

Badly Hipiped.
 It is hardly a compliment to say that anyone is "hipped," but anyone is pretty badly hipped who suffers with sialia. It is in the hip that the excruciating pain takes hold and tortures. It is just there where St. Jacobs Oil, with its soothing penetration, has done some of its most remarkable work of cure. Those who suffer thus, therefore, need not despair of cure when this great remedy for pain can be had so readily, and it is known as a sure cure, because to get it and insure cure is perfect riddance of the intense misery. There are a few cases of confirmed sialia, but this remedy which this great remedy has effectually cured and restored the sufferer to a sound condition.

Put a pill in the pulpit if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physis, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness.

The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in cure"—gospel or physic—now-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. There may be power in a pleasant pill. That is the gospel of Felons.

 Felons occur most frequently on the last joint of the fingers or thumb of the right hand. They are localized acute inflammations, resulting from the presence beneath the skin of certain poisonous organisms which have gained admission through a wound. This wound is very likely a scratch or a prick so slight and insignificant that one cannot remember having received it.

The first thing that attracts one's attention is a small reddened and swollen spot, which is painful when touched. In the beginning the inflammation is just beneath the skin, but if not interfered with it frequently works its way deep down below the surface, and burrows along the bone or tendons of the finger.

The superficial felon is the less painful. This is located, as a rule, around and under the finger-nail. It may appear on one or more fingers at the same time or in succession, particularly if the bodily system is debilitated. The inflammation may be slight and subside quickly, but frequently it is more or less severe and results in the formation of a small abscess.

In the case of encased persons the inflammation may cause considerable swelling and intense pain, and result in the loss of a part or the whole of the finger nail.

The deep felon usually starts on the under side of the finger. Within a day or two the finger becomes painful, tense, hot and throbbing. The pain and tension rapidly increase—especially when the hand hangs at the side—and the suffering continues without abatement until an abscess has gathered and its contents have discharged through an opening in the skin.

For a superficial felon nothing is usually required but rest of the affected part, and a cold application. If an abscess has formed, however, hot applications should be applied and the pus completely removed. The application of the tincture of iodine, carbolic acid, or a blister affords little or no relief.

In the deep variety of felon the formation of an abscess is almost certain, and therefore hot applications or poultices should be employed from the beginning.

If at the end of two or three days there is no marked relief the abscess should be opened. The incision should be deep enough to insure the complete evacuation of the contents of the abscess. Immediate relief from all suffering follows the emptying of the abscess, and the wound quickly heals if care is taken to keep it absolutely clean.—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

The Colorado Desert.
 The most famous of waste places in America, the Colorado Desert, is popularly regarded as an empire of hopeless sterility, the silence of which will never be broken by the voices of men. But the great desert is the life work of the Colorado river. The scientific men of the University of Arizona have analyzed these waters, and found that the actual commercial value of the fertilizing matter which was deposited upon each acre by irrigation amounts in the course of a year, to $3.00. What, then, is the potential value of the liquid which this river has created in centuries? The products of the region include oranges and the dates of commerce. The place is more like Syria than any other part of the United States, and the daring imaginations may readily conceive that here a new Damascus will arise, more beautiful than that of old.

With the occupation of the Colorado Desert, and of the great peninsula which adjoins it, a powerful impulse will be given to agriculture, mining and commerce in a vast region now little peopled. One of the inevitable consequences will be the rise of San Diego to the proportions of a large city—probably the largest in the southern part of the coast.—"Our Great Pacific Commonwealth," by William E. Smythe, in the December Century.

Barbarous Practices in England.
 That the barbarous practice of immersing noisy women in ponds or streams was in full swing at the close of the seventeenth century is evident from the "Chamberlain's Roll" for the city of London, issued by the Historical Manuscripts Commission. The ducking stool provided, with the new chair for it, and the apparatus bought for branding felons in the face are the most outrageous entries.

