

SICKLY PRINCES.

The Heir to Every European Throne is More or Less Diseased.

It is a subject of considerable concern to people in Europe that a number of the heirs-presumptive to the thrones of the old world should, just at the present moment, be in such a condition of health as to give rise to the most serious anxiety.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand, of Austria, is in a very critical state with disease of the lungs, so much so that he has been given unlimited leave of absence from the army and is under medical treatment in a remote health resort in the Tyrol.

The heir to the grand duke of Baden is consumptive and has long been married to a childless wife, without the slightest prospect of an heir.

No one would dream of describing the Prince of Wales as a healthy man, while his son, the Duke of York, has never entirely recovered from the effects of the typhoid fever with which he was laid low just about the time of the death of his elder brother.

A recruit, wishing to evade service, was brought up for medical inspection, and the doctor asked him: "Have you any defects?"

"Yes, sir; I am short sighted."

"How can you prove it?"

"Easily enough, doctor. Do you see that nail up yonder in the wall?"

"Yes."

"Well, I don't."

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

The Eminent Washington Divine's Sunday Sermon.

Subject: "David and Absalom."

Text: "Is the young man Absalom safe?"—II Samuel xviii, 29.

The heart of David, the father, was wrapped up in his boy Absalom. He was a splendid boy, judged by the rules of worldly criticism. From the crown of his head to the sole of his foot, there was not a single blemish.

The two great questions were to be decided—the safety of his boy and the continuance of the throne of Israel. After a while a servant, standing on the top of the house, looks off and sees some one running.

My friends, the question which David, the king, asked in regard to his son is the question that recurs to-day in the hearts of hundreds of parents. Yes, there are a great many of you young men who know that the question of the text is appropriate when asked in regard to them.

Another safeguard is a respect for the Sabbath. Tell me, dear friends, what are your prospects in business, and I will tell you what are his prospects for the eternal world.

There is another safeguard that I want to present. I have saved it until the last because I want it to be the more emphatic. It is the safeguard for every young man of the Christian religion.

Now, what are the safeguards of young men? The first safeguard of which I want to speak is a love of home. There are those who have no idea of the pleasure that concentrate around that word "home."

Now, let me say that I never knew a man who was so faithful to his early adopted home who was given over at the same time to any gross form of wickedness.

Now, let me say that I never knew a man who was so faithful to his early adopted home who was given over at the same time to any gross form of wickedness.

ashamed. I should not wonder if that man died a dishonorable death and was tumbled into a dishonorable grave and then went into a burning of teeth.

Of young men, you must have industry of head or hand or foot, or perchance. Do not have the idea that you can get along in the world by being idle.

CRALLO MANOR HOUSE.

Supposed to be the Oldest Dwelling in This Country.

Contrary to general expectation, says the New York Times, the famous Crailo manor house is not to be demolished. This will be extremely interesting news to many people throughout the United States.

The building was erected in 1642 as a manor house and place of defense, and was known as Fort Crailo. It was General Abercrombie's headquarters while that doughty warrior was marching to attack Fort Ticonderoga.

The building is a two-story and attic brick structure of most substantial construction. The walls are of great thickness, and are still pierced with two of the nine stone loopholes which once commanded the approaches.

She Was Cautious.

Here is an example of a woman as a diplomatist. Mrs. A. had gone away from home for a day's visit. During her absence her fellow townsman, Mrs. B., decided, after the pleasant, rural, self-inviting fashion, that she would spend the night with Mrs. A.

In spite of Mrs. A.'s absence the thing was easy to accomplish, for the latekeys of the two houses were alike. Mrs. B. therefore effected an entrance, and found the house deserted.

"Oh, well, I'll just wait till Mrs. A. gets home," she said to herself. Night came. Still no Mrs. A. "I won't light a lamp," philosophized Mrs. B., "because seeing a light in the house might scare Mrs. A. clear out of her senses."

She Got Back the Ring.

All the romances that sprang from our civil war will never be told, and yet many of them are well worth the telling. A charming little story comes from the South.

Mrs. Lewis, wife of the general of that name, chief of the installation department of the Atlanta Exposition, is the heroine. She was married just at the outbreak of the war, and when her husband left for the fight she gave him a gold ring, which had an opening that contained a lock of her hair.

In one of the battles of the Wilderness Gen. Lewis received a bullet in his arm, which was amputated in the field hospital. A friend remembered that the general had always worn the ring upon the hand of the amputated arm and went back to the hospital to search for the missing member.

When he discovered it at length he drew the ring from the finger and sent it to Mrs. Lewis, who wears it as proudly and reverently as her wedding ring.
