QUAY for President seems like a joke, yet there have been far worse men in office than Matt Quay, and he's no disgrace to the party.

The Republican state convention at Harrisburg last Thursday once more demonstrated that Quay is the man at the head of the machine.

CENTRE COUNTY'S delegates to the Republican convention voted straight for McKinley. "Our Dan" has turned Quay, and his county went for McKinley. Have the Republicans of Centre deserted the Governor?

The contest among the candidates for office waxed warm as the date for the primaries draws near. There is most excellent material in the field and a good and sound ticket should be placed before the people.

It is enough to make the cold chills run down the back to consider that notwithstanding the Quay craze at Harrisburg, in not one congressional district, county or election precinct of the United States has a sound been heard that Quay be made a Presidential candidate.

THE anti-Quay element in the state is daily growing, and the most recent desertion is Jack Robinson. He has joined the combine. This doughty leader did not hesitate to make a number of nasty flings at the Senator at the state convention. It is the Combine's intention to put Quay in a hole and keep him there until it freezes over.

BUSINESS is in a most healthy state all over the country. New industries are starting up and from everywhere is heard of the raise in wages. This the Republicans claim credit for under a Democratic administration. Yet they did not lay claim to their property in the panic they handed over as they went out of power.

THE Republican leaders all over the country are trying to down McKinley. Already he has more instructed delegates than any other candidate, yet never he wins on the first ballot, he'll unless get the nomination.

SINCE Congress with its overwhelming Republican majority will do nothing to interfere with the Wilson tariff, it is an admission that the Democratic tariff is a wise measure and should not be disturbed. The prosperity of the country under the Wilson bill proves that the Democratic position upon the tariff is a sound one.

TAXPAYERS should bear in mind that the last session of the Pennsylvania legislature was the most reckless and extravagant that ever sat in any state in the Union, not excepting the carpet-bag legislatures that sat in the southern states in the days of the reconstruction. Voters you don't want any more such.

ONE of the strongest arguments that has been advanced in behalf of the Wilson tariff is the statement of President Roberts of the Pennsylvania railroad. He says: "Protection can wait and wait a long time, too. Whether or not the Wilson bill is bad whether or not the McKinley bill is good, the business world does not want to see the tariff question opened up again for years. We want less tariff and more rest."

QUAY'S BATTLE UP TO DATE.

Senator Quay's Presidential boom is now fairly launched by his great State, and with a degree of unanimity that is quite equal to the unanimity given to any of the other prominent Presidential candidates by his own State. The opposition to McKinley in Ohio is ten fold more dangerous, although less demonstrative than is the opposition to Quay in Pennsylvania, and the opposition to Morton in New York and to Reed in his New England region is much more formidable than the anti-Quay sentiment of Pennsylvania remarks the Philadelphia Times.

Senator Quay will enter the St. Louis Convention with the solid vote of his State, excepting only one district in Pittsburg. There is little doubt that the Philadelphia delegation will be solid for him, including Martin and his colleague. However indifferent they may be to Quay's success, political necessities at home will be likely to make Martin and Hackett line up with the other Philadelphians in support of Quay. Magee and his colleague in one of the Allegheny districts will vote against Quay and resolutely oppose everything that is in his interest. Beyond that defection the State will be united for the Pennsylvania Senate, although there will be half a dozen others of the delegation who would take early occasion to skip to McKinley if they could thereby win.

Pennsylvania has had but one President since the organization of the government. James Buchanan was elected in 1856, and he was nominated against a very powerful element in the State that preferred George M. Dallas. Senator Cameron was formally presented as a candidate in the Republican Convention of 1860, but it was not a serious effort, and he was withdrawn after the first ballot. Again in 1876 Governor Hartranft was presented as a candidate, but the movement was well understood as an effort to defeat Blaine rather than to nominate Hartranft. The presentation of the name of Senator Quay differs from the declarations in favor of Cameron and Hartranft in the important fact that he is a candidate in dead earnest, and will fight the battle to a finish. He and his friends believe that his nomination is more than possible, and with that inspiration there will be a united and earnest effort to give him success.

The first battle in the St. Louis Convention will be to unhorse McKinley, who is confessedly the leading man. Two months ago his nomination seemed to be inevitable, but between disreputable complications with Southern delegates and the cowardly money straddle adopted by the Ohio Convention that nominated him, his defeat appears to be reasonably certain. His positive strength is likely to be about one-third of the whole convention, and it is doubtful whether he can ever exceed it. If not nominated on the first ballot his cause is likely to be a hopeless one, as the field is solid, aggressive and to some extent vindictive against him.

If McKinley's lines shall be broken the choice would be narrowed down to Reed, Morton, Quay and Allison. It is understood that they and their friends are thoroughly united to defeat McKinley, and they will be aided by Collum, of Illinois; Davis, of Minnesota; Manderson, of Nebraska; Bradley, of Kentucky, and Elkins, of West Virginia, all of whom have been cherishing Presidential aspirations. Of the field candidates Quay, Reed, Morton and Allison are likely to be pretty nearly even in strength, and the choice of the candidate, with McKinley defeated, would depend upon the agreement between the prominent field candidates. The necessities of the situation will compel unity between these leaders, as a break in their lines would surely nominate McKinley, and it is reasonable to assume that the field will be thoroughly united upon some one candidate.

