BIG COLLISION.

Terrible Disaster in the Gulf of Genoa, Italy.

PERSONS DROWNED

An Emigrant Vessel' Run Down at Night-She Sank Within Three Minutes and Nearly All the Passengers Were Carried to the Bottom.

The Italian steamers Ortigia and Maria P. collided off Isla del Pinto, at the entrance of the Gulf of Genoa. The latter sank and 148 persons were drowned.

The Maria P was bound from Naples to La Plata. There was a crew of 17 and the passengers numbered 173. She was calling at Genoa en route to her destination. She was entering the Gulf of Genoa at 1.30 o'clock, when she met the Ortigia outward bound.

The bow of the Ortigia crashed into the starboard side of the Maria P, penetrating six yards and ripping up the Maria P like match-wood. The water rushed in through the hole and the Maria P sank in three

The majority of the passengers were asleep at the time of the accident and had no time to escape after the alarm was given. They were enguised with the vessel. The Ortigia remained on the scene for several hours to pick up the survivors. She rescued 14 of the erew and 28 of the passengers of the Maria P. Other steamers have been dispatched to the scene of the disaster and are now searching for further survivors.

The Ortigia's bow was smashed for a space of 12 feet along the water line. There is some comment upon the fact, brought to mind by the di-aster, that the Ortigia once collided on the same spot with the French steamer Oncle Joseph.

At the conclusion of the sitting of the Chamber at Rome the minister of marine announced the news of the disaster in the midst of a profound sensation, adding that an offi. cer, a seaman, stoker and one hundre! forty-lour passengers of the Maria P had perished. The Ortigia had wenty-five passengers on board. The Maria P's captain was named Ferra. The Chamber has ordered an inquiry into the disaster.

The sky was overcast at the time of the accident and there was little sea. Both captains were asleep and Third Officer Revello was on watch on the Ortigia and Second O'ficer d' Angelo was on waten on the Maria P. The Ortigia was going at the rate of eleven miles an hour and the Maria P. at the rate of eight miles. Both vessels saw the lights of the other and continued on their proper roads till the mistake was made, it is not established by whom, which brought the Maria P. broadside towards the Ortigia. Third officer Revelle, of the Ortigia, saw the danger and ordered the engines reversed, but the order

All the boats of the Or.igia were lowered and the crews rescued all they could of the Captain Ferrara, who was saved, said that he was sleeping in his cabin, when he was awakened by cries and shouts and a great noise. He rushed up on deck and saw the Ortigia backing off while his own ship was sinking. Seeing that all was lost he jumped into the sea, where he was picked up by the Ortigia's boat.

Second Officer d'Angelo, of the Maria P. who was on watch on that ship when she was struck by the Ortigia, was drowned.

TRAIN ROBBERS IN OHIO.

An Express Held Up By Masked Bandits Near Toledo.

Just after midnight Train No. 37 on the Lake Shore road, to which was attached an Chicago, was stopped at Reece's switch. midway between Archvold and Stryker, 44 miles west of Toledo.

When some distance from the switch, the engineer saw the switch was turned, displaying the red light, and at once turned on the air brakes. Several shots were fired at the cab.

One of the shots put out the headlight. When the train stopped four robbers went to the express car, in charge of Messenger C.B. Nettleman, of Buffalo, and ordered him to epen the door and come ou'.

Nettleman refused, and the robbers threatened to blow up the car. He then came out. Waen the door was opened the four men entered. They secured the contents of the local safe, amounting to about $50, and then went at the big safe, which contained considerable money. Since the Kendalville robbery the express company has supplied its cars with dynamite-proof safes, and this safe stood the test of four dynamite cartridges fired by the robbers. This discouraged them, and they jumped from the train and disappeared.

James P. Stark, a clerk in Superintendent Johnson's office on the Lake Shore Road, was on the train at the time of the robbery. He was seen at his home, and gave the fol. lowing account of the robbery: "I think it must have been about 1 o'clock when it happened. I was sleeping in the smoking car at the time, and was awakened by hearing several shots as the train came to a standstill. The conductor said that the train was being held up. I did not go outside to investigate, being satisfied from what I heard that sometuing was going on. Soon after hearing the shots I heard four explosons of dynamite, and then all was still and soon the train pulled out for Stryker, where we arrived at 1:20. I went into the expres s car afterward and the messenger said he saw only four men. The robbers did not make an attempt to get into the passenger coaches. When the robbers left the express oar one of them shook hands with the messenger and apologized for putting him to se much trouble."

KENTUCKY'S WAVE OF CRIME.

Four Brutal Murders in the State in Twentyfour Hours.

It seems as though the mountaineers around Sergen have had murder in their hearts for the past twenty-four hours. For ten days the wildcat distilleries have been running in ful blast. At Quicksand Fr.day afternoon Dick Oliver stabted Sam Fitzpat" rick to death. They were at a dance, and whiskey flowed freely. It seems that Oliver captured one of the young ladies from Fitz. patrick. Oliver drank because of his conquest, and Fitzpatrick drank because of his defeat. About the time both became thoroughly drunk they met in the ballroom. There were but few words. Oliver drew a dirk from his bosom and stabbed Fitzpatrick, who died on the ballroom floor in ten minntes. Oliver escaped, and is now hiding somewhere in the mountains. A large posse
