ESHERITES IN POSSESSION.

The United Evangelicals Give Up Their Church

The bitter controversy between the Esherite and Lubbsite factions of the Evangelical church, has been transferred to Centre Hall, and demands have been made upon the congregation at this place to give up the church property.

The congregation here is unanimous in their support of Bishop Dubbs, and there was not one Esherite in the church. In other congregations under the charge of Rev. Goodling, the pastor, there are supporters of Bishop Esher in the church controversy.

At Tusseyville the Dubbs faction gave up the church property and erected a new building. The congregations at Linden Hall, Centre Hall and Egg Hill, are largely in majority, and an effort was made to purchase the property, which the Supreme court decided belonged to the Esherites.

On Sunday evening a week ago, the Centre Hall congregation held their last service in the building, and gave up the property to the owners technically.

The congregation at Linden Hall worship in the school building, while at Egg Hill the property cannot be claimed by the Esherites.

The Methodist church has been rented by the Centre Hall congregation and their services will be held in that edifice until arrangements can be made for the future.

Until the completion of their new building the Reformed congregation has been worshipping in the Evangelical church. They will seek quarters elsewhere, and the building will stand empty for the time being.

Recent Deaths. There were several deaths in Gregg and Penn townships since our last issue, namely:

Mr. Bressler, of west of Millheim, died last week; he was born, lived and died in the same house, aged about 72 years.

Daniel Bartges, an old and respected citizen of Gregg, aged about 75, died week before last.

John Kern, of near Millheim, died a short time ago, aged about 60 years.

Henry Weiser, an old and much respected citizen of Millheim, died last Friday night, after an all-summer's illness.

MARRIED ON TUESDAY.

Miss Annie Harpster and Dr. G. W. Widder United in Wedlock.

Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock, the marriage ceremony was performed which united in the bonds of wedlock, Dr. G. W. Widder and Miss Annie Harpster. The event took place at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. Jerry Miller, on Church street, and only the immediate friends and relatives were present.

Rev. W. E. Fischer, of Shamokin, Pa., officiated in the ceremony. An excellent collation was served the guests by Mrs. Miller, and the time was passed most pleasantly. Mr. and Mrs. Widder departed on the 3.01 train on a short trip east.

The groom is a practicing physician in Harrisburg, Pa., and has a large practice. The bride is a native of this place, but about three or four years ago removed to Missoula, Montana, but has been visiting here for several months past.

Mr. and Mrs. Widder will take up their residence in Harrisburg at once, which city will be made their future home.

RAVEN GETS $3,000.

The Turnpike Company Makes a Compromise and Pays the Costs.

For receiving a broken leg in a runaway on the Millheim turnpike, Isaac W. Raven has just compromised with the company and been paid $3,000 and all costs. Raven's case was tried twice in the lower court and heard before the supreme court, and in all three he got a verdict of $5,000. This amount the Turnpike company believed to be exorbitant and refused to pay. The result was the turnpike was put up for sale by the sheriff, but on the day of sale there were no bidders save Raven himself, and as he could not utilize the turnpike to advantage, he refused to buy. Then the company offered him the alternative of accepting $3,000 and costs or getting the amount of his verdict as best he could. Raven accepted the former and the case has thus been settled.

Queer Kind of Cancer.

A Clearfield county farmer has a cow that was afflicted with cancer of the jaw, quite a lump being noticed, and the cow was regularly milked but the cow having the cancer the milk was thrown away. The farmer concluded to send for a bovine physician and relieve the cow. The surgeon arrived on the ground and after lassoing and binding the critter the cancer was removed which was nothing more nor less than a china nest egg that had lodged between the jaw bone and skin and the cow was unable to move it. The cow is still living and the farmer now uses the milk but he does not like to have any one refer to cancer in cows.

Had but Two Landlords in 100 Years.

Northumberland county has a landmark to which is attached not a little interest in the existence of a hotel the names of whose landlords have been the same for 100 years. William Farrow's wife, nee Charity Rockefeller, in 1796 inherited from her father's estate a little frame tavern in Snyderstown. Her husband became the landlord the same year, and ministered to the wants of the weary and footsore traveler for sixty years. At his death the present landlord, William Farrow, came into possession of the place. The same cannot be said of any other hostelry in the state.

Died at State College.

After an illness of about three weeks Mrs. Foster, the wife of Capt. Robert Foster, died at her home at State College at four o'clock Friday morning. The deceased was aged about sixty-five years and had only been sick about three weeks when she died. She contracted an attack of grip and later was stricken down with paralysis. The funeral was held on Sunday and largely attended by the many friends of the deceased.