Preserving Meat by Electricity.
 The principle of cataporesis, or the driving of foreign substances into animal tissue by means of electric currents, has been adopted, says the Boston Journal of Commerce, with great success in both medical and dental work. In these capacities it is employed principally in conjunction with cocaine or some other anesthetic for the purpose of rendering the flesh or the tooth to be operated upon insensible to pain. The numbing solution is forced into the tissue, and even into the obdurate sensitive dentine of the tooth, until no sensation whatever is possible for the time being in the region under treatment. A provision merchant or Rio Janiero has suggested an application of this method to the preparation of meat. He prepares the meat to be preserved in a 30 per cent solution of common salt, and passes through the whole a continuous current of electricity. In from ten to twelve hours the salting is said to be complete and the meat taken out of the bath and hung up to dry. Good results were obtained in working a bath of 3000 liters of lime, in which 1000 kilos of meat were immersed; a current of 100 amperas at an electro-motive force of eight volts was used in this bath. The electrodes must be of platinum, since if other materials, such as zinc or iron, were used, the metal salts formed would be injurious.

SENT FROM SEASPORT.
 Miss S. Mollie Percey, the Well-Known Seasport Dress-maker, Gives her Experience of Dr. Leong's Suffering and Cure.

From the Commercial, Bangor, Maine.

The following communication has just been received from Miss S. Mollie Percey, of Seasport, Maine, where she is well and favorably known:

"I was a sufferer from constant headache all my life, frequently accompanied with nausea and sick stomach, especially before and during severe attacks. I am now thirty years of age, and as far back as I can remember I was never free from these distressing and distressing attacks, and I did not know what it was to feel well, until last winter, when, having seen so much written and heard so much spoken about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I made up my mind to see if they would do me any good. I therefore bought some of them and began to take them according to directions.

"I soon began to experience relief, and have improved ever since. I am still taking them, and shall continue so to do until I am free of the slightest symptom of my old enemy. I am a firm believer in the efficacy of Pink Pills, and I shall never be without them as they have done me so much good."

"I have recommended these pills to others, among them C. G. Coburn, who is ill of heart trouble."
 (Signed) S. M. PERCEY.
 Witness: Mrs. J. E. NICKOLS.
 Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppression, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and ashy cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excess of whatever nature. They are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medical Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Beauty of the Creole Women.
 "As you see his face," writes Ruth McEnery Stuart in an article on the Creoles, "A People Who Live Amid Romance," in the Ladies' Home Journal, "you will know that he (the Creole) is hand or father) realizes that no flower upon the lily-covered altar is half so fair or so fit for the temple's perfect adorning as his blooming wife and budding daughters, who sit in line beside him. If he does not think these things he is a dillard—or, maybe, only half Creole. Perhaps his mother was an American, or Scotch. And then—? Perhaps he would not think them because they might not be true. They would be other things, other things just as fine and good, no doubt—they might even have rare beauty of a different type—but the Creole woman is a flower. She is a magnolia or a jasmine—occasionally, a camellia—or, especially when there is a good warm drop of Spanish blood in her veins, she is a red, red rose—a rose too sweet to pass untouched but for her perfect dignity and a piquant hauteur that is as protective as any thorn upon a rose's stem.

"Properly speaking, or rather, narrowly speaking, the Creole is an American, born of French or Spanish parents, or of both, and, strictly, both parents should themselves be foreign-born, but the Creole is often only the great-great-grandson of a Creole, and some of their families of pure blood could not reach the mother country without going back through three or four American-born generations."

Sleepless Fish and Insects.
 The experts in the different branches of the sciences are now pretty well agreed that there are several species of fish, reptiles and insects which never sleep during their stay in this world. Among the fish it is now positively known that the pike, the salmon and the goldfish never sleep at all. Also that there are several others of the fish family that never sleep more than a few minutes during a month, and which take no rest whatever during the breeding season. There are dozens of species of flies (mostly tropical) which never indulge in slumber, and from three to five species of serpents on each of the continents which the naturalists have never yet been able to catch napping.

Some years ago a theory founded on the observations of Leuwenhoek, Sir John Lubbock and others was to the effect that the ant is another of the insects that are never caught asleep. At that time (1874) the result of these observations excited considerable comment, and it was declared to be "the only exception known in the animal world to the general rule that sleep is a necessary consequence of labor." More extended observations, however, have proven that there are several exceptions to the general rule of periodical slumber in the animal creation.—ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC.

Where the Will-o'-the-Wisp is Seen.
 The American who would tell the west European that he had never seen a Juch of Lantra, or will-o'-the-wisp, would not be believed. In Ireland, Normandy and Schleswig-Holstein the ignis fatuus is so frequent a phenomenon that it is known to old and young by dozens of familiar names, and even further south, in the French lands and on the lower Danube, there are districts where it is almost impossible to cross a swamp after the sunset of a rainy day without seeing a score of fen-fires, as they are called, skipping about in various directions.
