CENTRE HALL, PA., THURS. Nov. 12

To the victors belong the spoils.

In six months after McKinly's inauguration one-fifth of the fellows who office under him.

OUR esteemed young friend, Frank Hess, of Philipsburg, candidate for Auditor, received a handsome vote in every ward of his town which shows what his neighbors think of him.

THE prohibition vote in this county has been standing at about the same figures for the past twenty years, and on Tuesday 3, they polled even less, 246. The Magnet don't attract.

IF Democrats in other districts had stood by Frank Kister as did his neighbors of Millheim and Penn, he would have been elected as one of the Auditors, which he deserved.

IF other sections of the county had stood by the treasurer candidate, Weaver, as this side did, he would have been elected. But the abominable trading and scratching got in its work.

Nor a county not a single electoral vote in the United States came within ten thousand miles of being carried by McKinley's Palmer Aid Society. This Aid Society can easily find room in a "W" box to hold a national convention.

THE Repubs of our county are more calm than jolly-they seem to fear the "advance agent of prosperity" may not be able to fulfill the big promises. The Democrats, on the other hand, are not gloomy when they see the fine run Bryan made.

THE lively Howard Hornet is mad at some of the Republicans for trading at the late election and says they will be marked. Right, put your stinger into 'em again. Where there is a trader in your party there will always be have them around here.

In Utah Mrs. Mattie Cannon was elected a state senator, last week. Her opponent was her own husband, nominated and running for the same office, his better half came out best. We had a parallel case in Bellefonte, some years ago, when Mrs. Harris, Dem., defeated her husband, John P. Harris, Rep., for school director.

THE number of votes cast at the late presidential election is about 13,000,000 of which McKinley received nearly seven to Bryan's six. That is a very close shave, considering that the money power was all against Bryan besides a bolting Palmer circus. The Democracy is still a mighty big party. It stood 6 to 61.

IF you read the great Republican dailies of last week you find them telling of great rejoicing in England over McKinley's election. Just what the silver advocates said, England would rejoice over Bryan's defeat that would be a big thing for their bankers and money sharks at the expense of the United States.

Republican organs, the election being over, are now admitting that Bryan is a great and able man and that he conducted the ablest campaign the world ever saw. Yes, and if 26,000 votes could have been distributed in nine of the close states counted for Mc-Kinley, Bryan would have been elected. It was a mighty close shave and proves the popularity of Bryan. Out of 13 million voters Bryan had 6 to 62 for his opponent.

WILL some intelligent Republican please inform us what measures their new President will adopt to give the promised unexampled prosperity? It can't be by means of a gold standard as we had that since 1873, and all are aware things only went to the bad since. It can't be by a protective tariff as we had the McKinley tariff, and three times in succession, by overwhelming majorities the people condemned tian woman and a member of the it! Then what?

"Stocks Going Up," "Stock Speculations Lively as a Result of McKinly's Election," these were the headings paraded by the gold organs right after the election. And it was the truth.

But what the deuce do the farmers and workingmen care about stocks and stock speculations, they don't deal in stocks, but they looked for a prom-

Pennsvalley Democrats got nothing in last week's election, but she GAVE 1100 majority and saved a good part of the ticket. This Democratic stronghold has it in its power to enforce better treatment by marking those who stratch and kick without good cause. There are Democrats on the other side of the county who are always true, noble and manful in fighting for the triumph of the party-all honor to them, they deserve the rewards that are too often bestowed upon the unfaithful.

Where were the grangers and farmers in last week's election? It was distinctively their cause that Bryan so heroically championed. In the granges for years the wail has justly been that the trusts, corporations and banks voted for McKinly will denounce him were running the country to the great as a fraud because they failed to get an detriment of the farmers. Now why didn't these farmers vote as they have talked? There were some honorable exceptions of consistency, but thousands of grangers, astonishing to tell, voted against their own professions and directly in favor of the stock speculators, trusts and banks. These men should never again talk about the suffering farmer after voting themselves still deeper into the mire. They had every chance to win their cause.

> An active and prominent Bellefonte Democrat, in a letter on the result in our county says that to the REPORTER "is owing the election of Foster and Schofield, by the unanswerable manner in which the reliable old Democratic organ gave the data of Curtin and Womelsdorf's votes to squander the people's money on new offices and making salaries higher.'

> Thanks for the compliment. The REPORTER always is found in the hottest of the fight, and this side of the county, where this journal is so largely read, always rolls up the majorities that elect Democrats, yet we over here often get poor thanks for the good work done and without which the county would long ago have been captured by the Republicans. Yet a few have made desperate, but ineffectual, efforts, to break down this paper because it would not wink at the work of traders and disorganizers in cahoot with Republicans.

Ingratitude! it is one of the mean shortcomings only found in those devoid of honor. A case strictly in point might be cited, that of a sheriff and his attorney, in which his party organs, to his approbation and delight freely advocated his election and defended him against the attacks of the opposition organs, then when the victory is won and he has patronage to a pretended Democrat in cahoot-we give, to go back on his own papers and feed the organs that smote him, is a case of ingratitude so rare that its like is not found in this or any other county. Then couple with that a dozen violations of promises, verbal and written, to do the fair thing, and you have a sample of basest ingratitude. When candidates on the same ticket have majorities running up close to 900, and the sheriff nominee gets only 256, on the charges that he lacked the qualities of being a man, all which we did not then believe, when reputable citizens assured us we would find him so, we admit now, that we found him so, and the only thing that saved him from total defeat was the defense made for him by the papers who only found in him ingratitude and large favoritism in quarters less deserving. Such men are what put a party into the ruts. Some have the idea, that Penns valley Democrats for their big, party saving majorities, should be satisfied with few offices and little patronage! Talk of a Contest.

Owing to the close vote on Sheriff between Cronister and Miller, there is some talk rife of the Republicans making a contest on this office. They claim irregularities in the vote of East Gregg township, and also in one preeinct ih Snow Shoe, and expect by making a contest to throw out enough votes to give Miller the office. Should it come to a contest there is just as much likelihood of finding as many illegal votes for one candidate as for the other, and the Democrats are not worrying themselves over the result. The county would be compelled to pay the expenses incurred and taxyayers would have a nice bill saddled on them by such a move. The law allows thirty days after the election in which a petition for a contest must be

Death of Mrs. Sharer of Zion

Mrs. Jemima Sharer, widow of David Sharer, died at Zion Wednesday morning of cancer. She was 64 years old and had been ailing for some time. Mrs. Sharer was an exemplary Chris-Evangelical church.
