"Why, Mr. Spigelmyer, ain't this just lovely?"

"Quite an improvement. Oh, my! but this is nice."

"We believe we made a mistake and got into John Wanamaker's."

"China Annex! That puts me in mind of the World's Fair."

"You are certainly making a hit on China and Lamps."

"I think this is the nicest part of the store. I could spend a half a day here."

"You never saw such nice things. It's certainly a show."

$1.00 WHEAT

Is almost a certainty now.

Its good for the farmers, if they have any to sell, but hard on the ones that must buy flour. If wheat has advanced, merchandise has not, and a dollar will go even farther now than a short time ago.

We are cutting prices closer than ever, giving you the benefit in every way we can.

Hunting Notes.

The mountains are full of hunters after deer, and the luck in bringing down the game is not such that there will be very much bragging done over it for years to come. Will Rearick, Mike Grove, Dave Sweetwood, and a lot more whom we cannot recall, were out all last week, and saw several deer but got none.

The Millheim hunting party went into the Bear Meadows last week for an extended stay.

The Bradford hunting party from hereabouts will go to Stone Creek next week after deer. It takes ten days to two weeks for this party to get enough of the woods.

Last Friday Mervin Arney, Charley Arney, John Van Pelt, Fred Kurtz, Jr., and Jim Sandoe drove up to the barrens north of State College after small game. They returned with twelve rabbits for a day's sport. The party were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Musser, who live within two miles of Fillmore, and they were most royally entertained. Excellent care was taken of the party by Mr. and Mrs. Musser, and nothing was left undone that was for their comfort. There is an abundance of small game in that territory.

MARRIED IN ALTOONA.

Rev. W. Gibb, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Irvana, and Miss Minnie Elizabeth Hoy, sister of Dr. Hoy, of Altoona, were married Wednesday evening at the residence of Dr. Hoy, Rev. S. H. Matters, of Bellefonte, officiating. Thirty guests, comprising relatives and near friends were present. Prof. W. T. Meyer, of Bellefonte, cousin of the bride, rendered the Lohengrin wedding march. After spending two weeks in the east Rev. and Mrs. Gibb will reside in Irvana.

POMONA GRANGE.

Pomona Grange of the county was in session here on Tuesday in the hall in the school building. A number of prominent Grangers from all over the county were in attendance.

Late Union Co. Deaths.

In Snyder county, wife of Samuel Bilger, aged 58 years. In Shamokin, Daniel Reish, formerly of Swengel, 61 age. In Kelly tp., Aaron Weary, aged 61 years. At Baltimore, wife of Rev. U. F. Swengel, aged 48 years.

BROKE HIS THIGH.

Edwin M. Kerlin Meets With a Serious Accident at Lemont.

Edwin M. Kerlin, who has been teaching school at Lemont, while playing with some of his scholars and other young people in front of Lukens' store at that place, on last Friday evening, slipped or stepped into a drain at the side of the street and fractured his left leg about nine inches above the knee. Dr. Dale was summoned at once and put the limb in proper shape to have him taken to the home of his parents at Centre Hall.

To bring Edwin home, Mr. Weaver, the section foreman kindly granted the use of the hand car and truck, and a number of Edwin's friends went along to furnish the power. A lounge was placed on the truck and in this way he made the trip.

His injured leg has been set in plaster paris and Edwin is getting along nicely.

His father, A. S. Kerlin desires to publicly express his thanks to all the kind friends who were so earnestly interested in his son's comfort and welfare—acts of kindness long to be remembered by the unfortunate young man as well as the family.

Prof. W. A. Krise has consented to assume Edwin's duties with the school at Lemont until he recovers sufficiently to take charge again.

Died at the Asylum.