Quietly Married.

Mr. Robert Goodling and Miss Jennie Goodling, both of York, Pa., are the guests of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Goodling, at the Evangelical parsonage at Centre Hall since the 24th of Dec. They were quietly married on the evening of the 24th, by the pastor. The bride is a niece of the pastor and only child of his older brother.

Death of Dr. Woods.

Last Thursday Dr. Woods died at his home in Boalsburg, aged thirty years, and was interred on Saturday in the cemetery at that place. He removed to Boalsburg within the last year from Ohio, but owing to bad health was scarcely able to practice medicine within the last few months. His illness was a long one, suffering from consumption.

took Laudanum.

In Bellefonte a few days ago John Miller, aged thirty-one, despondent over his wife leaving him, swallowed laudanum with suicidal intent. The necessary antidotes were given and he soon recovered.

BARN BURNED.

W. K. Alexander's Barn with the Entire Crop Burned.

On last Sunday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, the barn on the farm of Wm. K. Alexander, about 1 mile south of Linden Hall, was destroyed by fire with all last summer's crop. When the fire was first discovered by Mr. Kline's family, who live on the premises and do the farm work for the actual renter, John Cummings, who occupies an adjoining farm, the flames had already spread over the inside of the barn, from which it might appear that the fire started on the inside; another report says, the fire started at the straw stack.

All last summer's crop, was burned, wheat, rye, oats, corn, and hay. There were 30 tons of baled hay and 1600 bushels of corn in the ear. Wagons and all implements were burned. The live stock was saved. There is no certainty about the origin of fire. Parties report they had seen children playing about the barn shortly before the fire. Perhaps matches in their hands or fire from cigarettes may have been the cause of the fire.

The crop belonged to Mr. Cummings who had the farm on a money rent. There is said to be $1800 insurance, but we did not learn whether it belonged to Mr. Alexander on the barn, or to Mr. Cummings on the crop, or to both. No insurance in the Centre Hall company. The insurance is on is on Cummings' crop.

Editor Williams Dead.

Last Sunday Harry C. Williams, the popular editor of the Phillipsburg Ledger, died, having succumbed to that fatal disease typhoid pneumonia. He had been ill but a short time and was thought to be convalescing. The deceased was a lifelong resident of Phillipsburg, being head book keeper for D. W. Holt & Co. In 1884 he, with John Douglas started the Ledger. Ever since that date he has devoted his entire time and energy to making it one of the best journals in that region. Kind, courteous and full of life, Harry Williams was a popular favorite among a wide circle of friends and his sad death will be widely mourned. In his demise Phillipsburg loses one of her most energetic citizens and his family an affectionate son, brother and father. He was a widower, his wife preceded him to the other world several years ago. His father, mother, sister and one daughter survive him.

Accident to Ex-treasurer Granly.

On last Saturday afternoon J. J. Granly met with a painful accident that might have been still more serious. While driving on the steep road near Valentine's residence, on the south side of Bellefonte, his horse took fright and ran off. Mr. Granly was thrown out of his vehicle and received some serious cuts and bruises (ver different parts of his person and made a narrow escape with his life. The frantic horse, in jumping over a fence sustained severe injuries, by having large splinters from a broken spruce rail penetrating its body which is likely to ruin the animal even if it does not die from the injuries.

Dubites Make Purchases.

The question of the disposition of the Evangelical church property in this part of the state has been amicably arranged by the Dubites becoming purchasers of all the desirable churches and parsonages paying part cash for the same and giving bonds for the balance. The settlement being satisfactory to the Esherites, the case will not get into the courts.

THE GLOBE.

DRY GOODS AND MILLINERY

CLEANING UP SALE OF ALL WINTER GOODS!

The policy of The Globe is to carry over no goods from one season to another, if prices will move them.

We inaugurated this policy last July when we made such low prices on our summer goods that we sold every dollar's worth of, strictly speaking, summer goods before Sept. 1st.

We follow the same rule with our Winter stock.

We have had a good trade all this Fall, and now are ready to give the people some great bargains on what we have left.

ALL OUR WINTER STOCK WILL BE SOLD AT A DISCOUNT OF 25 PER CENT. FROM FORMER PRICES.

- Dress Goods one-quarter off.
Blankets one quarter off.
Cloaks and Wraps one quarter off.
Flannels one quarter off.
Overcoats one quarter off.
