled to Woodhaven. One life was lost and the damage to property was great. A number of people were badly hurt. The cloud was first seen going over Cy. press Hil Cemetery. It was funnel-shaped and hung very low to the ground. At the upper end was a red spot that appeared more like an incandescent light than anything else. The cyclone swept over the cemetery, wrecking handsome and costly monuments. It tore down trees for about two hundred feet and then turned into Jamaica avenue at Crescent street and up Jamaica avenue for about haf a mile. Trees were torn down and telephone, telegraph and trolley wires

Right in the mildle of the wreckage six cars were caught. They belonged to the Brooklyn and Suburban Railroad, and were struck when in front of the Stewart Home, The cars were filled with passengers, and there was great excitement. Half a dozen persons were slightly injured.

The cyclone wrecked thirty houses at Woodhaven, Long Island, and a very large schoolhouse there. There were twenty residents of Woodhaven hit by the vari us ofjects which were carried through the air Trees and chimneys sailed through the air as though they were no heavier thin

At Woodhaven a woman was in an icehouse. The house was picked up and carried by the storm for more than a block Finally the woman was landed on one side of the street and the house on the other. The woman escaped serious injury, receiving only a slight cut on the forshead.

Mrs. Louisa Ketrequin, of Third avenue, near Rockaway, was killed. She stood in the doorway of her house when a flying beam struck her on the head, crushing in her skull and killing her instantly. The fire mother-in-law, Mrs. S. E. Mayfield. The department and the police were called to the scene, but the house was a complete wreck and the damage could not be repaired by the authorities,

Stock Farm at Jobstown, N. J., were struck | The cable and trolley cars in Harlem and by lightning and destroye!. Loss, $10,000; north of the Harlem river were effectively fares were made impassable for traffic owing to the network of fallen wires and other obstructions that had been made the toys of the wind and bail,

> The florists on the west side of the city and in the annexed district were the greatest sufferers. Gasses were blown in and growing plants were besten down by the pellets, which were as large as walnut.

IN NEW JERSEY.

A despatch from Hackensack, says: A terrific storm swept over this section doing great damage. At Cherry Hill, a small vilage a few miles from this place, it developed cyclonic fury, a tended by the demoiition of the village and a number of deaths. Cherry Hill received the full sweep of the wind's fury, and within a minute a ter the storm broke twenty-seven houses, nearly the entire number in the village, were wrecked. Tae cyclone made a clean path through the centre of the place, carrying everything before it. Houses were unroofed or thrown down, trees were uprooted and the crops in the fields leveled to the ground. Five persons were killed and the injured are numbered by scores, many of them, it is believed

The storm came from the northwest, heralded by great banks of clouds and a tirring breez . The almosphere was warm for a time and then cold, and after a secon l rush of warmth came the cyclone. The storm centre was about 300 feet in width and the strip over which it passed is a mass of ruins. Not a building in its path was

BEST ROADS FOR FARMERS.

Results of Investigations by Experts of the Agricultural Department.

The reports of several special investiga tions conducted by experts of the Agricultural Department have been submitted to Secretary Morton. The inquiry as to the best roads for farms and farmers was couducted by Gen. Roy Stone, who pictures the roads that best meets the farmers' needs as a solid, well bedded stone road, so narrow as to be only a single track, but having an earth track afongside

"A fine dry, smooth dirt track," the report says, "is the perfection of roads-easy on the horses' feet and legs and on the vehicles and free from noise and jar. The stone roads on the other hand wear more in dry wea her than in wet. Practical experience shows that the junction of the stones and earth sections of the roads can be kept even, and passing of loaded teams-two points which have been raised in the discussion of construction methods. The Growing Revival in Business Shown in Many Parts.

Special reports to the Manufacturers' Record show that, notwithstanding the midsummer heat, the business interests through out the South cintinue to expand. A dispatch from a special correspondent, who has been investigating the coal and iron interests of Virginia says: "Throughout the length and breadth of the Shenandoah Valley the growing revival in business is clearly shown." Particulars are given regarding the great salt and soda ash plant just completed in Southwest Virginia at an expenditure of over $2.(0),000 by New York and English capitalists. It is expected that this plant will large y meet the demand heretofore filled by Eaglish manufacturers for nitrate of soda, soda ash and similiar products. Some five or six railroad enterprises. involving the construction of from 10 to 6) miles of road each, have been reported during the week, including one company organ zed in Baltimore to build a line across the peninsula of Maryland and Delaware to the seashore. A construction company with a capital of $250,000 has taken the contract for this road.

A large water power in North Carolina has been purchased and will be developed on a large scale. A Colonial Hanging Cage Dug Up in King George County, Va.

The steamer T. W. Arrowsmith has brought to Washington from a point near Bluff Point, in King George county, Va., a notable antiquity grecently dug up in that county. It is a colonial hanging cage, such success between the Spanish troops and the las was used before 1770 in the colony of Virginia, in cases of conviction of petit treason. The cage is made with an iron support for ondon, dissolved. The next congress will the feet and an iron cap or helmet for the head, with transverse bars or belts of iron to encirole the body and upright bars to supat Nage Hamel, Egypt, by a French firm, port them. Within this cage was found when it was unearthed the skuli and other bones of a human skeleton.

The penalty for petit treason, under the old law of England was inflic ed where a serf killed his feudal lord and was extended in many cases to the murder of a husband by his wife. In America the wilful murder of a master by a slave was held to be petit treason and was punished by hanging in chains. The last example of that punishment in this section of the country was given near Alexandria in 1767-8, when several negro slaves were convicted at the Fairiax Court, then Two thousand persons are rendered homeless | held in that viilage, and hung in chains in an opening in the woods near where Christ Church now stands. An account of the crime and its punishment is given in the Gentleman's Magazine. It is probable that the King George cage, with its victim, was hung in the air many months, and was buried some time before the revolutionary war. It now not only revisits the light of day but makes a voyage in a steamboat, a thing more inconceivable than a griffin or a centaur, to an immense city grown out of Cardinal expr ssed to the Pope the high es | what was then a wilderness to be the capi-