Daniel Fauber, an inmate of the insane asylum at Danville, died last Sunday, and his remains were brought to Centre Hall on Monday evening, and interred on Tuesday morning in the cemetery. He was aged about 51 years. For thirty years he was insane and for the last five or six years had been confined in the asylum at Danville. When a boy, and not being of a strong mind, the excitement of the last civil war was mainly attributed to his losing his mind. He became violent and it was necessary to confine him in a strong building. His father lived on the western edge of the borough and for nearly twenty-five years looked after the wants of his son. The furniture in his room was heavy, and fastened to the floor so that he could not break it up. At times he would become so violent that it would require the assistance of several men to handle him. After the death of his parents he was taken to the asylum.

Jacksonian Literature.

We were pleased to have a copy of a small pamphlet entitled, "Historical Narrative of the Money Fight between Prest. Andrew Jackson and the U. S. Bank," thro the kindness of our old and esteemed friend, Hon. Charles H. Shreiner, of Chicago, now visiting old home and friends at Millinburg. All Penn's valley people remember Charly Shreiner, as he was familiarly called, and the stirring Democratic speeches he made in this county over a generation ago. The pamphlet is a true history of what its title expresses, and no one was better qualified to be its author than Maj. Shreiner. The facts contained in the pamphlet prove that history repeats itself, and the repetition came in the recent presidential campaign when the money power took a bold stand against the people.

Expect an Active Winter.

Reports from the lumbering districts of Centre, Clearfield, Cambria, Elk and Cameron counties are in effect that the coming winter season, if it is at all favorable, will witness far greater activity in the lumbering regions than has been known for the past ten years. Though much of the territory in this locality has been cut over, there is still considerable excellent timber standing and lumbering is quite profitable.

Everything Ready.

The new Reformed church is completed and ready for the dedicatory services next Sunday morning. The dedication will bring many people into town from other parts. Exercises will be held in the edifice in the morning, afternoon and evening.

Another New Crossing.

The town council has put down a new crossing of vitrified brick across the street between the bank building and the Lutheran church. The borough has expended a big sum of money this year and when the next statement is published we'll guarantee a first-class howl from the tax-payers.

Dedicatory Service.

Trinity Reformed church at Centre Hall, Pa., will be dedicated next Sunday, November 29th. Service at 10 a. m.; sermon by Rev. J. W. Bowman, D. D.; Sunday school service at 2.30 p. m.; Evening service at 7 o'clock.

An Editor's Wife Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Meginess, wife of W. W. Meginess, editor of the Gazette and Bulletin, died in Williamsport last Thursday morning of peritonitis, aged 33 years. Her husband and three children survive.

Rev. Rearick's Appointments.

Lutheran services at Spring Mills, next Sunday, at 10 a. m.; at Tusseyville at 2.30 p. m., instead of 7 p. m. No services at Centre Hall.

J. M. Rearick, Pastor.

THE GREAT WAR GOVERNOR.

Model of the Statue of Andrew Gregg Curtin on Exhibition.

Pennsylvania's War Governor, Andrew Gregg Curtin, stands true to life but done in plaster by the cunning hand of Sculptor Charles H. Nilhaue, in Earl's galleries, in Philadelphia, where the model will remain on exhibition for some days to come. The figure thus exhibited is to be cast in bronze and in years to come will adorn the natal place of Governor Curtin at Bellefonte.

Sculptor Nilhaue in modeling his subject has overcome a great difficulty for those who seek to treat artistically the stiff cut of modern raiment; he has modeled a man in the conventional attire of the nineteenth century and yet used the frock coat as graceful drapery. The figure stands in an easy pose, with the weight of the body resting upon the left leg and the right hand carelessly raised to the breast, grasping a fold of the coat. The right hand is thrust into the trousers pocket, throwing the coat tails to the back and exposing the front of the figure. The base in Ionic style is ornamented with two bas-reliefs—one an allegorical design representing the State caring for the soldiers' orphans; the other a depiction of Curtin presenting the colors to a departing regiment bound for the war. Upon the front of the pedestal is written "Andrew Gregg Curtin, 1815—1894. The Great War Governor of the Union."