Senator Quay is known to be a favorite with the leading men who are backing Reed, Morton and Allison, and he is certainly as unobjectionable to the competing field candidates as many other of the circle. There is quite as much likelihood of the field agreeing upon Quay as there is of such agreement upon either Reed, Morton or Allison, and it is not without reason, therefore, that he and his friends count upon his contest for the nomination as quite a hopeful one. Certainly his nomination is possible, and with Quay's heroic leadership his closest friends regard his success as probable.

For the first time in the history of the present political parties the Republicans have no need to consider either special availability or the claims of locality to control doubtful States in a Presidential contest. The nominee of the St. Louis Convention will be elected by the people unless some entirely unexpected political revulsion shall arise. The party leaders feel entirely confident that in nominating a candidate for President at St. Louis they will thereby choose the next President of the United States, and the candidate will therefore be the choice of the delegates rather than dictated by any political necessities. All who view the field intelligently and dispassionately must reach the conclusion that Senator Quay is not only an earnest, but altogether a hopeful candidate for the Presidency.

PORT MATILDA, PA.

To the Democratic voters of Centre Co. GENTLEMEN:—For the best interests of the Democratic party, I have concluded to withdraw from the contest as a candidate for the office of County Commissioner. I sincerely thank all my friends for what they have done in my behalf and ask to be no longer considered a candidate for the nomination at our Convention in June.

Yours in Democracy, G. R. WILLIAMS.

SPRING MILLS.

The Telephone Line Expected to be in Operation by Autumn.

We had a fair sprinkling of candidates last week. I noticed that D. C. Gingerich, of College township, Republican candidate for the nomination for sheriff was here again—any trouble in the camp? So was Cronister, of Worth, Democratic candidate for the same nomination, George Boal, of Potter, Republican candidate for the nomination for treasurer was also here on Wednesday last, but not politically, he remarked that this was Long's "empire" so hands off. Mr. Boal is very highly spoken of. Frank Foreman, of Centre Hall, Democratic candidate for the nomination for recorder, likewise made us a visit. Mr. F. rates very well in this neighborhood and has quite a large number of friends down the valley. Noll, of Bellefonte, Democratic candidate for the nomination for sheriff was also in our village, visiting his old friends and seeking new ones. The political children will soon begin to boil and bubble, and then look out for trouble.

Shook & Bro., of our village, are erecting a henery here 120x16 feet, also a private residence.

C. C. Barges has moved his printing office to a fine front room, with plenty of light, on the ground floor of the Grange hall. Mr. B. has everything appertaining to a first-class printing office and is now prepared to execute all kinds of job printing at short notice.

Trout fishing so far has not been very successful. Quite a number have been angling for the beauties, but generally returned with a very beggarly account, frequently none, sometimes two or three and those were just about sufficiently large to avoid a penalty.

A representative of the Millheim telephone company was here on Saturday last, no doubt our people will take stock in the new enterprise. It is the intention of the company to have the line in full operation through to Bellefonte by autumn.

Well Satisfied with Ayer's Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray. I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, and was so well satisfied with the results that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It requires only an occasional application of Hair Vigor to keep my hair of good color, to remove dandruff, to heal itching humors, and prevent the hair from falling out. I never hesitate to recommend Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAYDEN, Avoca, Nebr.

AYER'S

C. P. Long the active merchant of our village, has just returned from Philadelphia, where he has been for several days purchasing his usual spring and summer stock. He reports business in the city quite lively.

W. R. From, formerly of the milling firm of Allison Bro. & Co., of our village, will be engaged with Jackson at Bellefonte, on May 1st. We are very sorry to see Mr. From leave, he is a good citizen and a sound Democrat.

I am informed that Mrs. James N. Leitzell, of our village, is detained in Philadelphia, owing to the illness of her son. He is a medical student attending Jefferson College in that city.

Quite a number of our people are making garden; it seems a little early. Last year they did the same thing only a trifle later, and yet Jack frost compelled them all to do their work over again.

Sheriff Condo made us a flying visit on Friday last; not on any special business however, but as he remarked, "only to have a big sauer kraut dinner with his brother."

Business in our town just now is a trifle sluggish, owing to our farmers being busy on their lands, etc., from early morn 'til dewy eve.

KIDNEY TROUBLE CURED

The importance of knowing just what to do when one is afflicted with kidney disease or troubles of a urinary nature, is best answered by the following letter which was recently published in the Poughkeepsie, N. Y. News Press:

MILLERTON, Dutchess Co., N. Y. "Dr. David Kennedy, Dear Sir:—For more than eighteen months I was so badly afflicted with kidney trouble I could scarcely walk a quarter of a mile without almost fainting. I did not gain any until I began to use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. After using the first bottle I noticed a decided improvement which continued, and I know that saved my life, for I was in a miserable condition up to the time I began to take it—my friends thought I would never be better. My sister also has been very sick with bladder trouble for over a year, so bad that quantities of blood would come from her. She suffered at times most frightful pain, and nothing seemed to help her until she began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. She is now using her third bottle, and is like a different person. MRS. THOMAS DYE."