When cast the figure will be seven and a half feet in height and the base will have a similar altitude, so that the complete monument will measure fifteen feet from the ground. The statue itself will be of bronze, the pedestal of polished granite; with a broad flat base. The fund to pay for the statue's erection was raised partly by State appropriations, partly by private subscription, and the chairman of the committee having the matter in charge is ex-Governor Beaver.

Died at Milton.

William Ettinger, of whose critical condition from a stroke of paralysis we made mention in our last week's issue, died on last Friday morning. He was a resident of Aaronsburg for a number of years, but moved to Milton some 18 years ago. He was a native of York, Pa. He was a man of correct habits and always abstained from interfering with the affairs of his neighbors. He was a life-long and consistent member of the Lutheran church. A widow, two sons and two daughters, survive to mourn his loss. The sons are Louis and Joel, both highly respected and useful citizens of Milton; the daughters, Joana, wife of Rev. Harris, and Annie, wife of Mr. Negley, a machinist of Milton. He was a brother-in-law of the editor of this paper, and a son of Rev. Daniel Ettinger, one of the pioneers of the Evangelical church and the editor of its first church paper.

Funeral last Monday morning, Rev. Foss officiating. Interment in the Milton cemetery. His age was 71 years, 9 months and 27 days. As last tokens of esteem, the casket of deceased was overlaid with beautiful adornments: The Milton Club contributed a Pillar of roses, carnations, pinks and ferns; from Shimer's works a handsome floral sickle of roses and pinks, and by the widow a beautiful bouquet of yellow roses and pinks; also a sheaf of Italian wheat by Mr. Brower. The departed husband and father leaves not an enemy behind.

Hog Cholera.

From various sources we learn that hog cholera is prevailing in the vicinity of State College and farmers are loosing many fattened hogs from this fatal disease. In this section and in the eastern townships of this side the disease has not yet made its appearance. Some farmers did their butchering early to be safe with their porkers.

A Former Bellefonte Pastor for Chaplain. Rev. Miles O. Noll, pastor of the First Reformed Church, of Carlisle, has announced himself as a candidate for the position of chaplain of the next House of Representatives.

Rev. Noll two years ago was pastor of the Bellefonte Reformed church where he was highly esteemed, and we trust he will reach the position he is so well fitted for.

Good Luck.

The daily News says the hunting party, of which Recorder-elect Cal. Harper, Treasurer John Q. Miles, Joe Reightnour and others were members, returned home Saturday night. They camped back of Port Matilda at Nasan's lumber camp and brought back with them four deer—a buck, doe and two fawns—besides lots of small game.

Keeping Cool.

The applicants for the post-office are keeping cool and do not seem in the least excited. It is several months until the administration changes and the early worry is useless, so they seem to think. No petitions have been circulated but when the time comes they will be plenty enough.

LOTS FOR SALE.

GOES TO BELLEFONTE.

The County Institute Will not be Changed to Phillipsburg.

Co. Supt. Gramley has decided to hold the Teachers' Institute at Bellefonte this year, and Phillipsburg will not get it, as was announced through these columns several weeks ago.

When the statement was made public that Bellefonte was likely to lose this yearly gathering, the people of that town all awoke in surprise and put forth all sorts of arguments why it should not be taken away from there. Such a move was bordering upon an impossibility, thought they, but they have only the faintest idea of how near it was to becoming a reality. The business men at Phillipsburg took the matter in hand, and although late in the day, put forth arguments which came near winning for them the annual conclave. We are safe in saying that next year Bellefonte will lose the institute and it will go to Phillipsburg. The town will give a hall and will make up a fund to pay all excess care fare above that to Bellefonte. The excess care fare to Phillipsburg was what won the institute for Bellefonte. The teachers number three or four hundred and it means the bringing in of several thousand dollars to the business men of the town.

The institute will open on Monday, December 21st, and close on Friday following. Superintendent Gramley has billed good instructors and attractions for the week.
